ARE THEY DOOMED? — In five years, apartment houses for 150-200 Army families could replace these stately old homes around the parade ground in Fort Baker, according to the commanding general of the Sixth Army who is looking to the Marin fort as a site for future housing for personnel at the Presidio of San Francisco.

Sixth Army May Build Houses At Fort Baker

Plans Alarm Marin Conservationists

By PAT ANGLE

The commanding general of the Sixth Army has decided that any housing needed for personnel working at the Presidio of San Francisco should be built at Fort Baker.

Lt. Gen. Stanley R. (Swede) Larsen on Wednesday signed a "gentleman's agreement" to that effect with Mayor Joseph L. Alioto of San Francisco and promised he would recommend that no new housing be constructed on the Presidio.

In selecting Fort Baker, the general toog cognizance of demand in San Francisco that open space at the Presidio be preserved, but it alarmed officials and conservationists who are hoping to see scenic lands at Marin's forts turned into a regional park.

Construction of the Western Institute of Medical Research near the base's Letterman Hospital, scheduled to take place in the next five years, will require living quarters for 150 to 200 families, according to the general.

And, unless space can be found in existing housing on the Presidio, General Larsen said the units will be constructed on Fort Baker, at least if he has any say in the matter.

The general's disclosure raised concern that future development at Fort Baker could jeopardise the proposed Golden Gate National Recreation Area planned for the fort lands in the future.

But Col. P. Lee Mason, Sixth Army public information officer, said the construction, if it is needed, should have no effect on the dreams of a regional park along the Marin headlands.

The colonel said any future park could only include those lands not being used by the military and indicated the Army has no plans to abandon operations at Fort Baker.

Ray B. Hunter, chief deputy director of the State Parks and Recreation Department, took a different view. "It has always been our understanding that the forts would all be phased out of military operation in the future," Hunter said.

He added: "We feel this property is too valuable to be diverted into a housing development and have received reports that Walter J. Hickel, secretary of the Interior is pushing for the Golden Gate National Recreation Area, to include the forts and the Presidio."

Col. Mason said the Sixth Army's first recommendation would be that any new housing on Baker be constructed around the parade ground, replacing pre-World War II houses which are uneconomical to maintain because of their age. "It appears now, because of the paucity of funds, that any new housing would be multiple dwelling units," he said.

"It's about time people of this country relizes the Army is not the bad guy," Colonel Mason said, indicating any new con-

'ROUGH UP' STORIES

Prosecution In Daly Case Rests

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The prosecution in the murder trial of Frank J. Thurber concluded its case in superior court yesterday with testimony by two witnesses: a Soledad Prison inmate who said he was hired by Thurber to beat up Allan W. Daly and a deaf mute who attacked a key defense argument.

The Soledad prisoner was the second witness in six days of testimony to tell the court that Thurber had offered him money to "rough up" Daly, in Independent-Journal employee.

Daly was fatally shot July 4 in his San Francisco home by two youths, both 17 and both, like Thurber, residents of San Bruno. The two, Richard A. Wamsley and Larry G. Rutherford were sentenced to long terms with the California Youth Authority after confessing the crime.

Wamsley has testified that the attack, which resulted in Daly's death 12 days later, was masterminded by Thurber, 45-year-old member of the Mailers Union, charged with murder, conspiracy, robbery and burglary.

The deaf mute, Lupe Mercado, who lives across the street from Thurber, testified through an interpreter that he saw Wamsley and another San Bruno youth, Walter Peterson, making firebombs in the garage of Thurber's home in June.

His testimony attacked a defense argument that the invasion of Daly's home July 4 was planned and carried out by Wamsley and Rutherford alone and that Thurber was not involved.

Defense attorney Nathan Cohn had suggested that the youths were not responsible for firebombing of Daly's home June 15 and 16.

Cohn said evidence would show that the boys read newspaper accounts of the firebombings and decided they could safely rob the I-J employee because suspicion would fall on San Francisco Typographical Union 21, on strike against the newspaper since Jan. 7.

Wamsley testified Tuesday that the firebombings were done at the request of Thurber, and Mercado's silent testimony yesterday was introduced to support his story.

The Soledad inmate, Wayne Cavelli, 23, testified yesterday he was offered $300 and was paid $100 of it in advance in May to beat up Daly "bad enough to put him in the hospital."

Wednesday, James Thomas Turner Jr., a carpenter now living in South Carolina testified that a man later identified as Thurber offered him money to "rough up" a man who "was going in on the job, crossing the picket line or something."

Cavelli, serving time for forgery, said yesterday he had agreed to Thurber's offer, but he did not explain why he did not carry out the beating.

Wearing a gray prison jacket, several sizes too small for him, Cavelli slouched in the witness stand as he told his story.

Last May, he said, Thurber went to Cavelli's Pacifica home and "told me he had a job he wanted me to do and he'd pay me $300."

"He wanted some man beat up bad enough for him to be put in the hospital," Cavelli testified.

After he agreed to the deal, Cavelli said, Thurber drove him to San Francisco where the two of them sat for about an hour and drank beer in a car driven by Thurber and parked up the street from the Daly residence.

They were waiting for Daly, Cavelli said, but they didn't see him. They then drove to the San Francisco Newspaper Printing Co., where Thurber worked, and Thurber went into the building to pick up his paycheck, Cavelli said.

When Thurber returned to the car, "he said he had told someone that it was agreed that I

Manson On Stand; Tells Philosophy

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Charles Manson took the witness stand outside the presence of the jury at the Tate murder trial today and said that society should realize the reason that "children came at them with knives" was because they had rejected their children.

In a rambling account without any questions being asked or objections raised, the 36-year-old hippie cult leader launched into an exposition of his philosophy and that of the "family."

"You people think with your mind but that's not the way I do it," Manson said.

"I've spent my life in jail. I've stayed a child while you have grown up.

"I don't judge anyone, I judge only myself and I'm content with myself. You want to put me in a penitentiary but that is nothing. You kicked me out of the last one. I didn't want to go. I liked it there."

"And then children come at you with knives. You told them what to do. I didn't tell them. They're the children that you didn't want and I took them on my garbage dump."

The sensational appearance of Manson in the case came after the three young women codefendants — Susan Atkins, Leslie Van Houten and Patricia Krenwinkel—had informed the court they wished to take the stand and confess in detail to the seven Tate-LaBianca slayings.

Superior Court Judge Charles H. Older ruled however that the three young women would have to tell their story first outside of the presence of the jury so that it could be determined whether it was admissible under the law.

Susan Atkins and Patricia Krenwinkel both insisted they wished to tell their story only before a jury and at that point Manson said he was prepared

LEAD STANDARD SET

Pollution Agency Adopts Nation's Toughest Limit

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — The nation's toughest limit on poisonous atmospheric lead — in California almost entirely the product of some 12 million vehicles — was set yesterday by the state Air Resources Board.

The unanimous board vote came after a six-hour, nonstop hearing on the limit, with a formidable array of experts offering contradictory opinions on whether the limit was needed.

Claims by medical experts hired by the producers of lead that no health hazard was involved were contradicted by experts outside the industry.

One such opponent of the industry experts went so far as to say that many of the unspecified "everyday, nagging complaints of our population" may be the result of air pollution.

The board brushed aside industry objections that cutting most lead out of gasoline will require its replacement with cancer-producing aromatics to maintain octane ratings high enough for most existing vehicles. Aromatics also will be limited in future board action, its members indicated.

The board also sharply cut back the maximum emissions allowed from trucks, buses and other vehicles over 6,000 pounds. The new limits on such heavy duty vehicles will cut their emissions 65 per cent by 1973, and halve them again by 1975.

The practical effect of the crackdown on lead remained unclear since the board has no authority to regulate the composition of fuel. The board next must translate its new standard of 1.5 micrograms per cubic meter into what emission limit will be needed to cleanse the air of enough lead to meet the standard.

John A. Maga, the board's executive officer, told the Independent-Journal that the emission limit may prove too difficult to meet with a tailpipe control. If so, he said, the Legislature would have to be asked to limit sharply the amount of lead in fuel. He declined to guess whether such legislation will be needed, insisting that development of such an exhaust device was "conceivable."

Maga had in mind what happened last March when the board asked the Legislature to order that lead be eliminated entirely from gasoline by 1977.

The Legislature failed to pass any of the bills designed to meet that deadline.

There would be two differences this time, however, if the new standard requires legislation. First, it would involve eliminating most, but not all lead from gasoline, unlike last year's attempt. And second, the new standard was based on the board's finding that health effects require the standard.

Last year's request to the Legislature was based on the claim by automotive manufac-

U.N. Again Bars Peking, But Vote Is First Majority Count

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)— The U.N. General Assembly today barred Communist China from the United Nations for another year. But for the first time in 20 years of trying Peking won a majority vote.

Backer of the move to give Peking the seat now held by Nationalist China were jubilant and predicted the Peking regime would be seated next year when the matter comes to a vote again.

The United States blocked Peking's admission this year by once gain winning approval of a resolution declaring the seating of Red China an "important question" requiring a two-thirds vote.

The American resolution passed by a vote of 65 to 52 with seven abstentions.

On the actual vote whether to seat Peking or Taipei, the vote for Peking was 51 with 49 votes against and 25 abstensions—short of the two-thirds majority.

Such pro-Peking groups as Albania confidently predicted the United States would not be able to impose the two-thirds majority rule again next year.

The closest Peking came to winning a majority came in 1965 when the General Assembly registered a 47-47 tie vote that rejected the move to seat Peking.

Ambassador Mohammed Yazid of Algeria, one of the principal pro-Peking envoys, said today's upset vote meant Peking was sure to win next year.

Immediately after the voting, Tunisia made a formal move toward a "two-China" policy that would seat both Peking and the Nationalist regime.

Ambassador Ralid Driss proposed that the assembly vote to put the China representation item on the 1971 agenda and ask Secretary General Thant in the meantime to seek a "possible solution for the presence of Taiwan."

Last year Communist China received 48 votes, and Nationalist China 56 votes. There were 21 abstensions.

In 19 previous votes, mainland China could manage no better than a 47-47 tie, achieved in the 1965 balloting. Last year's vote was 56-48 in favor of Taiwan on the expulsion vote, with the General Assembly registering 71-48 on the resolution to require a two-thirds margin.

Ambassador Liu Chieh of Nationalist China ended the formal debate Thursday by renewing Taiwan's 14-year-old offer for a plebiscite in Mainland China to determine whether the people want the Nationalists to represent them in the United Nations.

"Would Peking allow such a

PHILOSOPHER

A man whose philosophy enables him to endure anything — even his own philosophy.

Mrs. Thoresen Found Innocent Of Slaying

FRESNO, Calif. (UPI)—A jury of seven men and five women today found Louise Thoresen innocent of all charges in the slaying of her millionaire husband, who died when she pumped five bullets into his nude body from one of the weapons in his private arsenal.

The jury deliberated almost 11 hours through most of the night before concluding that Mrs. Thoresen was acting in self defense when she killed William E. Thoresen III, 33-year-old heir to a Chicago steel fortune, in their bedroom last June 10.

She was motionless as the verdict was read but then went over to hug her parents.

During the 14-day trial, the willowy Mrs. Thoresen, 34, testified that Thoresen had sadistically stabbed her in the buttocks with a knife, tortured her with a whip and made her write "suicide" notes before trying to shove a lethal dose of pills down her throat. Colored slides of her bruised and cut body were shown to the jury.

"William Thoresen was a madman," defense attorney Kenneth Devaney said in his final summation. "He was a sick man, a depraved man. He was a deadly, murderous man."

In the final prosecution argument, deputy district attorney Stephen Henry said of the defendant: "As bad as he was, as bad as you think he was, you don't have the right to shoot him." The prosecution contended Thoresen was asleep when he was shot and not rising from the bed to attack Mrs. Thoresen, as she testified.

Mrs. Thoresen testified that on the night before she shot Thoresen he disclosed that he

Policeman Describes Riot As 'Hand-To-Hand Combat'

I-J Special Report

FAIRFIELD — The confrontation between police and demonstrators outside the Independent-Journal Feb. 14 was described today as "hand-to-hand combat" by a San Rafael police officer.

Sgt. Phillip Green, the ninth prosecution witness in the trial of seven men arrested during the Valentine's Day violence, testified he saw demonstrators "using picket signs to strike blows against police officers."

Green also said he witnessed one of the defendants, 20-year-old Terry Lansing of Berkeley, strike Officer Donald Rose of the San Rafael police on the shoulder with a picket sign handle, breaking it, and then throw the rest of the handle into Rose's face.

Green then identified Lansing in court and the youth responded with a blushing smile. The youth is charged with assault on a police officer, resisting arrest and various other counts stemming from the violent demonstration, which was called in support of San Francisco Typographical Union 21, on strike against the I-J.

Green testified he arrested Lansing with a flying tackle aft-

Controversial Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The House has passed a bill designed to cut down the flow of cheap imported shoes, textiles and other goods coming into the country —a move that would be the first reversal of a free trade policy the United States has followed since World War II.

But the trade bill, the most controversial legislation of its type since the Depression, was a long way from becoming law —if it ever does.

The Senate will take it up next month, in the closing weeks of the lame-duck session. It may become so loaded down with other import-stopping devices in the Senate that it may never reach President Nixon's desk.

Panther Standoff

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)— Police Superintendent Clarence Giarrusso withdrew 150 police Thursday as they moved into a housing project to arrest barricaded Black Panthers. Giarrusso said he wanted to avoid "a bloodbath."

The Panthers have established a fortified headquarters in the Desire housing project where they live rent free. The city claims this violates the trespassing laws and ordered between 5 and 15 Panthers arrested.

Giarrusso ordered the withdrawal as the heavily armed police squad, facing massive support for the Panthers in the project, closed in on their headquarters.

Giarrusso negotiated a 24-hour "cooling off" period to give the Panthers time to challenge the trespass law in the courts.

43 Vacant Seats

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If President Nixon seeks a way to reward Republicans who made good but unsuccessful attempts to win or retain office in the recent election, he might turn to the federal courts. A check today showed there are 43 vacant seats on the lower federal courts.

Such jobs would be available as well for any member of Nixon's Cabinet or White House staff who may be on his way out, although that possibility is less likely.

Most of the judiciary openings exist because of a law passed by Congress earlier this year providing for 61 additional judgeships in federal district courts.

Many of the seats created by the law have been filled, but others have opened up because of retirements or other circumstances. There are vacancies in 36 district court seats and seven circuit courts of appeal seats.

Jaundice Fatalities

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The U.S. Public Health Service says it is investigating an outbreak of jaundice among persons on Capitol Hill who were taking an antituberculosis drug.

Eight persons have contracted jaundice —a symptom of liver disease —including two newsmen who died this week. All were among some 2,000 persons who chose to take the drug Isoniazid following an outbreak of tuberculosis at the beginning of this year.

Isoniazid has proved an effective antituberculosis drug for two decades, but it produces side effects in 5 to 10 per cent of those taking it. One of the more rare side effects is liver disease.

Arkansas Twisters

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI)— Tornadoes and tornadic winds whirled trailer houses in the air and blew down homes and barns in northern and eastern Arkansas Thursday, injuring 30 persons, none seriously.

The heaviest damage was in southeast Arkansas. A tornado mowed a four-mile path near the communities of Oak Forest and Moro, destroying or heavily damaging 11 homes.

Another storm twisted power line poles in the Red Hill community, causing $50,000 damage according to Arkansas Per and Light Co. officials. A state policeman estimated $10,000 damage in Red Hill and Hollowell where house trailers were flipped over and several buildings demaged.

Pot Roast

TIJUANA, Mexico (UPI)— Mexican authorities staged what they call a "pot roast" Thursday and burned 10 tons of marijuana and dangerous drugs seized in the past five months.

MARSHAL DEAD — Soviet Marshal Andrei I. Yeremenko died yesterday in Moscow at the age of 78. Israel Warns Peace Talks 'Not In Bag'

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

An Israeli cabinet minister said tonight Israel will return to the Middle East peace talks only when conditions are right and that Israeli participation still "is not in the bag."

The statement in Tel Aviv came from Israel Galili, a minister without portfolio who is responsible for information and who is a close confidante of Premier Golda Meir. His statement came in an interview with the army radio station on its news magazine program.

"Political observers will not be in error if they suppose that in principle we are prepared to take part in the Jarring talks (U.N. mediator Gunnar Jarring) but will be sorely mistaken if they support that our participation is in the bag, without the creation of conditions that would warrant such participation," he said.

Galili said he saw no contradiction in two statements issued in Washington this week —that the United States is allocating $500 million to Israel for arms purchases and that the United States has not abandoned the 1969 plan by Secretary of State William P. Rogers calling for Israeli withdrawal from occupied Arab territory.

$369 Round-Trip Offered To GIs

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The United Service Club, a nonprofit organization set up in 1969, says it will offer GIs getting leave from Vietnam a $369 round-trip air fare to the United States at Christmas.

The rate, the club said, is a little more than half the standard GI fare of $692.30 from Saigon to Oakland, Calif. Arrangements will be made for extending the service to other sections of the country, the club said.

Red Tank Threat Seen In Cambodia

SAIGON (UPI)—Field commanders reported today that South Vietnamese troops have uncovered evidence the Communists have as many as 15 Soviet-built tanks operating in northeastern Cambodia and may be preparing to use them in the war.

The officers said the discoveries were made by elements of a 6,000-man South Vietnamese task force operating about 12 miles inside Cambodia in an area 200 miles northeast of Phnom Penh.

The officers speculated the Communists may be preparing to use the tanks in Cambodia to counter South Vietnamese armored thrusts across the border. The South Vietnamese armor is much lighter and could not stand up against the T34 tanks.

Intelligence data gathere since the start of the new operation Monday indicated as many as 15 T34 tanks were hidden in the Bo Kheo forests. Other officers reported evidence of tank presence, including tank tracks not far from a bunker complex where South Vietnamese troops uncovered a 254-ton cache of 85mm shells in underground bunkers.

The shells, found Tuesday, could be used by T34 tanks or could be fired from field and antiaircraft pieces, officers said.

South Vietnamese troops also located what appeared to be a parking area for six tanks, some of it underground, and spare parts believed to be for the tanks. In addition, the troops also reported hearing the tanks in the deep forests near Highway 19.

The U.S. and South Vietnamese Commands in Saigon reported 23 shelling attacks in the 72-hour period ending at 8 a.m. today, only one of them against an American position.

Nineteen South Vietnamese were wounded when four rounds of 82mm mortar fire hit the Thanh Tri district town.

Man Charged In Bank Of America Extortion

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— FBI agents charged a suburban real estate appraiser Thursday with trying to extort $100,000 from the Bank of America and said they were trying to learn if he was involved with a suspicious fire in the bank's international headquarters.

Battista D. Pietrelli, 46, of Daly City held his head in his hands and wept as he was arraigned before U.S. Commissioner Richard Goldsmith who set bail at $50,000 and scheduled a hearing for Nov. 30.

Arden F. Keith, the FBI agent who filed the complaint, attached an affidavit saying an extortionist claimed in a telephone call to have started the 35th floor blaze in the bank headquarters Wednesday.

Pietrelli was under FBI surveillance before the fire because of a series of calls threatening to bomb the world's largest commercial bank. An agent reported seeing him walk out of the 52-story headquarters building four minutes before the blaze was reported.

His arrest came that same day as a bank official followed telephoned instructions from an extortionist.

Michael Peterson, a bank officer, was told to load a white cash bag with $100,000 and throw it from a moving automobile off an elevated freeway.

FBI agents, watching as the bag was thrown from the Embarcadero Freeway onto Drumm Street, reported that Pierrelli drove an automobile over the bag which had fallen near a fire plug.

Agents waited briefly to see if Pietrelli would pick up the bag but said they arrested him when a passing citizen objected to a car parked near a fire plug and called police.

The fire damaged the 34th and 35th floors of the bank building, biggest skyscraper in the west, although no one was injured. The broker's office estimated its damage at $100,000.

Nader Warning On Asbestos Pollution

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ralph Nader has urged the Food and Drug Administration to warn art teachers not to mix powdered asbestos with water and wallpaper paste to make "clay" for their students.

"Under prolonged use in rooms with air conditioning or closed ventilation systems this practice could result in severe asbestos pollution," Nader said Thursday. Asbestos dust can cause lung damage.

Official Toll In Pakistan: 148,000

DACCA, East Pakistan (UPI) —U.S. Army troops and helicopters arrived today and British navy ships were on the way to spearhead rescue operations to save survivors of last week's deadly cyclone and tidal waves.

The Pakistani government put the official confirmed death toll at more than 148,000, but unofficial estimates indicated the number of victims might eventually top 500,000.

U.S. cargo planes began unloading rescue supplies and American UH1 (Huey) helicopters arrived to fly the items to out-of-the-way, stricken areas.

The U.S. Army sent four helicopters from the states and two from Nepal to Pakistan today and shipped in a contingent of 25 soldiers from Fort Bragg, N.C., to help in rescue operations.

The soldiers planned to move south in helicopters Saturday to the coastal area devastated by the deadly wind and water a week ago.

Antelope rely mainly on their keen eyesight to warn them of danger.

Mooncrawler Dodges Deep Lunar Crater

MOSCOW (UPI) — Russia's lunar buggy dodged a deep crater and chugged up a steep hill today in increasingly challenging explorations to "prepare conditions for man's presence, and perhaps even life, on the moon."

The official news agency Tass said Lunokhod 1 traveled 90 yards today during a 4-hour, 25-minute trip through the Sea of Rains.

The robot explorer has traveled a total of 217 yards since landing on the moon last Tuesday.

"As a result of Lunokhod's maneuvers, it is now 125 meters (137 yards) away from the landing stage of Luna 17," Tass said. Luna 17 was the ship that brought Lunokhod to the moon.

"At certain parts of the journey the inclination of the surface reached 14 degrees," Tass said. "Lunokhod also came across quite a deep crater in its path which was successfully avoided by its operators."

The steepest previous hills faced by the vehicle were about 10 degrees, according to earlier Tass reports.

Tass said Lunokhod was sampling and evaluating lunar soil beneath its chassis by means of an X-ray and spectrometer as well as a "stamping device" punched into the ground.

Dr. Georgy Petrov, director of the Soviet Space Research Institute, said Lunokhod I was the first of a series of mechanical explorers with the goal of examining the moon from top to bottom.

"Man has already stepped on the moon surface," he said. "In time representatives of various branches of sciences will be able to visit the moon and even more remote celestial bodies. People will also fly to the moon simply as tourists."

"However, before this can happen, the moon will be thoroughly investigated by automatic device such as Lunokhod I. They will prepare conditions for man's presence, and perhaps even life, on the moon."

Medi-Cal Care In Middle Level

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The state today announced plans to put into effect a new "middle level" of out-of-home care for certain Medi-Cal patients now in nursing homes.

The state Department of Health Care Services said the plan means that some nursing home patients who don't need constant medical attention will be transferred to non-nursing facilities.

The 55,000 Medi-Cal recipients currently in nursing homes are being "surveyed" by special review teams to determine whether they actually belong there, a department spokesman said.

The department administers the $1 billion-a-year-plus Medi-Cal program for the medically indigent in California.

The department said it will adopt regulations and rates Dec. 1 for the proposed new "middle level" of care for the elderly. It said the revision will fill "the gap between homes that provide no nursing care and those that provide it around the clock."

The proposed maximum monthly rate which the non-medical home would charge per patient would be $305. The state Department of Public Health will license the intermediate care facilities.

Dr. Earl Brian, department director, said the new level is aimed at nursing home patients who don't have "an illness or disability which requires intensive nursing services provided by nursing homes."

The Medi-Cal spokesman said special "medical-social review teams" of two nurses, two medical social workers and a physician currently are checking nursing home patients to determine "whether those persons rightly belong in an intermediate care facility rather than a nursing home."

The patient's own physician first must concur before a patient is moved to another facility, he said.

"We're not going to move anybody until there's a place for him," he said, noting that the program will become operational early in 1972.

Brian said $225 million in Medi-Cal funds currently are earmarked for nursing home care and added that the new "proposed rate is designed to assure that nursing home care is available to those who need it."

"Medi-Cal is not going to pay for the cost of running nursing homes that were built in the wrong time or in the wrong place," he said. "We are not picking up the tab for operating costs that are too high because the facility is inefficient and Medi-Cal is not going to pay what someone thinks is fair."

The agency also called a public hearing for Dec. 15-16 to adopt regulations cutting back rates from $14 to $13.54 a day for nursing home patients.

The hearing is the result of a court order obtained by the California Association of Nursing Homes to hold a public hearing.

The court prohibited the department from establishing rates negotiated with the industry without such a hearing.

Greyhound Status In Mill Valley

Greyhound lines is not considering building a new depot in Mill Valley because "the revenue doesn't warrant it," a Greyhound official said yesterday.

William P. Wescott, director of customer relations, said the firm would relocate to an existing building if Mill Valley cancels the company's lease on the bus depot in Lytton Square. The city owns the depot and adjacent parking lot.

Wescott said it would be impractical to build a new terminal at Sunnyside and Miller avenues as suggested by Mill Valley City Council Tuesday when it refused to extend Greyhound's lease, which expired Wednesday

Pauling Says Vitamin Cures Common Cold

STANFORD (UPI) — Nobel prize winner Linus Pauling says in a new book Vitamin C is the cure for the common cold.

"The natural, essential food ascorbic acid (Vitamin C), taken in the right amounts at the right time, would prevent most of these colds from developing and would in most cases greatly decrease the intensity of the symptoms in those that do develop," Pauling says.

Pauling's book, "Vitamin C and the Common Cold," said ascorbic acid has been around since 1928, when it was developed by Dr. Albert Szent-Gyorgyi.

Nevertheless, Pauling said, Americans spend about half a billion dollars a year on cold medicines which "do not prevent the colds. They may decrease somewhat the misery of the cold, but they also do harm, because of their toxicity and side effects."

Pauling said colds are caused by viruses which circulate ceaselessly throughout the world. If the incidence could be decreased enough, colds would die out, "as smallpox has in the British Isles."

Pauling, only man in history to win two Nobel Prizes, has become interested in the field of vitamins. He is currently researching the effect of vitamin deficiencies on mental illness.

He said last year that since he started his research, he had been taking 3,000 milligrams of Vitamin C a day for five years and hadn't had a cold since.

Pauling said there has been a "fallacious" feeling that the intake of Vitamin C should be kept as low as possible. These worries do not apply to Vitamin C, he said, because it is not a drug and is not toxic.

"Another factor has probably been the lack of interest of the drug companies in a natural substance that is available at a low price and cannot be patented," he said.

Pauling won the Nobel Prize for chemistry in 1954 for his work on the structure of the protein molecule, and the Nobel Peace Prize in 1962 for his championing of the nuclear test ban treaty.

Marijuana Hearing

A preliminary hearing was set yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for Dec. 17 for Mark Robert Topper and Eugenia Henriette Polos, both of Novato, who are charged with growing and possessing marijuana on Oct. 14.

Child Center Fund Asked Of County

The Marin Mental Health Advisory Board has recommended that the Marin County Board of Supervisors allocate up to $30,000 this fiscal year to keep the Marin Child Development Center from folding.

The recommendation, along with a suggestion that the center become a county program in 1917-72, must also be approved by the Marin Hospital District Board, according to mental health chairman Peter W. Palmer.

Palmer said funds accumulated since allocation for four posts as yet unfilled, at the Community Mental Health Center will cover the cost if the supervisors and the hospital district board agree.

Supervisors had ordered that any new program must be funded at the expense of existing programs already financed by the county.

The child development center which has a capacity of 30 children, but now handles 21, according to Palmer, had been funded by private foundation funds which have been exhausted.

The Marin Mental Health Advisory board also recommended:

NEW PROGRAMS — Establishing a residential treatment center for alcoholics, a psychiatric day care center for children, a methadone program for heroin users, and vocational and social programs for the mentally retarded.

FIVE-YEAR PLAN — Approving the group's five-year plan listing goals by health service as required by the state.

GROUP THERAPY — Increasing the proportion of group to individual therapy at the Community Mental Health Center.

The Most Exciting Headache News In Years!

Doctors' Tests In Treating Nervous Tension Headaches Now Made Public

Non-Narcotic Tablet (that needs no prescription) Proves Just As Effective As The Expensive, Leading Pain-Relief Prescription Of Doctors.

If you're one of the many who get tense, nervous headaches, these latest tests by doctors should be of the greatest importance.

In recent medical tests doctors proved a famous tablet that needs no prescription gives the same complete headache relief as the expensive, leading prescription of doctors.

These doctors' tests proved, beyond a doubt, that Anacin is just as effective to relieve tension headaches, yet Anacin needs no prescription and is far more economical.

With Anacin, headache pain and its nervous tension vanish in minutes. Despite its strength, Anacin is not narcotic. You can take it without getting dizzy or an upset stomach.

Next time take powerful, fast-acting Anacin. Anacin Tablets give the same complete headache pain relief as the leading prescription product for which doctors wrote 21 million prescriptions last year.

Indians Begin Second Year On Alcatraz

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A hardy band of young Indians today began their second year on rocks, desolate Alcatraz Island — symbolic home of a militant "red power" movement that has known few successes.

Their tribal elders will help them celebrate the first anniversary of the invasion of the former federal penitentiary with traditional Indian ceremonies this weekend.

The occupants—who number somewhere between 20 and 130, depending on whom you ask—still hold the 12-acre island in San Francisco Bay which they seized in a raid on Nov. 20, 1969.

Federal officials have made no effort to remove them—and say they won't until the White House and Congress decide what's to be done with Alcatraz.

The successful invasion by 89 men, women and children came 10 days after a half-in-jest first attempt to capture the island by 14 college-age men and women.

And it spawned a series of similar "red power" land seizures, particularly in northern California.

The Indians also took over a deserted U. S. Army communications center about 60 miles away near the University of California at Davis. The federally owned, 640-acre site is in the process of being transferred to the university.

But attempts to take Lassen Volcanic National Park and federal and private campgrounds around it plus a fort in Seattle and Ellis Island in New York harbor all failed.

The Pit River Indians have made repeated attempts to capture part of 5,000 square miles of northern California which they claim was stolen by the government in 1853. An attempt to invade Lassen Park was turned back last June, but forced closure of the park for several days.

Indians were arrested later for trespassing at a private campground, in the park and in a national forest. A violent melee erupted last month when authorities drove 100 Indians out of a camp they had seized near Burney. A federal court has rejected the Pit River tribe's legal claims.

The Alcatraz seizure began in earnest when the invaders issued a proclamation demanding immediate title to the federally owned island, which was abandoned when the famous prison was closed in 1963. Federal authorities rejected the demands, but made no effort to remove the Indians.

The occupants were mostly young people, although a few families with children joined them.

Herbert Spencer, English philosopher (1820-1903), coined the phrase "survival of the fittest."

Moscow Working On Pollution

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Kremlin, once boastful of Moscow's cleanliness, has noticed the blue cloud overhead and is beginning anti-pollution work.

The Kremlin now has said "nyet" to city planners' ideas of locating more worker apartment buildings near factories — plants with pollution potential are to be located out of town.

The Soviets are also trying out buses with low-pollution engines. But with a new Fiat-built auto plant sent to turn out 600,000 cars a year, Moscow's pollution woe may be only beginning.

Huge U.S. High-Lift Hydro Pump Being Installed In Kern County

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Installation of the largest capacity high-lift hydro pump ever manufactured in the United States is now in progress at the state water project's Edmonston Pumping Plant in Kern County.

Based at the foot of the Tehachapi Mountains, the 400,000-pound pump, scheduled for initial operation by June of 1971, will be joined by 10 others between now and 1972 to lift project water 2,000 feet over the mountains into the reservoirs of Castaic and Cedar Springs dams.

The Edmonston Pumping Plant is a key link in the $2.8 billion State Water Project, according to the department of water resources, and the last in a series of pumping stations from the Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta to the Tehachapi Mountains.

Each of the Edmonston pumps will have the capacity to lift some 142,000 gallons of water per minute 2,000 feet, when driven by 80,000-horsepower motors.

The pumps are approximately 31 feet tall and 16 feet in diameter. Size and weight of the pumps requires much special equipment for installation, and special assemblies had to be manufactured to lower workmen inside the pumps for internal assembly.

Additional pumps will be installed following the June test operations scheduled for the present pump, and four will be in operation by October to pump water into the east and west branches of the California Aqueduct.

Construction of the project, in operation since 1962, is estimated to be 96 per cent complete. Only 4 per cent of the construction contracts are still to be awarded to assure deliveries of water to Southern California by 1973.

Interviews Set

A special meeting to interview applicants for town manager will be held at 7 p.m. Monday in the Town Hall Council Chambers by the Corte Madera Town Council, according to Mayor Edward W. Colthurst.

turers that lead would have to be eliminated entirely from gasoline for future smog devices to work. This may still prove to be true, of course, but is unrelated to the health effects of lead.

Before yesterday's action, the state had no standard for the amount of lead that should be permitted in the air. Only three other states, Pennsylvania, New Mexico and Montana have lead standards, but all of them are much higher, five micrograms, and apply only to smelters, not vehicles.

Dr. Milton Feldstein, director of technical services for the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District, said that the average level of lead in the Bay Area was about 2.5 micrograms, with peaks at about 3.8.

The new standard will require a 60 per cent cut in lead emissions in the Bay Area, Feldstein estimated. He said that 95 per cent of the atmospheric lead in the region came from vehicles.

The only moment of doubt among board memebrs on the lead standard was voiced by Walter R. Schmid of Orange County, who asked if it could be met. A strong affirmative came from the board's chairman, Dr. A. J. Haagen-Smit: "If we set the standard, it will be met."

Opposition to the standard came almost entirely from the Ethyl Corp., the world's largest manufacturer of lead additives. Doctors and health experts it hired testified that the principal source of lead in humans was diet, and that atmospheric lead did not contribute significantly to lead in the soil.

Ethyl suggested that the standard be set at 10 micrograms per cubic meter, a limit branded by Haagen-Smith as "rather ludicrous."

The biggest gun firing for the standard of 1.5 finally adopted by the board was Dr. Joshua Lederberg, Nobel Prize winner and genetics professor at Stanford University Medical School. He cited lead as a unique environmental hazard because it accumulates in humans in an "almost irreversible" process.

Lederberg declared that Ethyl's claim that lead had not been shown to be harmful to health was "simply false." He cited studies he said showed lead can cause cancer of the kidney, leukemia, congenital malformations and chromosome breakage.

He also cited a study at Dartmouth that found a reduction in life span and vitality from long-term exposure to lead at low doses.

As for Ethyl's assertion that lead accumulates harmlessly in human bones, Lederberg testified that this accumulation of lead in bones is "mobilized back into the body circulation during times of stress and calcium demand (for example, milk production during the nursing period.)"

Dr. R. Cree Pillsbury of the Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association of Santa Clara-San Benito counties, testified that about 30 per cent of the lead that is inhaled is "taken into the body." He said that this was the "major source of lead in the human body."

Pillsbury noted that many of his patients "have nonspecific complaints such as headaches, gastrointestinal upsets, leg cramps, malaise and anemia. In a vast majority of these people no cause can be found for these complaints.

"These complaints are identical to the symptoms that people with clinical lead poisoning experience, and I suggest to you that many of the everyday nagging complaints of our population may be related to poisoning from air pollution."

Another threat posed by lead was cited by Dr. Sumner M. Kalman, pharmacology professor at Stanford University Medical School. A new study of wild oat plants in rural areas of the state found high accumulations of lead, raising the threat that "people who eat meat will be subjected to additional risk" because cattle feed on such contaminated grain, he said.

Dr. Frederic A. Lane of Bakersfield, citing industry's claim that lead had not been proven harmful to human health, said that "when the day comes that lead in our air can be shown to be beneficial to living things, I will insist that we hook up an exhaust device from autos to our home ventilation system and pipe lead in with the Muzak."

paid a man to murder his brother in 1965 and later shot the triggerman "to put him out of his misery" after beating him with a hammer.

At the time of his death, William Thoresen was appealing a 1969 conviction for illegal possession of 77 tons of weapons, including machineguns, mortars, mines and grenades.

The officers who found his naked, bullet-riddled body discovered $20,000 worth of military weapons and explosives inside the house.

Mrs. Thoresen, who said she planned to try to commit her husband, testified she picked up a .38-caliber revolver from a dresser top and "fired it until I couldn't fire it any more" when Thoresen said he was going to kill her.

Few people were in the courtroom shortly before 4 a.m. when the jury returned to deliver its verdict. Mrs. Thoresen sat still as it was read and then ran over to embrace her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Banich of Chicago, at the rail.

"Mama, mama . . . dady, daddy," she said softly. "Thank you so much for coming out here to be with me."

Her attorney said to her: "Louise, old thing, we've been through a lot."

She said, "Thank you, it's all over now."

to testify under any circumstances.

Dressed in blue prison denims and speaking in a calm, clear voice, Manson began by saying he hoped he could clarify the things that had been said at the 19-week trial about the "family" and about "any conspiracy to commit murder." He said he never had killed anyone and had never ordered anyone else to kill someone.

His attorney, Irving Kanarek, rose sputtering to his feet to protest Manson's testifying. The slender defendant spoke into a hand microphone saying: "Sit down, stupid."

plebiscite?" Liu asked. "I think not. The Communists are perfectly aware that if such a plebiscite were to take place they would be repudiated by an overwhelming majority of the Chinese people."

Soviet Ambassador Jacob A. Malik, in a surprise move, made an appeal Thursday for the seating of Peking which he said would restore the "usurped" rights of Communist China.

Though the Soviet Union always has voted in favor of seating Communist China, it had not spoken in behalf of it for two years.

Wrecks Send Novatans To Hospitals

Two Novato residents were hospitalized yesterday when their car plunged through a fence on Highway 101 in San Rafael and struck a utility pole.

Three other persons received less serious injuries in two other accidents, according to the California Highway Patrol.

The the first wreck, Esther L. Thompson, 57, of 6 Doris Avenue, was treated at Marin General Hospital for lacerations of both knees and transferred to Hamilton Air Force Base Hospital.

A passenger, James Rush, 33, of 2112 Vineyard Road, was listed in fair condition today at Marin General with a fractured right hip and dislocated left shoulder.

Officers said Mrs. Thompson was driving north on Highway 101 near the junction of Highway 17 at 2:20 p.m. when her brakes failed. She pulled the emergency brake and her car swerved into the center divider railing, crossed the freeway, went through a fence, crossed Francisco Boulevard and hit an iron utility pole.

In the second mishap, Joy P. O'Leary, 44, of 48 Edward Avenue, San Rafael, eastbound on North San Pedro Road near East Meriam Avenue at 1:35 p.m., ran off the road and struck three trees, demolishing her car.

Officers said she was taken to Marin General for treatment of unspecified minor injuries, but a hospital spokesman had no record of her.

Two young Novato women were injured yesterday at 9:20 p.m. when their cars collided at Ignacio Boulevard and Entrada Drive, Ignacio.

Mary C. Convis, 18, of 2 Drakewood Lane, was treated at Novato General Hospital for shoulder pain. Cynthia A. Hiatt, 23, of 12 Saint Johns Court, was treated for scrapes.

A Legal Fee Of $1.275 Million

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The attorney who brought a taxpayers' suit against firms benefitting from the property assessment practices of convicted bribe taker Russell Wolden has won a $1,275,000 legal fee.

Retired Appellate Justice A. F. Bray awarded attorney Morris Lowenthal of San Francisco 85 per cent of the $1.5 million fee. The remainder went to John M. Thorpe of Hayward, co-counsel in the class action.

The fee was based on a percentage formula applied to more than $10 million in underassessed taxes recovered for the city by the suit. The attorneys filed the action after Wolden, the city assessor, was convicted of accepting bribes from taxpayers.

Sixth Army May Build Houses At Fort Baker

struction of Fort Baker will require congressional approval. "Congress pulls the strings; anything the army does is done at the direction of Congress."

He said the research center, already approved by the Department of Defense, is the only major project approved for the Presidio with no provision for housing included in the funding, but could not explain the omission.

The colonel praised Larsen's agreement with San Francisco which will provide for a complete exchange of information between the city and the Army on all plans for use of the Presidio and its immediate surrounding area.

"For the first time he (Larsen) has told this region he is going to save open space at the Presidio," Mason said. When asked whether the general also planned to save open space at the forts, the public information officer said "the only place there seems to be concern about open space — at least that I'm aware of, is at the Presidio."

"You have here a situation of vested interest of a small group of people," Mason explained. "People in San Francisco are delighted to see no housing built in San Francisco and people in Marin County would like to see any construction done at the Presidio."

But Mason made it clear San Franciscans are like to be delighted by the future Army building plans: "... This post belongs to Swede Larsen, and, as he would say: 'there ain't anybody going to build no houses on my post.' "

Marin officials reacted with predictable dismay to General Larsen's statements. "This is a reversal of their (the Sixth Army's) stand," said Supervisor Michael Wornum, "and I'm obviously against it; that land should be turned into a headlands park. I certainly hope the Army will change back to its original plans to eventually move out of the forts."

Pierre W. Joseke, county director of parks and recreation, said he felt the Army, and everyone else, should huild housing closer to where people work, so they can walk to work. "We can't keep following a trend of putting more commuters on the Golden Gate Bridge, of putting people somewhere just because there is space."

Joske said he was confident the Army could find room for housing at the Presidio "because there is a lot of room on the Presidio; a lot of buildings and things they have there are becoming obsolete and could be removed."

TRIAL

er the youth had broken free from the grasp of another San Rafael police officer, Scott Nelson.

The Solano County Superior Court trial resumed yesterday after a one-day recess, which was called because two of the defendants were injured in a massive chain reaction auto accident Tuesday on Interstate 80 near Crockett.

Alvis Dean Bailey, 43, of San Francisco suffered a fractured right leg and hobbled into court yesterday on crutches. Charles Porter Vance, 56, also of San Francisco suffered internal injuries.

Testimony resumed yesterday afternoon, although Judge William E. Jensen was first hesitant about restarting the trial because the two defendants appeared to be in considerable pain.

Officer Nelson testified yesterday he saw Lansing strike a policeman on the head with a picket stick, but could not identify the officer.

Under cross-examination, Nelson admitted he had told the Marin County Grand Jury, which indicted the seven defendants, that the officer struck was Rose. But he said he would stick to yesterday's version that he could not identify the officer.

Retarded Girl's Father Is Dead

ARCADIA, Calif. (UPI) — Clark Wiley, 70, was found fatally shot today shortly before he was due for arraignment with his wife on charges they kept their 13-year-old daughter a prisoner for most of her life.

First indications were that Wiley had taken his own life.

Wiley and his estranged wife Irene, 50, were arrested Monday after welfare workers found the child, Susan, in their home. She was unable to walk, wore diapers and had retarded muscle development. Authorities said the child had the mental capacity of a 12 to 18-month old infant.

Woman Reports She's Attacked

A 21-year-old San Rafael college student was raped in her apartment shortly after noon yesterday, police reported.

The woman had just returned from classes to her Canal Street apartment when she was overpowered by a man described as in his late 20s, five feet seven inches tall, of slight build, with sandy hair and several days growth of beard. He was wearing a grey pendleton shirt and brown slacks, police reported.

After he left, werning her not to call police for 10 minutes, she wriggled free of her nylon stocking bindings and called police. There was no evidence of forced entry into the apartment, and the woman had no idea of how he gained entry, police reported.

THURBER

was going to beat up Allan Daly," Cavelli told the court.

He said that Thurber gave him two photos of Daly as well as his address and the make, model and license number of his car.

Under cross-examination by Cohn, Cavelli denied that he had been promised anything for testifying or that he thought it would help him at Soledad. Actually, he indicated, he was worse off because of his testimony.

"I think that my life is in danger now," he said.

The deaf mute Mercado, who lives, as did Wamsley, at the home of the mother of Wamsley's girl friend across the street from Thurber, spoke slowly and deliberately with his hands as he testified yesterday.

Interpreter Grace Flanagan repeated aloud the questions she was translating into sign language for Mercado as well as his answers.

Mercado testified he saw Wamsley and Peterson leave Thurber's home one night in June and walk across the street to the garage of the home where he and Wamsley lived.

He said he saw Wamsley and Peterson make three firebombs, pouring gasoline in bottles and then stuffing in rags for fuses.

Mercado further testified that on July 3, the night before Daly was shot, he saw Thurber's son, Michael, switch license plates on Thurber's car.

Wamsley said in court Tuesday that it was Michael who drove Thurber, Rutherford and himself in Thurber's car to Daly's home the night of the fatal shooting.

The trial recessed yesterday until Monday when Cohn, who had said earlier he doubted he would present any defense witnesses, said he would have witnesses ready to testify.

Dutton's Wife Asks Dissolution

The wife of University of California Regent Frederick G. Dutton yesterday asked dissolution of their 24-year marriage.

A petition filed by June Dutton in Marin Superior Court stated the couple was married in 1946 and separated Jan. 1 of this year.

There are three children, Christopher, 20; Lisa, 16; and Eve, 10. The family home is in Sausalito.

Dutton, an attorney, was appointed to the university board in 1962 by Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

ABAG Call To Form Regional Government

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — The president of the Association of Bay Area Governments last night urged that it try again for legislation to convert the association into a regional governmental agency for the nine-county area.

Sonoma County Supervisor Ignazio A. Vella, speaking at ABAG's semiannual general assembly at His Lordship's Restaurant, urged that the legislation be "reflective of the Bay Area."

He did not detail his proposal, but apparently had in mind the same sort of legislation that has been killed several times in Sacramento. The association, comprised of elected city and county officials, wants any regional agency created by the state to be run by elected city and county officials.

Critics of ABAG, however, citing its difficulties in resolving competing interests among its members, generally favor a new agency run by officials elected specifically for that job by the voters.

Vella said that ABAG should be willing to settle for legislation which, " if not perfect, will be a beginning that we can vote for now and amend as needed."

He cautioned against giving "so much credence to the various ideas of pressure groups, local politics, special interest groups, the far left and far right, and lately, ecology nd environment."

Vella declared that "there are real problems of real people living in real, taxpaying communities in the real Bay Area that want solutions." If their problems are not resolved, he said. the state will impose solutions and bypass local government.

Delegates also viewed a 20-minute color slide show designed to explain the association. The show, which ranged from pictures of ABAG meetings to flowers, cost ABAG $1,-200.

Lucas Valley Man Gets MTC Slot

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — E. Jack Schoop of Lucas Valley, chief planner of the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission, was elected yesterday as the commission's representative on the new Metropolitan Transportation Commission.

Schoop was nominated by BCDC chairman Melvin Lane, and given a unanimous vote for the position.

The MTC created by the Legislature, will have strong powers over transportation in the Bay Area. It will pass on all applications for state and federal funds, and will draw a plan to guide all future regional transportation in the nine-county area.

Schoop's selection may mean that three Marin residents will be on the 19-member MTC, although the county will have only one official representative, A. W. Gatov of Kentfield. Supervisor John F. McInnis is expected to represent the Association of Bay Area Governments on the MTC.

Feb. 8 Trial For Gnoss Arson Case

William Phillip Nance, 20, of Santa Rosa, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to charges of burglary and arson stemming from the $250,-000 fire Oct. 12 at Gnoss Field.

A jury trial was set for the week of Feb. 8 for Nance, who is free on $1,000 bail.

Officers have said that Nance and three other youths went to the airport to steal gasoline. Upon discovering they had to go inside a building to release a lock on a gas pump, they reportedly stole a tape recorder and radio and then set the building on fire to cover fingerprints.

The other youths are still being held in Sonoma County on other charges.

Marin City CSD Board Split On Brooks Issue

A rift developed in the Marin City Community Services District last night as that group considered whether to demand that charges be brought against former executive director, Harold B. Brooks Jr.

Brooks had filed a claim for back pay against the district, but director Doretha Mitchell said, "I feel we ought to be the ones who bring charges. He took us to the cleaners."

She was joined in her demand for immediate legal action against Brooks by director Arthur Miller, but the rest of the board adopted a wait-and-see attitude.

"Had Mr. Brooks forged my name, I would have done anything I could to clear my name," Miller said to Chairman Frank Phillips.

Brooks resigned, then was fired in September, before his resignation took effect, amid a storm of charges that he had misused a credit card for major repairs and tires for his private auto and had refunded a $120 deposit although the board had ordered him not to.

"He used your name to draw out $100 for his personal use from CSD funds," Mrs. Mitchell told Phillips. Hwever, Phillips said prosecution is up to the county counsel's office.

Director C. J. Williams said he would not vote for legal action because the board gave Brooks the power he abused. Director Michael Washington made no comment.

The board ordered an audit of district funds when it fired Brooks, but declined to aim court action at him. However, Brooks has since filed a claim against the board to recover back pay and vacation reimbursement.

Board secretary Reba Mason said $308 was withheld from Brooks pay to reimburse the district for money allegedly misused.

Brooks is claiming $600, according to Thomas G. Hendricks of the county counsel's office. Hendricks said today the claim will be considered by the state Labor Commissioner Dec. 18, and predicted the district would be upheld.

Hendricks said the district is gathering evidence and "if that evidence indicates a course of action against Mr. Brooks then we would file it."

When it became clear last night that the board would not initiate action against its Brooks, Otis Gains, an employee of the district, sarcastically declared he should get some additional cash with impunity.

"What is fair for one is fair for me," he said. "Tomorrow morning I am going to charge $100 to the Community Services District."

Mrs. Mitchell took the opposite tack, threatening a citizen's suit if the board refuses to act.

The Marin City CSD Board Also:

ABATEMENT — Was told by Capt. Lee Gary Booker of the Marin County Fire Department that abatement proceedings to force the Tamalpais High School District to clean up its 34-acre plot in Marin City are now being processed through the sheriff's department. He suggested that the district might be willing to sell its holdings for a nominal fee to avoid the $1,800 cleanup cost.

Deadline For College Entry

Students planning to apply for admission to California state colleges next fall should apply by Nov. 30 to receive maximum consideration, according to Dr. David Kagan, coordinator of admission services.

Filings received after Nov. 30 will be considered on a first-come, first-serve basis at colleges unfilled by the November applicants, Kagan said.

Applications should be mailed only to the college of first choice with alternate choices listed, Kagan said. Prospects should include a $20 processing fee, Kagan said.

Bronze Stars To Dogs Confirmed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Army confirmed a St. Louis Post-Dispatch story Friday that two dogs were listed as Bronze Star medal winners in Vietnam last month.

A military announcement in Vietnam on the ordering of Bronze Star awards for 21 recipients contained two fictitious names with serial numbers which turned out to be dogs.

"Authorities in Vietnam have determined that the order was a hoax and it has been revoked," a Defense Department spokesman said.

TWA Announces 130 Layoffs

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Trans World Airlines will dismiss 130 of its employes in the San Francisco Bay area before the end of the year as part of a worldwide cutback, the financially-troubled firm announced today.

TWA, which lost $37 million during the first 10 months of the year, reported Thursday it would lay off between 1,500 and 2,000 employes around the world before Jan. 1.

The airline has 2,800 workers in the Bay Area.

ITU Seeks Court Ban On So-Called 'Harassment'

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO—A labor attorney yesterday sought a federal court order to end what he claimed was harassment of union men picketing the Independent-Journal, by federal marshals.

U. S. District Court Judge William T. Sweigert told attorney Cecil Poole he would rule on the request Monday. The judge then resumed hearing civil and criminal contempt charges against four Bay Area locals and several union officials.

The National Labor Relations Board has charged the unions with conducting an illegal secondary boycott against Independent-Journal advertisers in violation of a court order.

Poole complained about incidents Nov. 10 and Nov. 16. He claimed a U. S. marshall and two photographers invaded a motel room occupied by two union men, in an attempt to serve an injunction order. Poole also said marshals demanded identification from pickets.

Poole is one of two attorneys representing International Typographical Union 21 — which has been on strike against the I-J since Jan. 7 — and Teamsters Local 85. Attorneys for Teamsters Local 70 and Longshoremen's Local 10 said they were not aware of Poole's plans to seek the restraining order against the marshals.

During the contempt hearings yesterday, NLRB attorneys put four witnesses on the stand.

San Rafael Police Officer Frederick G. Castillo, a former member of Teamsters Local 85, said he had seen the local's secretary, Tim Richardson, among the pickets in San Rafael.

Castillo told of seeing pickets stop trucks near Highway 101 and elsewhere in San Rafael, and identified several pickets from photographs.

The officer also said he checked out the license of one car involved in halting trucks. He said it was registered to Ricardo Garcia, a teamster who was arrested Oct. 26 on a charge of stinkbombing the I-J and is to stand trial in March.

Other witnesses included truck drivers James Matteri and George Williams, who said pickets told them to get out of San Rafael without delivering to stores, and Petrini's Market clerk Jerome P. Garcia. He said pickets at the Greenbrae store told him so long as the store advertised in the I-J it "would have problems."

NLRB attorneys yesterday pointed out to Judge Sweigert that the unions and officers named in the complaint have not obeyed subpoenas to produce certain records. Union attorneys tried to quash the orders on grounds of constitutional protection against self-incrimination. The judge said he would rule on the matter when the contempt hearing resumes Monday.

Prison, Fines For Anti-U.S. Incident

OEREBRO, Sweden (UPI) — One youth was sentenced to prison and five were fined today for an egg throwing demonstration last May against U.S. Ambassador Dr. Jerome H. Holland.

Originally 13 leftist youths, most of them Viet Cong supporters organized in the Swedish branch of the South Vietnamese National Liberation Front (NLF), were charged.

Five others earlier were fined and two were acquitted by the court today.

One of those sentenced today, a 24-year old man, was ordered to prison for two months for molesting the ambassador, while the other five defendants were fined for hindering the free movement of a representative of a foreign power.

'Crash Pad' Raid Nets Pot Suspect

A raiding party of eight law enforcement officers, armed with a search warrant for LSD and marijuana, entered a San Anselmo "crash pad" yesterday making one arrest and confiscating numerous bags of suspected marijuana and marijuana seeds.

Officers said they entered the residence at 33 Sequoia Drive at about 3:55 p.m. with a warrant signed by Marin Superior Court Judge E. Warren McGuire and found four plastic bags, a tobacco can and cigar box filled with the suspected weed and its seeds.

Lt. G. Albert Howenstein, who led the raid, said officers also found hypodermic syringes and needles, pills suspected as dangerous drugs and several roach holders.

Howenstein, whose force of five San Anselmo officers was accompanied by two county narcotics agents, said Lorie Joy Towers, 21, of Forest Hills, New York, was arrested on suspicion of possessing dangerous drugs. She was booked into Marin County Jail where she was held in lieu of $1,250 bail to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Howenstein said the two-story home has been occupied by six adults and two children for several months. He said a 6-year-old girl found there yesterday was turned over to the probation department for protective custody.

Four other adults were at the home when raided, Howenstein said, but were not arrested.

Willis Correction

Former Sausalito patrolman Stephen M. Willis said today he testified at a hearing Wednesday that he did not consider suspended Sgt. Thomas H. Zink a competent policeman. The Independent Journal yesterday reported that Willis testified he considered Zink competent.

Officer Files $2 Million Suit

Petaluma Policeman Vilho Ahola, who was shot last year in the line of duty, has filed a $2 million lawsuit against his convicted assailant, Walter Lee Hale.

Ahola, 42, was shot by Hale on Nov. 7 when he went to the Hale home at 718 I Street to help Mrs. Hale remove personal belongings. Ahola remains paralyzed from the waist down.

Hale, 51, was convicted of assault on a police officer and was sentenced on March 13 to one-to-15 years in state prison. Ahola is seeking $1 million in general damages and $1 million in punitive damages.

Pay Hike For Cotati Police Chief

A 5 per cent salary increase for the chief of police and hiring three replacements for the public works department were approved last night by the Cotati City Council.

The salary raise for Chief Tony Locarini will bring his salary to $801 per month, which the council felt was more in line with the prevailing wage scale for small town police chiefs.

In hiring three public works employees, the council filled vacancies created by two firings and a resignation.

Hired were Philip Binkley at a salary of $491 per month and Gary Newport and Louis Bruce at $465 per month.

They will replace Ronald Santero and John Rossi who were fired by City Mgr. Paul W. Salfren for poor work records and Raymond Butler, who resigned in protest over the firings.

The Cotati City Council also:

HOUSING — Asked for more information on a plan by the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors to establish a county-wide housing authority.

ADVISORS — Reported that 13 applications had been received for service on the Citizens Planning Advisory Committee and that more would be welcome.

PLANNING — Heard a report that Herbert Miller and Robert Frazier had applied for appointment to the planning commission vacancy created by the resignation of John Harte. Salfen said more applicants are sought and that the planning commission will interview the applicants at a closed meeting on Nov. 24 and make a recommendation to the council.

Forty photographs snapped by photography students at Sir Francis Drake High School are on display in the Marin County Library at the Civic Center.

County Librarian Bruce D. Bajema announced that the exhibit will be open to the public from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday until the end of this month.

The photographs, in black and white, are the work of 26 students of instructor Reynolds Crutchfield of San Anselmo.

They depict Marin County scenery and people, with emphasis on light and shadows.

"The young photographers are demonstrating the way in which they interpret their environment," said Crutchfield. "The photographs are outstanding for high school students."

Elks Oppose Socialist Meeting At Berkeley

Use of University of California facilities for a Young Socialist Alliance "revolution conference" was protested yesterday by San Rafael Lodge 1108, B.P.O. Elks.

The lodge sent telegrams to Gov. Ronald Reagan and U.C. president Charles J. Hitch declaring:

"We vehemently object to the use of facilities at University of California, Berkeley, by the Young Socialist Alliance on Nov. 20, 21, 22 whereat methods of revolution and other anti-government subjects will be taught. Patriotic taxpayers provide and finance the university and its operation and do not intend it to aid and abet those seeking the overthrow of our system of government."

Lt. Col. Walter S. Filler, Elks Americanism chairman, said the telegram was approved by the lodge membership.

Highlight of the three-day Young Socialist Alliance conference on the U.S. Berkeley campus is to be an address at 1 p.m. Sunday by Peter Camejo on "How To Make a Revolution in the United States."

$406,000 Heist By Three Gunmen

NEW YORK (UPI)—Three men hijacked an armored truck today after pistol-whipping two guards and escaped with an estimated $406,000, police reported.

When one guard left the diner and returned to the truck the three holdup men appeared. Both guards were struck on the head with pistols.

The holdup men then sped off in the truck with the two guards leaving the third guard at the diner.

Tax Spenders Play Games To Conceal True Cost

Those in high places sometimes become very clever at explaining away what happens to the taxpayer's money. They become adept at making an expense appear to be a saving, in camouflaging an increase as a cut.

And when they do cut expenses somewhere, they make a great to-do over it, calling attention to how hard they are trying to protect the taxpayer — but carefully not mentioning that while a dollar was saved on one item, many additional dollars were spent somewhere else.

ONE OF THEIR FAVORITE devices is the "constant dollar."

This one is trotted out regularly by those who play financial sleight-of-hand games with the people's money at the federal level. The game there has become so complicated that nobody really knows from one day to the next how many billions the government is in debt, and frequently not even whether it is operating for the moment with funds on hand or a deficit.

The "constant dollar" is a device by which the sleight-of-hand players peg the dollar on the basis of its purchasing power in some past year (it is seldom the same year twice in this game). They can then show with what they pretend to be perfect logic that the increase in spending is really not so great because it is in terms of "inflated dollars," and if it were compared with the "constant dollars" would be found to be really insignificant.

THE LATEST to play this game is Melvin Laird, secretary of defense.

When President Nixon some months back announced "deep cuts" in defense spending, there were some (including this newspaper) who pointed out that the cuts didn't look very deep compared with the total arms outlay.

Such criticism apparently disturbs Secretary Laird. He has been reported as being unable to convince Congress and public that he really has trimmed his department's spending to the bone.

TO PROVE THAT he has, he trotted out the "constant dollar" — based, this time, on the buying power of the dollar in 1964. Chalmers M. Roberts of the Washington Post wrote a long article about Laird's explanation, arriving at the conclusion that, based on the 1964 "constant dollar," the defense cuts were the greatest since 1950.

There were charts with the article —produced by the Defense Department. These showed that arms spending at the peak of the Vietnam War in 1968 was roughly equal to that at the peak of World War II in 1945, and this year is down some $5 billion from that peak, a matter of roughly 7 per cent.

But in terms of 1964 "constant dollars," the 1968 peak was shown as little more than half that of 1945 (long before the 1964 "constant dollar" existed, of course), and, by a piece of mathematical legerdemain, the cuts in "constant dollars" have been not 7 per cent but more like 20 per cent!

THE TROUBLE with this nonsense is that it takes no cognizance of the fact that it is federal spending itself which is largely responsible for the decline in the dollar's buying power. If the Defense Department spends $80 billion, naturally each dollar will not buy as much as if it spent only half that — because credit must be inflated out of proportion to supply the additional funds. And as each defense dollar buys less, so does each dollar the taxpayer earns.

And if the tax bite for defense is decreased by 7 per cent, it does the poor taxpayer no good whatever to be told that if his dollars were converted to some non-existent value, the cut would be 20 per cent.

What We All Can Do

It is not enough to pass laws and think that in this way we are going to solve the ecological crisis.

If we are to reverse the current trend toward the further deterioration of our environment in Marin, as elsewhere, we must practice as well as preach ecological awareness. In other words, we will have to change our habits and revamp our way of life.

Some of the things we can do are: don't litter; make what you buy last longer; use fewer disposable products; take it easy on detergents and hard pesticides; avoid plastics; turn in bottles, cans and newspapers for recycling; compost organic garbage and plant a vegetable garden; be sparing in your use of autos and electricity.

In short, don't waste.

Court Refusal Merely Shows Fault In State Welfare Setup

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Refusal of the United States Supreme Court to hear a California case involving supplemental welfare to people who are working, but not earning enough to support their families, only goes to show that something is radically wrong with the welfare setup in this state.

This is not a question of too much, too often and too liberal; it is rather a question of discrimination against the welfare recipient who's really trying to work his way out of a bad situation.

QUITE OBVIOUSLY, the court's refusal to hear the case does nothing on behalf of the people who are making an effort to disengage themselves from the system. Rather, it is a legal block designed to promote the usage of welfare rather than save tax money for the taxpayer.

In other words, the welfare rules and laws put a penalty on effort to earn a living rather than mooch it from the state.

Even attorneys who took the case to the Supreme Court feel the plaintiffs have been "had" in that the effect of the court action is "to perpetuate a welfare system that is counterproductive."

Yet under the circumstances, and the wording of the state law and rules and regulations, the supreme court could do little else than refuse the case.

IT IS UP to the legislature to reform the welfare program to the extent that the state would be able to supplement earnings with subsidy in case earnings aren't enough.

Fred Gillette, welfare director of Santa Clara County, which was involved in the case, pointed out that a family with 10 children would qualify for $664 per month in welfare, while a worker at full-time on a 40-hour week might earn about $250 per month.

But instead of permitting the state to make up the difference of $414, the welfare system tells the recipient he must give up the job or lose the entire welfare benefit.

Not only the welfare recipient has a stake in this plan, but also every taxpayer.

WHEN THE WELFARE program was instituted back in the 1930s, the general idea was to help people help themselves. But today, the opposite appears to be the rule.

Welfare reform is really a necessity if the system is to survive, and assistance given to the really needy.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Courts' Approach To Drunken Driving

I read with interest your Nov. 6 editorial "A Step Toward Solving Drunken Driver Problem." Several years ago the municipal court joined forces with the Marin Institute in order that positive nonpunitive steps could be taken to control the drunk driving problem in this county. Consequently, for the past five years, Marin has had a program which is at least comparable to "DWI Phoenix." In 1965, in order to assure the liaison I accepted a place on the board of the Marin Institute which has worked closely with the probation department to create a court school for drinking offenders and to provide a treatment facility. Initially all persons convicted of drunk driving were directed to attend the court school which not only took an educational approach but also endeavored to identify the alcoholic.

Unhappily, the impact was not as great as we hoped for and a statistical check in 1969 reflected that during the period of January through September of '68 there were 417 drunk driver filings while for the same period in 1969 there were 707 such filings, an increase of approximately seventy per cent over a one year period. Upon inquiry of the C.H.P. I was advised that approximately the same number of officers were on the highway during both periods and, therefore, the increase could not be attributed to increased enforcement.

Thus, it became perfectly clear that our education approach, while possibly deterring a second offense, did not have a significant impact on potential first offenders and, further, could not assure that persons identified as alcoholics would receive treatment. Moreover, many of the persons sent to the court school were found to have acute emotional problems (frequently not characterized by alcoholism) and education alone was obviously inadequate to deal with those persons.

As a result, we initiated our present program of referring first offense drunk drivers to the probation department for pre-sentence reports. This was based upon a judgment that before pronouncing sentence in such cases the court had an obligation to find out more about the first offender and to attempt to identify those who suffer from alcoholism, emotional problems, (etc.) . . .

In my opinion this is more effective than reliance upon the method described in "DWI Phoenix" which does not assure that those persons who have serious emotional or medical problems, such as alcoholism, will be exposed to a community based treatment program. Programs that rely too heavily on education are doomed to failure . . .

I doubt the assertion of the A.A.A. Foundation for Traffic Safety that "acute alcoholism is present in the majority of persons responsible for fatal automobile crashes. . . I have had occasion to examine D.M.V. records of some of those who are responsible for fatal automobile crashes in which drinking is involved. Most of such persons have no record whatsoever for drunk driving and there is no statistic of which I am aware to establish that the drinking drivers who are responsible for highway fatalities have ever been before a court on any related charge. This is probably why our arrest figures increase rather than decrease.

I believe that the Marin Courts are doing a good job with the drunk drivers that come before them. We have not learned how to deter the first offender and I am beginning to wonder whether we shouldn't go the route of some European countries and impose short terms of confinement as well as driving suspensions for all persons convicted of drunk driving, first offenders or not . . .

In any event, I wanted you to know that the Judges of the municipal court have endeavored to deal with this problem in a responsible and constructive fashion with an approach that is both punitive and therapeutic . . .

Election Causes Environment Worry

Coastal California from Marin County north is an area of extraordinary beauty. It has a magnificent coast, tree-covered mountains, fertile valleys, the great redwood forests, numerous as-yet uncontaminated rivers in addition to the finest wine growing region in the country.

But the results of the recent election, from the congressional level to the Sonoma County supervisors make one wonder if the fortunate residents of this area are aware of their heritage.

The election results indicate that a majority don't give a damn if Sonoma County becomes another Santa Clara County, our subdivisions another Westlake. Or if we lose all of our great rivers to Southern California's golf courses and swimming pools. It would appear that the candidates who were aware of the potentials for intelligent development or alternative disaster were all decisively defeated.

If ways to preserve and enchance the 1st Congressional District cannot be effected through political officeholders, other peaceful but persuasive ways must be found. If not, a lot of people will wake up one of these days and wonder what happened.

THE DRUMMONDS

Nixon Will Not Pursue Purge –Needs Liberal Republican Votes

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

A Republican President joined in shooting down a Republican senator, Charles Goodell of New York.

And now other liberal GOP senators, who voted against President Nixon in the past, are uncertain whether they will be targets of a similar purge in 1972.

We report with knowledge that President Nixon does not intend to try to purge any Republican member of Congress, Senate or House, nor to feud with any GOP liberals if they vote against him.

There is a good reason to accept this declaration of intent. President Nixon certainly sounded as though he meant it when he discussed this matter in conversation the other day.

MORE THAN GOOD intentions support his words.

Namely: The President needs the Republican liberal senators more than they need him.

He needs their votes for a wide range of domestic legislation which he wants during the next two years. Two immediate examples —the family assistance plan, the keystone of the Nixon welfare reform, and the farm bill.

The Senate's failure to act on Nixon's farm legislation acutely hurt Republican candidates in the Middle West and may well have cost the GOP several House seats bceause of farm voter dissatisfaction.

AND PRESIDENT NIXON is also going to need the help of the Republican moderates and their votes in the 1972 presidential campaign.

They are politically strong in states where the President has been weak — such as Senators Clifford Case in New Jersey, Jacob Javits in New York, Edward Brooke in Massachusetts, Charles Percy in Illinois, and Robert Griffin in Michigan. They are all up for re-election in '72 and their willingness to campaign earnestly for Nixon — as well as for themselves — could well be crucial.

Their willingness to do so will depend on whether Mr. Nixon does three things: extends a cordial hand to the Republican liberals in the Senate, heeds their views in the formulation of his legislative programs and convinces them that purge is no longer his tactic.

PRESIDENT NIXON saw a wholly exceptional situation in the New York Senate race this year.

His view was that Goodell lagged from the beginning, had no chance of winning, that Conservative Party candidate James Buckley could win with a little extra help and would give the President considerable needed support in the Senate.

The Republican Senate liberals — and some GOP conservatives like Gordon Allott and Peter Dominick of Colorado — didn't see it that way. They saw the President's desertion of Goodell as a future peril to themselves and as an attempt to tell Republican senators they must not vote against the President very often or face White House punishment at the polls.

Twenty Republican senators gave Goodell their public support in letters, and eight of them campaigned for him in New York.

THIS BREACH within the Republican Party will take time to heal. It leaves tender sores. Its after-effects are divisive. But Republican liberals we have talked with do not think it will likely happen again in the Nixon administration. They feel that President Nixon is basically a party man and that his overriding political interest requires party unity, not party purge.

The predominant evidence is that President Nixon needs the Republican liberals in the Senate and their active support to get re-elected. That should bring them together.

The Old Rules Give Way To Provide Volunteer Army

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

WASHINGTON — They didn't have go-go joints when William C. Westmoreland was a young soldier, and if they had he wouldn't have spent any money in them. He and his classmates at West Point in the 1930s were as remote from social and cultural temptations off the post as Alexander the Great's tactics are remote from the ABM controversy. And Westmoreland, by choice, was more remote than most.

When he was a junior battalion commander at Fort Bragg, N.C., in the early days of World War II, "dope" was the particular sight setting that allowed for the aiming peculiarities of an individual weapon.

Now that he is 56 and chief of staff of the whole Army, as his classmates said he would be someday, go-go and dope and acid rock and black power and a catalogue of other matters career officers would like to keep off the military reservation have forcibly entered his vocabulary.

NO SOONER than it had to — in fact, a little late — the military establishment is conceding formally that the men it must train and motivate are the same ones who man the high schools, colleges and slum streets of America. There was a time when that fact was ignored because it was possible to make different men of them, via the basic training, boot-camp method of breaking and rebuilding.

In fact, it is still possible. The pot smokers, rock fans and apprentice Panthers who come into the service today are not so superior to those of the past that they cannot be broken and rebuilt. Even now men are capable of being motivated to charge up hills for strategic reasons as obscure to them as Alexander's battle plan at Guagamela.

The trouble is, if and when they come back down the hill, they don't ship over for that extra two or four years.

THIS IS A fact of life with which military administrators have learned to live in the post-war years because for most of that time there has been the pressure of the draft to keep rifle platoons and paint-chipping details up to strength. Draftees fleshed out the Army, and the threat of being drafted inspired volunteers for it and the other services.

Now, however, the Nixon Administration has made a partly political pledge to end the draft in another two and a half years or so. That means all-volunteer armed forces. And that means things have to do a lot of changing in the next 30 months.

Thus, Westmoreland and his Navy counterpart, Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt Jr., have been making speeches and issuing directives to drum up publicity for a new, humanitarian military force in which today's students and street dudes alike might learn to feel at home.

SO WE HAVE such innovations as a real live go-go girl performing at a club right on the post at Fort Carson, Colo., and ordinary enlisted soldiers drinking hard liquor instead of beer as they watch her dance. At the same post they run a coffee house like the ones outside, and believe it or not they allow agitation against the war and the Army and whatever else occurs to the coffee drinkers there engaged.

At Fort Bragg these days, dope means the same thing it means at Lenox Avenue and 125th Street in Harlem, or at Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School in the Washington suburbs. One of Westmoreland's proteges from the old days and from Vietnam, Lt. Gen. John J. (Jumping Jack) Tolson, is the man looking dope in the face there, running a treatment, rehabilitation and education program which might serve as a useful model to civilian authorities in ghetto or suburb.

In the Navy, Zumwalt is issuing a series of "Z-grams" — directives officially sanctioning sideburns, motorcycles, overnight liberty, and myriad other changes which in the current Pentagon mood are labeled improvements.

Thus do the topbrass and braid adjust to life in the Age of Aquarius.

Bridge District Gets Permit, Then Tries To Change The Rules

On June 30, the Sausalito City Council — not without considerable hesitation — approved a permit for the Golden Gate Bridge District to operate a ferry in Sausalito.

Terms of the permit were quite explicit, and the council and city staff agonized over them for weeks, hoping to make certain Sausalito was protected and that the ferry would not have an adverse effect on the already congested town.

The council was very firm about two conditions: that the bridge district would provide a permanent northern terminal in Marinship for out-of-town commuters and a whistle stop downtown for Sausalito residents.

At least one councilman wanted to withhold permission for ferry runs to Sausalito until a northern terminal could be established, but Dale Luehring, the bridge district's general manager, said a single northern stop would not be feasible.

LUEHRING TOLD the council in April the ferry would depend on mid-day and weekend tourist traffic to avoid serious revenue losses and indicated a northern stop, away from the downtown, would not appeal to tourists.

But, before the permit was finally granted, Luehring and his staff had attended several council meetings and promised the city a Marinship terminal, to be built within three to five months of the beginning of ferry service.

During those meetings Luehring and county Supervisor Michael Wornum, a director of the bridge district, stressed the district intended to serve Sausalito with the ferry service. Residents would benefit and commuters would reap the major gains from a ferry, Wornum said again and again.

Approximately one month later a consultant hired by the bridge district came up with a report that a northern terminal was not feasible because of the cost of dredging and said two stops in Sausalito would provide problems in scheduling.

This information was not new to the bridge district because, while asking for the permit, both problems had been mentioned by district employees. The same employees assured the city council the problems could all be worked out.

NOW THE DISTRICT is asking for a single terminal in the center of Sausalito within easy walking distance of the already crowded downtown area and asking the city to forget the promise of both northern terminal and downtown stop.

In addition, the district, which had talked of providing parking in Marinship, is asking to locate some 300 parking spaces between Litho and Locust streets, only a few blocks from downtown. The 300 spaces would almost double the amount of parking available now in the city's four major downtown lots.

And, unless the bridge district has discovered some miraculous way to move cars in and out of its proposed central terminal, that much more pafking so close to downtown could only curther choke Sausalito's streets.

IT IS NO WONDER some city officials and residents — Councilmen Wyman Hicks and Stephen Fraser for example — are angry with the new poposed ferry location. Hicks, Fraser and others feel the talk of dredging problems and schedules are not the real reason for abandonment of a Marinship terminal.

They believe the terminal is not being planned in the interest of Sausalito and its commuters (about 350 commuters are using the ferry each day) but to accommodate the thousands of tourists who flock to Sausalito via the ferry.

When, at the June meeting, the council appeared wary of the bridge district and tried to put stringent conditions on the ferry operation, supervisor Wornum became exasperated. "We are not an enemy power coming in to occupy the city of Sausalito," Wornum said and pleaded with the council to trust the bridge district.

The councilmen took Wornum's advice. Maybe they are sorry they did.

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

What Happened 10 Years Ago Still Has Its Echoes Today

Fusselman

The I-J column, "Remember When?" — 10 and 20 years ago — has a wide readership. The old-timers like to be reminded and new members of the club are always interested in what went before.

Because of the many years I served, my name comes up every now and then. Last Saturday this: "Nov. 14, — Alan Bruce of Marin County administrator . . . with Supervisor William D. Fusselman saying, 'the job might be short lived.'" What a laugh!

A letted from his boss, County Administrator Donald A. Jensen, saying that he was taking another position with the state (auto emission control.) It was pretty well known that I wasn't very happy about Bruce's performance, so his pals on the board looked at me. Following my strong belief that the next in line should always be given the first consideration, I spoke up and said, "Well Alan should have a chance." Then I followed with the quote above.

HEAVY PRESSURE had been put on me to go along with firing him, but I refused to hurt a young man just getting started. However, I recommended that we abolish the position and employ a special assistant to the board. This was on the idea that boards of supervisors would do the work they were elected to do — not just collect the salary once a month for spending money.

The job was abolished by ordinance in 1961. Bruce and his pals got up a referendum. This required the board to rescind its action or hold an election for the voters to decide. We set June 5, 1962 (a general election date). After a recall in the third district, Peter Behr came on the board and one day in my absence induced Walter Castro and Bill Gnoss to go along with him and they killed the chance for the public to vote on it.

I HAVE MANY times since in this column, laid on the table for all to see and read the sad story that is going on, because of the denial of your right to vote on the proposition.

Now, last Monday in the same "Remember When?" space this: "The Marin County Board of Supervisors, by 3-2 vote rejected a proposed ordinance banning descrimination in housing. Chairman Walter R. Castro and Supervisors William D. Fusselman and William A. Gnoss made up the majority."

This was an example of what I witnessed many times over the years. The earnest, well-meaning people, who were promoting this ordinance, just hadn't done their home work. Had this ordinance they presented been passed it would have produced a more precise, definable discrimination than they claimed existed then.

THEY FELL into the same trap that others have. They believed that if the board of supervisors of the City and County of San Francisco can pass ordinances that are effective throughout the city, the board of supervisors of the County of Marin can do the same. Not so! The board in San Francisco acts as both supervisors and city councilmen. This by a special act of the legislature.

At that time we had 10 cities in Marin (Tiburon had not yet incorporated.) I told those present that the minute they presented to and had passed this same ordinance by those 10 cities, I would vote for this one on our board. We only had jurisdiction in the unincorporated areas.

Sorry about the Indians this week. Next time, no matter what comes up.

IRS Announces A Simplified 1040

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Internal Revenue Service has unveiled this year's version of the basic 1040 income tax form, claiming that it has been "simplified" once again.

The new form will consist of 24 pages, eight fewer than last year, and instructions will be included in a separate booklet, rather than printed on the back of the form itself. The service also said it would figure income tax payments and retirement credits for any taxpayer so desiring, provided he earns no more than $20,000 in salaries, wages, dividends, interest, pensions and annuities, and takes the standard deduction.

Computers: They May Have A Scary Future

HOUSTON (UPI) —Let's say, for example, a computer in the Pentagon is sending top-secret information to a computer located at a Strategic Air Command base somewhere in the Midwest.

Someone with the proper know-how can eavesdrop on the conversation and get secrets that could be vital to the security of the nation, according to one computer expert.

Or suppose organized crime moves into the computer field and begins running its embezzling operations through punch cards and high-speed tapes.

There is another possibility, according to a second expert in the field.

Computers are nice but their brains can be picked by unauthorized persons and they can be used for illegal purposes. That is the opinion of two computer experts who filed separate papers on the subject Wednesday during the fall Joint Computer Conference.

"The instances of computerized crime are relatively rare on a scale with other types of larceny but the instances could increase if precautions are not taken now," said Dr. Dennis Van Tassel of the University of California at Santa Cruz.

Dr. J. M. Carroll of the University of Western Ontario, Canada, said valuable information can be safeguarded through a system of codes to activate computers, or by programming computers to communicate in codes that would be changed periodically and decoded by inexpensive, specialized computers.

"There can be no privacy without security," Carroll said.

Van Tassel said computerized crime requires highly-skilled, technical minds, but with more persons becoming familiar with computers, the machines will be turned to criminal uses more often.

"Although most criminal uses of computers are by individuals, organized crime has not overlooked the possibilities of large payoffs through the use of computerized embezzlement," he said.

In 1968, he said, a credit card fraud cost the Diner's Club $1 million.

He said most computers are too large to steal. But he said there is a good market for stolen computer tapes, cards and discs.

"Another possible area for the computer criminal is the area of stolen computer time," Van Tassel said. "In late 1967, for example, the Chicago Board of Education accused five employes in its data processing bureau of setting up their own data processing firm while using the board's equipment during slow hours."

Carroll said new computer data systems which involve terminals through which persons can "talk" with computers miles away through telephone lines are vulnerable to electronic eavesdropping.

"We know it is because we have done it on an experimental basis," he said.

Carroll said anyone with the technical ability could set up an unauthorized terminal to bleed the computer of its knowledge or to use its time without paying for it.

Special Family Dinner Scores Hit Among Sabella's Clientele

A special family dinner at $3.95 has been drawing good attendance at Sabella's on Monday through Thrusday nights recently.

Lou Sabella describes it as a "return of the family trade which is becoming increasingly difficult to hold these days with spiraling prices."

Wholesale food prices frequently fluctuate from one week to the next, but restaurants are obliged to adjust their menu figures to the average instead of repricing them at every whim of the suppliers. Lou thinks he has solved part of this problem by making specials of some of his most popular selections when the price is right.

Thus, one time you'll find halibut champagne featured; on other occasions it may be halibut Florentine, deep sea bass, jumbo Louisiana prawns, whole turbot amandine, mahi mahi, rex sole, sandabs, red snappers provencale or something else. So far he has been lucky and hasn't had to duplicate dishes. It's a good trick if he can keep it up — but I don't think there are that many different edible varieties of seafood in the market to continue indefinitely.

Don't expect a choice of several $3.95 complete dinners when you go. They are limited to one each night. If that doesn't satisfy you, let your eye wander over the regular menu. I'm sure you'll find something appealing.

Lou has had a problem here that doesn't have to be faced to the same extent by smaller restaurants. Sabella's is a huge place, with the entire dining room exposed to public view. It may be doing an excellent evening's business and still appear to be half empty — a situation every restauranteur tries to avoid.

The family dinner has been a blessing — and it makes diners feel more comfortable knowing they have lots of company. Sabella's has always been a family-type place and the family wants to keep it that way. If you think any popular restaurateur enjoys charging high prices you're badly mistaken. It doesn't help his reputation.

That busy night manager and maitre d', who seems to be all over the place, is Mitch Vezalich, who was at Veneto's in San Francisco for 17 years. He tried to retire — but it didn't take.

WITHOUT TAKING A COMPLETE CHECK, we have been trying to sound out a few spots on Thanksgiving dinners. It appears, as usual, that quite a few places will be closed that day — perhaps more than is generally the case. But you are bound to find some openings and we'd suggest making advance reservations.

THE NEWLY OPENED Alvarado Inn at Ignacio is one place that will be open and serving from 1 to 10 p.m. Turkey dinner is $4.50 and the regular menu will be available.

Alvarado Inn got off to a good start last weekend and promises to provide both good food by chef Nello Russo and interesting times in the days ahead. You'll like the decor here and the outlook from the dining room.

BERNARD'S EXECUTIVE LOUNGE in San Rafael will serve Thanksgiving dinner from 2 to 10 p.m. Reservations are recommended, for it's not a large dining room. Turkey dinner with dressing, salad, vegetable and dessert will be $3.95. Baked Virginia ham and prime rib dinners will run $1 more.

JERRY'S FARM HOUSE at Olema reports that dinners will be served from noon to 10 p.m. Complete turkey dinner is $4.50, with a $2.25 tab for youngsters under 12. The regular menu will also be served. This includes several seafoods, barbecued chicken and steaks — so you'll have a good choice.

Look for Jerry and Agnes Bunce to get their dining room enlarged this winter, increasing its capacity by another 100 chairs. The extra space is needed, for the Farm House is one of the most popular restaurants in west Marin.

AT THE OLD VIKING in Lagunitas, not everything on the menu will be Swedish food. Turkey dinner will probably be in the $4.50 range, though the Mattssons had not determined the exact price at this writing. Other choices will include duck, short ribs and veal. Dinners are from 1 p.m.

BILL AND ADOLPH'S WEST END VILLA, San Rafael will serve Thanksgiving dinner from 3 p.m. Turkey and prime rib are the specialties of the day.

LE CHALET BASQUE in Santa Venetia usually stays open and this Thanksgiving is no exception. Dinners will be served from 4 p.m. Regular menu and also turkey will be featured. Make reservations if your party consists of four or more persons. Couples should, too, though at times can get by without it.

RUBINI'S in Fairfax is keeping to its usual custom for the Thanksgiving week by closing Monday through Thursday — opening again for business as usual on Friday night.

The banquet room here has been enjoying good patronage. Gordon Jones tells me that the second week of December (a popular time for office and group parties) is all taken up, but time is still available for the first week of the month.

FRANCHINI'S CHATEAU has completed its redecorating, but is traditionally closed on Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Niki Franchini is now running a cocktail period from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. Tuesdays through Fridays. Hot hors d'oeuvres are supplied.

ALSO AMONG THE CLOSINGS will be La Petite Auberge, San Rafael; Lin Fa Gardens at Northgate; and Peacock Gap Country Club.

Acutally Peacock Gap has given up dinners for the winter season — except for special banquets, which are being booked heavily.

SHIPWRECK PETE'S at the Sportsman's Lodge in Novato is closing — with the Lind family observing its own holiday. The Linds celebrated their first year in business here Wednesday — now I guess they're celebrating the celebration on Thanksgiving.

ALSO IN NOVATO, Cloud 5 is closing next Thursday. It has skipped Thanksgiving day dinners for the last few years.

FLAMENCO AND CLASSICAL GUITARIST Fritz Von Gluck is back at London Arms on the San Anselmo Miracle Mile, playing Saturdays from 9 p.m. and Sundays from 8 p.m.

BUD AND VIRGINIA STEINHOFF of Mill Valley, owners of the Purple Onion in San Francisco, will do a half-hour special over KPIX-TV tomorrow at 7 p.m. History of the club will be covered, along with the many personalities who got their start here. These include Ronnie Schell, Phyllis Diller, the Kingston Trio, Jim Nabors, the Smothers Brothers and Rod McKuen.

PETE CLUTE of San Anselmo and his partner jazzman Turk Murphy in Earthquake McGoon's in San Francisco will open McGoon's Magic Cellar next Tuesday.

Years ago they discovered several trunks of magic paraphernalia belonging to Carter the Great, who made headlines around the turn of the century. They have assembled most of the tricks for their bar patrons. The cellar will be open daily at 4 p.m. — but if there are 20 persons there when you visit you won't be admitted. That's the limit at one time.

Nixon Reassures San Jose Mayor

SAN JOSE (UPI) — President Nixon has written San Jose Mayor Ronald James assuring him the Oct. 29 rock and egg-throwing demonstration in San Jose "in no way reflects on the citizens of your community."

The letter was in response to a City Council statement of regret over the incident, which followed a Nixon campaign speech at the San Jose Municipal Auditorium.

"As I wrote to Joe Ridder, publisher of the San Jose Mercury and News, a few days ago, the fact the October 29 incident happened in San Jose in no way reflects on the citizens of your community or on San Jose State College," Nixon wrote James.

Nixon Service

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon has invited 390 persons, including newly elected governors and members of Congress and their families, to worship services at the White House Sunday.

FTC Gets Tough On Flammables

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) says it will make more use of its powers to seize dangerously flammable products until importers and manufacturers adhere more strictly to flammability standards.

The FTC issued its warning in conjunction with the recall of about 88,000 women's lightweight scarves Thursday.

The commission seized some 10,000 nylon scarves from a big New York importer, Berkshire Handkerchief, Inc., and stopped the sale of 78,000 others Berkshire had already sold to a chain store.

Heyerdahl Says Oil Slicks Killing Atlantic

PARIS (UPI) — Thor Heyerdahl, Norwegian leader of the Kon-Tiki and Ra expeditions told a news conference Thursday night unless men take drastic action the Atlantic Ocean will become a dead sea within five years.

Heyerdahl was in Paris to sign the French edition of his latest book "The Ra Expeditions" which tells of his two voyages from Morocco to the West Indies in papyrus boats with a multinational crew.

"We discovered that large oil slicks in the Atlantic follow exactly the same currents we followed ourselves and do not disappear but keep moving, destroying life where they are.

"Unless men take urgent measures the Atlantic will become a dead sea within five years" he said.

Heyerdahl said he is now working on the film of his Ra expedition which should be ready early next year.

SBA Head Resigns, Lists Poor Health

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI)— Hilary Sandoval Jr. announced today he has resigned as the $50,000-a-year administrator of the Small Business Administration (SBA) effective Jan. 1. He denied he is quitting because of administration pressure and said the only reason is poor health.

Sandoval, 40, has been in a hospital with a circulatory ailment, but is back home now. As SBA administrator, he achieved the highest government rank of any Mexican-American. He was appointed in February, 1969.

Areas Of Service For Rec Program

Only residents within the corporate limits of San Anselmo can participate in the proposed San Anselmo School-City recreation program, the San Anselmo School District board has decided, Supt. W. Kenneth Lowry reported yesterday.

This agreement which was reviewed by County Counsel Richard V. Godino, must now go to the city for approval, Lowry said.

The recreation agreement has been discussed between the school and the city for several months. The district had held out for inclusion of the entire school district, including the areas such as Sleepy Hollow which are outside the city limits. The board changed its mind and agreed to just the incorporated city at the meeting Tuesday night, Lowry said.

The San Anselmo School District Board Also:

SAFETY — Asked the principal of each school and a representative of each parent's club to make a traffic safety survey at each school and report after the first of next year.

LANGUAGES — Agreed to study at future meetings the foreign language program. The district now has two foreign language teachers for grades 7 and 8. The board wants some foreign language program in the lower grades, Lowry said.

RESOLUTION — Tabled indefinitely a resolution from the Tamalpais High School District asking removal of the unification election every four years.

HEALTH — Postponed from February to next September starting comprehensive health study program. The lay health committee had discussed the possibility of starting an interim program in February. By waiting until September, sex education could be added to the program.

TEXTBOOKS — Tabled for further study on dropping three textbooks which the human rights commission felt contained inaccuracies and distortions. The books are: "Land of the Free, A History of the United States," "California, Our Home," and "California, a History."

SCHOOL SITE — Discussed the possibility of the City of San Anselmo acquiring the Isabel Cook site for city use in several years.

Nerve Gas Ship

BOSTON (UPI) — The USS LeBaron Russell Briggs Jr., rusting Liberty ship which was sunk in the Atlantic with nerve gas aboard, was named for a former Harvard University dean of faculty arts and sciences who later served as president of Radcliffe College.

Bargain Light Poles For Courts

A bargain basement purchase of eight light poles for $1 from Pacific Gas and Electric Co. will speed lighting of the tennis courts at the Marinwood Recreation Center.

Recreation Director William A. Gordon reported the purchase Wednesday night to the Marinwood Parks and Recreation Commission.

He said he will get volunteer labor to erect the poles and then the lighting, which will light the tennis courts at a fraction of the cost to the district.

The Marinwood Parks and Recreation Commission also:

DRAPES — Approved buying new drapes at $170.

POOL TABLE — Decided to junk the pool table as it is too costly to repair.

HIRED — Hired John Durfee, a student, to work part time on the grounds at $187 for six weeks.

CHAIRS — Decided to ask for 50 more folding chairs in the 1971-72 fiscal budget.

MOUNTAIN - — Approved spending up to $300 for seven foot high mountain in the tiny tot lot.

POOL — Received a report that the pool had been drained, and cleaned with hydrochloric acid.

DEFERRED — Deferred until its Dec. 14 meeting, purchase of drapes, bids for janitorial work, purchase of grills, and turfing behind Quietwood.

No Decision On Waterfront Land

The Sausalito City Council remained undecided on just how to develop the city's new waterfront land after a lengthy meeting last night.

Biggest stumbling block seemed to be whether to locate a proposed new city hall at the 10-acre site, purchased with $560,000 in bond funds approved by voters in June. At a previous meeting, the council had decided to build a new library on the site east of Bridgeway between Litho and Napa streets.

Evert Heynemann of the city's planning commission said building a new city hall on the waterfront land would be a mistake because "the site has no ties to Sausalito's center and is bound to fail." He likened such a move to the building of Brazil's new capital at Brazilia, calling both "artificial locations."

He suggested instead a civic center near the location of the present city hall and including a library, recreation facilities, a plaza with fountains and perhaps a restaurant. "A place where people can come together to communicate," he said.

Mayor Alexander R. Imlay disagreed, saying that the city's growth is expected in the north. He was supported by Assistant City Mgr. Eric H. Borgwardt, who said that while the city hall's present location may be the historic center of town, the population and geographic center was nearer the waterfront site.

The issue is further complicated by the fact that only about 1.7 acres of the waterfront site is above water and suitable for building. If a city hall and proposed recreational facilities such as a youth center, swimming pool and parking space are added to the proposed library, there may not be enough land available, according to Imlay.

The mayor proposed that an architect consultant be retained to make a feasibility study of the site to see what facilities the land could support. A five-man committee to select this consultant was appointed, including councilmen Wyman Hicks and Robin Sweeny, plus one member each from the library boadrd, the planning commission and the parks and recreation department.

No further meeting on the waterfront development was to be scheduled until this committee reports back to the council in early February.

Pakistan Appeal By CARE, Red Cross Groups

The Marin Chapter of American Red Cross and the regional offices at CARE are seeking cash donations for disaster work in East Pakistan, where storms and tidal waves killed hundreds of thousands and left millions homeless on Nov. 13.

Because of the great distance and difference in cultural habits of diet and garb, the Red Cross cannot accept gifts of food or clothing, the Marin Chapter said yesterday.

Checks, marked for Pakistan Relief may be sent to the Marin Chapter, American Red Cross, 712 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael. Donations to the CARE effort should be made out to Pakistan Emergency Fund, CARE, Inc., 444 Market Street, San Francisco.

Linguistics Scholar To Speak Tuesday

Dr. Francis Utley, scholar in folklore, linguistics and medieval literature, will speak at Sonoma State College Tuesday at 11 a.m. in Ives Hall of Music.

Utley, a member of other state university's English department since 1935, will speak on the "The Rhetoric of Morality." He was a consultant on folklore and mythology for the Encyclopedia Americana from 1958 to 1965 and on literature for the Random House Dictionary of the English Language.

Salaries Of Two Teachers Corrected

The payroll department of the Tamalpais High School District reported yesterday that there were errors in the list of salaries it furnished the Independent-Journal for publication.

The salary of Pamela Dagley is $6,060, not $7,272, and Shirley Mosley's salary is $4,960, not $7,670, the district office said.

Ideas Asked On Rubbish Collections

The Homestead Valley Sanitary District, which provides a rubbish collection bin two or three times a month for residents, is seeking suggestions for an alternate method of collection.

In place of the bin, which benefits about 35 families a month, the district board has suggested a well publicized valleywide campaign twice a year, during which about 20 garbage cans of rubbish from each household could be collected.

The board will consider this suggestion and others made by the public when it meets Monday at 8:30 p.m. at Homestead Valley School.

Bands To Compete For Prize Money

Five bands will compete for $150 in prize money at a battle of the bands Saturday at 6 p.m. at Rohnert Park Junior High School.

First price of $100 and a second prize of $50 will be awarded. Each band will play for 45 minutes and winners will be picked by a written vote of the audience.

Bands competing will be Distance Dawning of Petaluma, Gladstone of Rohnert Park, the Tamalpais Three from Tamalpais High School, Crabfoot from Santa Rosa and Buckwheat from Sebastopol.

A light show by Vulcan Lite Company of Marin County will be featured in the event sponsored by the Rohnert Park Cultural Arts Commission.

Pumping Station Bid Date Is Set

The San Rafael Sanitation District board after reviewing plans and site for the Francisco Boulevard pumping station, set 5 p.m. Dec. 2 for calling for bids on the project, administrator Norris W. Rawles reported yesterday.

The board on Wednesday also set 5 p.m., Dec. 23, for opening the bids on the project, estimated at $500,000.

Rawles reported on the relocation of the force main on South San Pedro Road. The relocation will cost the district approximately $50,000, he said. Work on the road will not be done until a joint-powers agreement has been reached between the City of San Rafael and Marin County, Rawles said. It probably will not go to bid until the next year or two.

If Bayside annexes to the district, a new gravity flow sewer will be constructed by an assessment district there to connect to the relocated sewer on South San Pedro Road, Rawles reported.

Persons charged included:

Buchignani said the department handled nearly 500 other noncrime incidents ranging from 185 special assists to citizens to one vicious animal, during October.

Employment in the alcoholic beverage industry has grown 560 per cent since repeal of Prohibition.

Group To Discuss Novato Rent Prices

The newly-formed Novato Tenants Union will discuss ways to fight high rents in Novato at 7:30 p.m. today at the Economic Opportunity Council Center, 875 Grant Avenue, Novato.

Lee Payne, EOC community worker in Novato, said the union, for tenants of both public and private housing, was formed to help tenants learn their rights and act to protect them.

Recreation Deadline Is Extended

Registration for the fall and winter program of the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department has been extended to Nov. 25, A.J. Snyder Jr., parks and recreation director, said today.

Youth activities include arts and crafts, yell leading, rhythm, baton twirling, guitar lessons, modern dance, tumbling, ballet, judo and wrestling. Boys basketball will also be offered.

Adult programs include yoga, slimnastics, folk guitar, cake decorating, oil painting, beginning bridge, and holiday and decorating crafts.

Red Propaganda

BERLIN (UPI) — The Communists have opened a propaganda campaign to combat hopes of East Germans that any talks with Bonn might lead to close and friendly ties between the halves of divided Germany.

Larkspur's Town Meeting Tomorrow

A five-page fact sheet on the history, present facilities, schools and government of Larkspur will be given to Larkspur residents who attend the Larkspur Town Meeting tomorrow.

The town meeting will be held from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the Redwood High School Little Theater. It is under the guidance of Pacific Gas and Electric Co., which has sponsored Congresses for Community Progress in Novato, San Anselmo and Fairfax.

The fact sheet gives a brief history of the city, including the fact that its name was a mistake made by a botanist who thought the wild lupines were Larskpur. It has grown, according to the fact sheet, from 5,700 to approximately 8,000 people in the past 10 years. Its ultimate population is estimated at 20,000 in 1985.

Members of the city council, planning commission, park and recreation commission and library board are all listed.

The city's five parks are listed: Piper Park, Dolliver Park, William Street, Madrone Canyon and Hillview Gardens.

And city finances are sketched: the rise in revenue from $304,887 in 1958 to $1,039,957 this fiscal year.

Schools Take Part In Red Cross Drive

Public and private schools throughout Marin County are cooperating this month in a youth membership and fund drive for the Marin County Chapter of the American Red Cross, said Joanne Karlsrud, youth director.

Students are not asked for any specific amount, Mrs. Karlsrud said. This money is used for such projects as making albums showing life in America to be sent to foreign countries.

Food Wholesaler Is Limited Risk Issue

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I am considering buying Fleming Company, now selling at depressed prices. Could you please give me any information you have on this company? S.R.

A. Fleming, a food wholesaler, also operates 27 cash-and-carry warehouses and 36 supermarkets. A manufacturer of freight and refrigerator vans was acquird ine early 1970 for 200,000 Fleming shares. Members of four voluntary associations of retail grocers account for the bulk of Fleming's wholesale operations. However, the company supplies more than 1,000 other retailers on a contract basis.

Having grown at a relatively rapid pace in the early Sixites, Fleming's earnings reached a plaeau in 19699 with virtually no progress made since. A repeat of this sideways trend is likely again this year. Shares are trading at about 11x estimated 1970 earnings of 95 cents a share. While this multiple may appear low, it is average for the wholesale grocery industry.

Several factors which contributed to 1970's profit squeeze should be brought under control or eliminated next year. Although a somewhat prosaic issue, Fleming has limited downside risk, coupled with better-than-average recovery potential.

Q. Could you give me information on Lynch Corp. trading on the American Stock Exchange at about $4? I am interested in speculation. E.T.

A. After two years of deficit operations, some improvement was reported by Lynch in the nine-month period ended Spt. 30, 1970. Sales, which were off 16 per cent for the nine months, dropped only 6 per cent in the third quarter.

Income of $12,000, equal to one cent a share, was reported for the first three quarters, compared with a deficit of 27 cents a share in the like 1969 period. Under a $5.5 million financing agreement made with Curtiss-Wright in 1964, that firm acquired virtual control of Lynch.

Conversion of notes and warrants held by Curtiss would increase Lynch's common stock by 78 per cent. Reduced demand for home entertainment equipment produced by one of Lynch's three divisions has hurt company sales. I wouldn't expect much immediate or dynamic price action here.

Japan Reluctant To Restrict Exports

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Japanese see no reason why they should accept voluntary restrictions on exports to the United States just to help carry out President Nixon's political promises, says Edwin O. Reischauer, former Ambassador to Japan.

Reischauer, a member of the Harvard University faculty, addressed a luncheon meeting of the 57th National Foreign Trade Convention. He said the Japanese remain totally unconvinced that their exports of textiles and other products, which the United States wishes them to restrict voluntarily, exercise any significant impact at all on the economy of the United States and they feel no obligation to help the Nixon Administration make good on its promises to the American textile and garment industries.

Market Rally In Stepped Up Trading

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market failed on stepped-up trading today.

Shortly before the final bell, advances were leading declines by around 300 issues, 760 to 473. The Dow Jones industrial average, the blue chip barometer, was up 5.75 at 761.57.

Turnover of around 10,500,000 shares compared with 9,280,000 shares traded Thursday.

Closing prices included: Am T&T 44 up 3-8; Chrysler 25 5-8 up 1-2; Ford 49 3-8 up 1 3-8; Gen El 86 1-4 up 1-2; Gen Motors 73 3-4 up 1 5-8; So Pac 31 3-8 up 5-8.

Analysts attributed strength to an improved bond market, broad reductions in short term interest rates this week rising the possibility of another cut in the Federal Reserve discount rate and bank prime interest rate; and speculation that President Nixon may be taking new steps to help revive the sluggish economy.

Nixon held a series of meetings with his economic advisers Friday to discuss ways of overcoming the current business slump.

White House Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler had no comment when asked if Nixon had urged Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur Burns to expand the money supply at a faster rate.

Prices edged higher on routine turnover on the American Stock Exchange.

AMC Reports Net Loss Of $56.2 Million In '70

DETROIT (UPI) — American Motors Corp,. smallest of the major U.S. carmakers, reported it had a net loss of $56.2 million for the 1970 fiscal year ending Sept. 30.

The loss compared to net profits of $4.9 million in the 1969 fiscal year.

AMC Board Chairman Roy D. Chapin, Jr., and President William V. Luneburg said the major factors involved in the heavy 1970 loss were a five-week strike at the beginning of the model year, lost market momentum as a result, and introductory marketing expenditures as well as the economic downturn and the cost-price squeeze caused by rapidly escalating labor, materials and other costs.

"We expect to resume in fiscal 1971 the growth pattern established in 1968 and 1969," said a statement issued by the two AMC executives. "The company is currently operating profitably and we anticipate reporting a profit for the first quarter ending Dec. 31."

Sierra Club Seeking Ruling On Tidelands

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The Sierra Club has asked the California Supreme Court to rule on a landmark suit involving Tomales Bay that may determine the public's navigation, fishing and recreation rights over hundreds of thousands of acres of tidelands.

The club asked the court to require trial judges considering tideland titles to decree they are subject to such public rights, to require the Marin County Superior Court to rule that a citizen and not just the state may establish in court his right to such easements, and to reverse the Marin court's ruling that the easements were extinguished by the state in 1874.

Tidelands are the wet part of beaches and mudflats lying between high and low tide.

The Tomales Bay case grew out of a dispute between Larry H. Marks Jr., tidelot owner, and Peter D. Whitney, an adjoining waterfront owner. Whitney is the great-grandson of Oscar Shafter, whose family once owned the entire Point Reyes peninsula. His property is the last remnant of the Shafter Ranch, and has been in the family since 1858, according to the Sierra Club.

The dispute began in 1963, when Marks began a quiet title action to establish his exclusive right to use the property. The action was to clear the way for fencing, filling and developing the tidelot he claimed. Whitney, however, asserted his right to take advantage of the historic public easement over Mark's tidelot.

The Sierra Club said that the California Supreme Court has held since the 1850s that tidelands are held in trust for the people of the state, and that the people have the right to boat, fish, walk, and swim on these trust tidelands.

Marin Superior Court Judge Samuel W. Gardiner, however, rejected Whitney's claim, saying the state deed to tidelands destroyed the public rights. He also ruled that only the state, not its citizens, could sue to establish rights under the public trust.

The Sierra Club's amicus curiae brief also cited two 1913 decisions by the California Supreme Court that owners of tidelands could do nothing to interfere with the public rights over the tidelands.

The Sierra Club's legal step was the latest move in a series of appeals by Whitney. The District Court of Appeal last month again affirmed the original decision by Judge Gardner.

Fighting with Marks in court against the appeals has been Westbay Community Associates, which claims extensive tidelands in San Francisco Bay.

Sulphide Fumes Kill Three Men

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A broken gas mask in a cement tannery pit resulted in three deaths Thursday, two of them in a unsuccessful rescue attempt.

Dr. Henry Turkel, city coroner who blamed hydrogen sulphide gas, said that Calvin Hubbard, 46, died when he fell and broke the face plate on his mask, allowing fumes to reach his lungs.

Jose R. Medina, 25, and Marcelino B. Yambo, 41, died while trying to pull him from the pit at Le Gallet Tanning Co., the coroner added.

All the victims lived in San Francisco.

Pesticides Ruin Pelican Hatchings

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Anacapa Island, off the California coastline, used to be warm with brown pelican hatchlings each year. No longer, the Interior Department said today—pesticides have decimated the flock.

"One bird hatched at Anacapa this year," a spokesman from the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife said. "That island used to have about a thousand breeding pairs of brown pelicans."

Interior said, "test findings from two Interior laboratories suggest the pesticides are wiping out the species."

Diabetes Group Will Be Formed

An organizational meeting of a diabetes association for Marin County is set for Dec. 10 at 7:30 p.m. in Olney Hall, College of Marin.

The group aimed at finding undiagnosed diabetes in Marin is being formed by Sandra Glazunov of Greenbrae as part of the Northern California Diabetes Association.

Driver Is Arraigned

Lewis Edward Meyers, 59, of Petaluma, was arraigned Wednesday in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court on a charge of felony drunken driving.

Judge Alexander J. McMahon ordered Meyers held in the county jail until a recommendation on bail is received from the Sonoma County Probation Department. Meyers was set to enter a plea Monday at 1:30 p.m.

He was arrested Tuesday by Petaluma police after his car allegedly struck Dennis Stankalis, 17, of 26 Huntington Drive, Petaluma, severing Stankalis's legs.

Planners Ask Revision Of Hunter Plan

The Sausalito Planning Commission Wednesday postponed action on a request from David Hunter for a conditional use permit to allow construction of an 18-unit cluster housing development near Santa Rosa Avenue and Glen Drive.

The commission asked Hunter to submit revised site plans for the development which would include apartments, duplexes and single family homes and asked him to present the plans at the Commission's Dec. 2 meeting.

The Sausalito Planning Commission also:

BUS PARKING — Approved, in principle, a plan for permitting the Golden Gate Bridge District to load and unload its ferry shuttle buses in Sausalito's Parking Lot No. 1, but referred the proposal to the Community Appearance Advisory Board to consider landscaping, lighting and design of the bus parking area.

LOT SPLIT — Approved an application from A. A. Raymond to allow a 14,500 square foot lot at 625 Locust Road to be divided into two parcels.

MEETING — Set Dec. 16 as date for a hearing on proposed amendments to regulations governing the city's central waterfront district zone and for consideration of regulations of resident commercial and commercial manufacturing zones.

Corte Madera's

Joe H. Stewart Jr. has been elected president of the Corte Madera Chamber of Commerce for 1971, succeeding Donald Beacock.

Other new officers elected were Mrs. Jan Valk, first vice president; Thomas Thomas, second vice president; B. A. Sill, treasurer, and Mrs. Marion Scudder, secretary. The slate was elected by unanimous vote at the chamber's annual election breakfast Wednesday.

The officers and new directors will be installed at a dinner in January.

They make Volkswagens, but they buy Renaults.

Last year only 18,132 VW's were sold in France.

Yet, during the same period, Renault sold 112,263 cars in West Germany.

Germans are famous for demanding quality and dependability above all else.

Does that seem to tell you anything?

Yoga Involves Body, Mind And Spirit

"Yoga has changed my life dramatically for the better . . ." writes Janet Kohloff of Novato in the introduction to her new yoga record album, which she hopes will change the lives of others.

Curled up on the sofa of the Kohloffs' ranch house in rural Novato, Mrs. Kohloff talked about what yoga can mean to the average person.

"Yoga is a system of self-cuture and self-improvement, involving all levels and aspects of our existence — physical, mental and spiritual. Perfection isn't important. Consistency is." she says.

Her introduction further explains that the student of yoga practices a set of postures (or asanas) each day, relaxing completely in between and thinking good and peaceful thoughts. An example is sitting up straight, hands on knees with palms up "in a feeling of open trust." The repetition of the uplifting postures and good thoughts then become habit.

Janet Kohloff, whose husband, Roland, is a tympanist with the San Francisco Symphony, explains that yoga helps one accept himself.

"We are very accepting of ourselves in class and hopefully outside of class." She thinks yoga helps her students to be more gentle with themselves and, therefore, others.

STEVEN KOHLOFF reads a book about flying saucers while doing "his brand of 11-year-old yoga" which he does for five minutes each morning. Steven who has a brown belt in judo was a very asthmatic child until Janet Kohloff, his mother, took him to a guru who worked with Steven and told him he would never have another attack again. That was six years ago and he hasn't had one. Jami, 12, demonstrates the basic Viparita Karani posture which has a healthful effect on the thyroid, brings new blood to the head and helps prevent colds and sore throats.

SHE FIRST went to a yoga class six years ago in San Francisco as a way of paying back a favor the teacher's wife had done for her. The teacher, her guru, was Leon Kaye whom she calls "a very, very special person. The kindest, most gentle, most wise man I've ever met."

She attended several classes, and her husband became interested "when he noticed a change in me that was very positive," she said.

She took Steven, who was then six and a severely asthmatic, to see Kaye becaue he thought he could help him. Kaye worked with Steven and told him he would never have another asthma attack again.

"He was right in the middle of a bad attack at the time," Mrs. Kohloff said, and that was almost six years ago. Steven, now 11, has not had another. The night after the first session with Kaye, Steven was breathing deeply and rhythmically in his sleep.

"He does about five minutes of his brand of 11-year-old yoga in the morning," Janet said. "We don't really understand it. I think it is something beyond us. He was a very sick child."

Now Mrs. Kohloff teaches six classes a week and helps some students privately in her home. Some of them call her their guru.

THE WHOLE KOHLOFF family often practices yoga together. Jami, 12, demonstrates for her mother in class. Janet, who is from Chicago, met her husband, who is from New York, when they both were spending their first season with the San Francisco Opera. She was singing in the chorus and he played in the orchestra.

She calls their small ranch her "dream." A horsewoman, Janet trained and showed horses since she was in junior high, but has given it up to spend more time on yoga. Her husband has taken over the responsibility of feeding their horse and two that board there.

"He didn't know a thing about horses when we started. I think he enjoys having them around now," she said.

From yoga the couple have developed a feeling for an infinite being which they never had before, she says. Yet she emphasizes that yoga is not a religion, and it doesn't conflict with any religion in any way. "Through yoga, one gradually develops a greater insight into himself and others, and into the universe. You can be of any faith or no faith at all." she says.

One summer while her husband was teaching music at Aspen, Colo., Janet taught yoga to the monks at St. Benedict Monastery near Snowmass. She said the abbey let some of the "older, safer, monks attend classes — the ones who couldn't be corrupted," she laughs.

The day of the interview she had received a letter from one of the brothers who had a copy of her record. He said he enjoyed the "peace of it," but another brother was doing the postures.

"MY DRIVE now is to share yoga with people who wouldn't have ordinarily tried it. I want to share the wisdom of inner peace," she said.

Yoga, for Janet Kohloff, is not a quest for the occult. She believes that mystical powers and the acquisition of them can be a distraction. "It's better to be tuned in to your brother's need," she says.

Mrs. Kohloff doesn't make a fetish about food. She quoted a yogi who once said, "It is more important what comes out of your mouth than what goes into it."

"We feel that whatever we put into our bodies should be good for them," is her simple rule about food.

The Kohloff family life has changed with their involvement with yoga because they have "simplified it." Her introduction says, "Yoga says the whole world can be our teacher, that life is a school, and that we learn from every single experience — from our mistakes and losses as well as our successes. We begin to discriminate more what is important and what is not, to make our lives more simple and yet more meaningful."

The Kohloff family life is centered around family activities and children's activities. They attend few parties but she shares close relationships with her students.

"I CAMPAIGNED a little bit for Riles but because I felt so strong about it," she says.

"Yoga must be practical," Janet insists. "It's a way of living that has to be made useful in daily life.

"What's important in my way of teaching yoga is that each person is unique, so each person is involved in a different way That doesn't mean that the parts that are fitting to them now will be right next year."

"Yoga has been around since before Christ and it's still here. It has a universal truth. It all comes from the one mind," Mrs. Kohloff says.

JANET KOHLOFF and her husband Roland stop in one of the twelve positions that make up the Sun Salutation or Soorya Namasker which ideally should be done facing the sun. It is a combination of breathing, flexing and stretching. Mrs. Kohloff, who teaches yoga, has released a record for those who are new to yoga and also for her students who practice better at home with its help.

Marin Women

An Appeal To Men To Bring About Changes In Women

By PAT BALMES

Introductions of members' wives were in order yesterday at the monthly meeting of the all-male Southern Marin Kiwanis Club at Kubla Khan Restaurant in Strawberry. The women has been invited to lunch and to listen to two speakers from the National Organization for Women.

With a bow to women's liberation, each member arose to present his spouse. Only one demurred, "This is women's liberation. She's on her own."

A gray-haired Kiwanis spoke of his wife of 39 years "who never yet has asked to be liberated."

ONE KIWANIS introduced his wife as a woman "who doesn't believe women should have gotten the vote."

And so on down the table as members good humoredly introduced their wives with remarks ranging from "My better half" to "My secretary couldn't come, so I brought my wife."

A serious chairman of the education committee for NOW addressed an appeal to the men for help and partnership in the woman's liberation movement. Mrs. Alexandra Glazunova of Greenbrae said, "As it takes both male and female to make a human being, it will take both to bring about a change in our society. NOW advocates a society where men and women have an equal balance in family, work and community.

"What kind of a lop-sided society do we have?" asked Mrs. Glazunova. "During the wars women build ships. But when things go back to status quo, women are shoved back as stupid. Their education level makes little difference. Women with college degrees earn the same as men with high school educations. Where the male and female's educations are equal, men earn nearly twice as much. Women have to be twice as good to earn the same salary," says the mature woman.

CANDISS CONANT of San Rafael, a Sonoma State College sociology student in her 20s, got the Kiwanis's attention when she asked that they open doors for women . . . doors to good jobs. Candiss wants to work with school drop-outs but can only find a job as a waitress. She charged that there is discrimination in job opportunities, job advancement and pay scales. She also charged discrimination against women in education, in opportunities for scholarships and in attitudes toward women depicted in text books.

Candiss repeated NOW's demand that free child care become a political issue.

"Most women in Marin County have to work. There is a high divorce rate. But women can't concentrate unless their most important concern is taken care of, child care. NOW proposes to call upon labor, industry and government to make facilities and funds available and to grant tax deduction for quality child care.

Other NOW aims were read from its leaflet. Urging women to run for office, NOW says its members will work for candidates who support NOW goals. Political action is necessary to achieve equal rights for women.

NOW urges the National Council of Churches to challenge and assist church bodies to rethink and restate theological concepts which contribute to a false view of women.

NOW OPPOSES all legislation and practices which restrict access to any means of birth control, contraceptives, sterilization and abortion.

Deploring the image of women as presented through mass media NOW will seek equal time for feminist view on television and radio.

NOW Marin County chapter holds two monthly meetings. A public meeting often featuring an invited guest speaker or special program and an open board meeting at which most decisions are made. Local action priorities are in the areas of employment, education and child care.

According to Mrs. Glazunova, it is criminal for a mother to represent the world to her daughter in a false light, "Don't worry your pretty head about society's troubles, just get a man." Young women's talents are needed to solve our problems. I have lived in many countries, but I never have seen so many gaps as in

Only Woman Officer In A Fighter Pilot Squadron

The only woman officer in a squadron of fighter pilots at Hamilton Air Force Base is Woman in the Air Force (WAF) Second Lt. Melissa M. Hobgood, supply officer, for the Aerospace Defense Command's 84th Fighter Interceptor Squadron.

As a supply officer, Lieutenant Hobgood is with the fighter unit providing air defense for the San Francisco Bay Area.

She is looking forward to the challenge of working with a flying outfit saying her duties would be diversified.

She attended Louisiana State University and was graduated from Southeastern University with a bachelor's degree in elementary education. She taught school in Baton Rouge and joined the Air Force reserves in 1969 and then went to officer's training school at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex.

Her first assignment was at Boron Air Force Station in Southern California, in the Mohave Desert, the only WAF stationed there. For a short time she was that station's commanding officer, she reported.

While in the service, attractive Lieutenant Hobgood said she plans to take flying lessons with the base Aero Club and to attain her master's degree and one day work to help mentally disturbed children.

A Friend At The Top Greets The Climbers

By MOLLY MARIN

The cognac that greeted the two men who were victorious in their 27-day climb of El Capitan in Yosemite Wednesday was delivered in the person of Beryl Knauth of Belvedere, a friend of Warren Harding and his fellow climber Dean Caldwell. And the two bottles of cognac were sent by Beryl's father, Basil Knauth, when Beryl checked in over the weekend to visit her parents in Marin from her home near Ventura.

A former Marin deb, Beryl has done some climbing herself around Yosemite with the new celebrities and chose the easier route up El Capitan with other friends to greet the climbers at the summit. When she's not climbing, Beryl, who has an art degree, takes art classes at the University of California at Santa Barbara in Goleta and teaches a class in art there for underprivileged children.

PAMELA MARIE Souza and Darrell James Cox have selected Dec. 5 as the date for their wedding, which will take place at 2 p.m. at the Star of the Sea Church in Sausalito.

The bride-elect, a graduate of Tamalpais High School, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest M. Souza of Mill Valley. She is the sister of Mrs. Thomas Bass of Merced.

Her fiance, who was graduated from College Park High School in Pleasant Hill, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Cox of Pacheco. He is serving in the U.S. Air Force at Castle Air Force Base in Merced. His sister is Mrs. Bob Martin of Colorado.

MRS. DANTE Tognoli of Fairfax has reserved two sponsor tables for the "Roman Holidays" luncheon and fashion show to benefit the Girls' Town of Italy. Mrs. Tognoli is serving as Marin chairman for the Dec. 3 noon event at the Grand Ballroom of the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco.

On the committee are Marinites Mrs. John Isi of Corte Madera and Mrs. Ronald F. Antonioli of Novato. Sausalito chairman for the luncheon is Mrs. William Wachter of Sausalito.

CELEBRATING THEIR golden wedding anniversary at dinner at Rubini's restaurant in Fairfax were the Peter Locatis of Mill Valley. The dinner, given by their son and daughter-in law, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Locati of Mill Valley, was held after the anniversary date, as the celebrants were on a trip to Hawaii on the actual wedding anniversary, Oct. 22. During their visit to the various Hawaiian islands their grandsons, Charles and Mike Locati made a surprise flight to Kauai to celebrate the day.

The Locatis, who were married 50 years ago at St. Raphael's Church in San Rafael, enjoy gardening and travel, having made a trip to Europe last year and hoping to see more of the world.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Card Party Cats All Have Their Own Stingy Household Habits

DEAR HELEN:

I am steaming. I just got home from a card party where my "friend" made me look like a complete fool by telling everybody how I save and reuse birthday candles and wrapping paper, and a few other things that she thinks is chintzy. So of course everybody laughed and I could have gone through the floor. You see, these women are all "country club," and they looked at me as if I were some kind of specimen.

Well, I could have told them a few things: This fun-poking female makes her family use the same paper napkins twice, and I've seen her pour half an unused drink into a new glass when she's "mixing" out at the kitchen-bar.

But when I'm furious, I can never think of the right put-down. I just sit there and try to smile while I smolder and shake like a volcano inside. Next time we're all together, I'd love to clobber her with these cheap tricks of hers, but Helen, I won't. . . I'll begin to think how mean I'd sound.

What's wrong with a woman who simmers but can't boil over — TO BE A CAT!

DEAR TBAC:

You're more feeling than feline, that's all. And that isn't bad. The world has too many card-party cats already.

I'll bet those women laughed more with, than at you — for we all have our own pet parsimonious habits, and when we hear about others, we relate. What's mine? — Rinsing out the "empty" catsup bottle with vinegar then adding the remains to my salad dressing — which saves maybe half a cent, but makes me feel terribly worthy.

And I know a woman who tears facial tissues in half, and another one who cuts up junk-mail letters to make note pads. Really, all these things are smart, no matter what your income. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My father is a menace to the highway. He's 70, has poor reflexes but a heavy foot, and a heart condition. I know that someday soon he'll have an accident, a killer. Yet he brags about fooling the license examiner.

Would I be a traitor if I had a talk with the people down at the Motor Vehicles Bureau? — SCARED DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER:

No. You might be a lifesaver. Do it now. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I enjoyed those "Ten Commandments for Drivers." Thought you might enjoy having this to add to your highways and byways file:

Hymns To Sing While You Drive

At 55 miles per hour: "Highways are Happy Ways."
At 65 miles per hour: "I'm But a Stranger Here: Heaven is My Home."
At 75 miles per hour: "Nearer My God To Thee."
At 80 miles per hour: "When the Roll is Called Up Yonder, I'll Be There."
At 90 miles per hour: "Lord I'm Coming Home."
At 100 miles per hour: "Farewell to Thee."

Amen. — N. K.

Red, White, Blue Shirts With Slogans For Teens

By WALTER LOGAN

NEW YORK (UPI)—If your teen-age son turns up in red, white and blue clothes next spring it doesn't mean he has joined the Establishment. A second look and you might see a picture of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew on a T-shirt or an end-the-war slogan.

For reasons known only to teen-agers, red, white and blue has become the dominant color combination in skinny shirts shown for spring along with slogans hailing ecology, praising or damning Women's Lib or advertising Black Power.

It isn't all anti-establishment. The red, white and blue theme in establishment versions shows the flag whole. In antiestablishment versions parts of the flag are playfully rearranged but apparently legally since they are only fragments.

AS WITH most teen-age fashion it was started by the young people themselves at various boutiques and then picked up by various manufacturers. It wasn't necessarily hippie stuff —just teen-age.

That insight into the thinking of the younger generation turned up in the semi-annual musical fashion show presented by the National Association of Men's Sportswear Buyers for the hundreds of menswear buyers who descend on New York twice a year.

Aside from the patriotic color scheme that ran through the show the dominant idea for dress next spring was "do your own thing" which really means put your own costume together the way you want to and down with tradition.

The core of the youth market was jeans—as it has been since Levi Strauss went to California during the 1849 Gold Rush. The basic look is flared pants, with the knee at 18 inches and the bottom 20 inches and up. Button-through flies are almost standard but new are prominent zippers with ring pulls—a fashion also taken up by teen-age girls.

Blue jeans are by far the most popular but there are many textured jeans—heavy corduroys, twills, jacquard weaves and stripes. Fancy pockets also are shown since teen-agers finally discovered they had to have somewhere to carry things when they weren't wearing jackets.

A MAIN reason for the newfound popularity of pockets is the skimpiness of the shirts worn with the jeans. They are ultra form fitting and there is no room for pockets. Some are knits made about one size too small; and there also were bare midriff shifts with a big gap between shirt and pants.

NEW IDEAS in spring fashions for men include this double-knit polyester suit inspired by the safari jacket. The suit was presented during the recent semi-annual fashion production of the National Association of Men's Sportswear Buyers in New York. (UPI photo)

It wasn't all like that. There were some dress up clothes for the younger generations for discotheques and parties—knitted jumpsuits, "unsuits" in velvet or velours and made with flared bottoms. Tops in this area range anywhere from sleeveless vests to belted tunics and belted bush jackets.

The anti-establishment feeling came to the fore again in the weirdo styles picked up by the college crowd on its tour of the world last summer. There were tribal styles from Africa, the Middle East and the Orient. Gypsy type stuff from East Europe. And on top of it was the perennial cowboy and Indian look with lots of buckskin fringe.

The overall new idea in the spring showing was knits for everyone—the young and the more mature. There were double knitted business suits that looked like business suits and double knitted leisure wear that looked like leisure wear—informal and comfortable because of the stretch factor.

ALSO NEW for Spring was the widespread use of the non-structured suit introduced last year by a few designers. These suits have no shoulder padding, or a minimum amount, and are shown with such back interest as half belts, biswing backs and pleated backs, and in such light colors as tan, cream, pale blue and frosted yellow. The linen look was the most popular.

As for some other ideas: Sports shirts were usually printed in patchwork, swirling watercolor designs, bold Art Deco and florals. Dress shirts mover toward a three deminsional look in jacquard and cord weaves, usually in strong multicolor stripes. There also were prints and pastels.

Outerwear ran once more to canvas and duck, lined or unlined, and in such colors as blue, yellow and pink instead of the natural in vogue this fall. Neckties appeared to be a uniform 4½ inches in keeping with the width of new coat lapels and belts because a major fashion accessory is anything from dyed webbing to metal links and plastic discs.

ON BEING BLACK

Who You Know Makes You More Important

By SANDRA HAGGERTY

"Of course, you know my father," conceded the handsome young man over his cocktail glass.

"No." I shrugged my shoulders. "Do you know my father?"

"Well, no." A dimple creased the side of his brown face. "No, as a matter of fact, I don't.

"Sorry. I don't know your father, either. Should I?"

"WELL, IT'S just that he's the only black doctor in this area who specializes in XYZ. He's very well known."

"I see." This soothed my ego slightly. After all, I wasn't really interested in the young man's father.

But I recognized that popular game that so many people engage in — importance by association.

You've heard of guilt by association — well, this practice has got to be the converse.

This association turns, vicariously, I suppose, the nothings or near-nothings into somethings of importance. The game is based upon whom one knows or, more correctly, whom one knows of.

IN THE black society, the important people with which to associate are the black firsts and the black onlys. And even though many blacks criticize the Establishment (Right on!) these firsts and onlys are blacks who have made it within the ranks of the Establishment.

This is an exclusive group because there are no large numbers of blacks doing any one thing.

Another criterion of importance in the game is education. You don't even have to have bread, although it helps considerably, if you are a degree candidate. Any degree will do — ranging from a high school diploma to a Ph.D. Those blacks in the process of "gettin' the head goods" are potential importants in the eyes of the associates.

The associates are easily recognizable at any social gathering by their dazzling store of names of those blacks who are currently making it. They monopolize the conversation with "Do you know . . . and Dr. ABC is one of my dearest friends . . ."

ONE THING to be said for the associates is that they make and maintain the importance of those people of whom they speak. They are, perhaps, the best possible public relations people — in disguise.

Still, in this day and age of do your own thing, the associates appear to be a sad, unfulfilled lot. But who knows? In the struggle for survival, many of us have become quite pragmatic in our approach to life. If you don't have an own thing, knowing of someone does work. For unfortunately there are still those people who are more impressed with whom you say you know.

NOW Speakers Make An Appeal To Men

the United States. Give your efforts to overcoming violence, she asks women. Don't be dropouts."

NOW'S APPRAISAL of the women's situation today shows 51 per cent of the population is female, yet in a minority status.

Twenty-nine million women work, yet ⅔ of these have dull, menial jobs.

Forty per cent of all working women are single, divorced, widowed, separated or deserted. They don't work for pin money.

Ten per cent of all American households are headed by women.

Full time women workers earn an average of 40 per cent less than men in similar jobs in every major industry.

Half of all working women earn less than $3,700 (poverty level is $3,300).

ONLY 1.4 per cent of working women earn over $10,000 (13 per cent for men).

Mrs. Glazunova challenges women to prepare themselves for professions in middle life and longer. Today the percentage of women in professions is very low: doctors, seven per cent; lawyers, four per cent; federal judges, one per cent; full professors, four per cent; scientists, eight per cent; engineers, one per cent; business executives, two per cent; top federal civil servants, four per cent and congressmen, three per cent (only one woman Senator).

Speaking of Marin's reputation as a "Cinderella Society," the NOW speaker complained, "affluent ladies are too far removed from the realities of life. They are not aware of their strength."

In the silence after the women's liberation talk only three Kiwanis members had questions.

"If women are the majority, live longer and control most of the wealth . . . why aren't you women doing something?" one asked.

"WE HAVE the numbers, but we are underdeveloped. Who manages the money for women? Men." was the answer.

"If women want complete liberation, won't they eliminate some desirable rights like freedom from draft, alimony and widow benefits?"

"Would you like to be in the position of being offered subsistance on a spoon which can be given or taken away on a whim?"

Death Is Caused By Self-Inflicted Shot

I-J Special Report

SANTA MONICA — Police investigators said here today that the death of Kevin Norvo was not accidental, as reported in Tuesday's Independent-Journal, but rather was self-inflicted by gunshot.

However, they said the 19-year-old College of Marin student did not leave any death note before the fatal shot Nov. 10 in the Santa Monica home of his parents, band leader and Mrs. Red Norvo. Another Marin County newspaper had reported he left such a note. The teenager's family told police he had been extremely despondent.

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies now being shown in Marin County. The council's findings are from the California and National Parent-Teacher Association magazines and the Parent's Magazine, unless otherwise noted. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael Library.

FAMILY

"It's a Mad, Mad, Mad World" — Five strangers learn of hidden wealth from a dying ganster. This triggers the greed within each and a hilarious carnival of chases ensues. Fantastic slapstick comedy with huge cast of characters.

"On a Clear Day You Can See Forever" — Lively, entertaining musical with Barbara Streisand playing several parts.

"Out-of-Towners" — Refreshingly funny spoof on biy city life glimpsed through the hilarious misadventures of a small city businessman and his wife in New York for final job interview.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Borsalino" — French film with superimposed English follows the violent life of two bandits and killers who gain control of crime in Marseilles in 1930's by eliminating all competitors. Gory brutal gang fights. Lively pace but extravegant settings overshadow suspense.

"Chairman" — Complicated plot of international intrigue holds suspense high. Set in Taiwan, acting good, scientific gimmicks intriguing.

"Dirty Dingut Magee" — Satirical bawdy western about a badman who steals money from his old friend. His capture and escapes and the double-double crossings along the way add to the fun. Lavish sets, good cast. (Boxoffice Magazine)

"Downhill Racer" — Amazing photography of skiers running the courses in the Alps. Exciting and nerve wracking action plus story of life and loves of an America member of Olympic team.

"Italian Job" — Wildly satirical comedy about a yang of thieves engineering a $4 million robbery from a stalled armored truck during a gigantic traffic jam they created by rigging the computer that controls traffic.

"Jenny" — An unwed pregnant woman and a man reclassified by draft board decide on a marriage of convenience. She does not fit in with his artistic pot smoking friends, so the quarreling begins.

"Machine Gun McCain" — Ultra contemporary Italian made gangster movie set in the '30s. A criminal pits himself against the leaders of organized crime to singlehandedly rob a Vegas casino of $2 million. Translations sound stilted. Good characterizations. (Motion Picture Daily).

"Thoroughly Modern Millie" — Fads of 1920's take a ribbing in this musical spoof about an innocent country girl coming to the big city only to find herself a victim of abduction into white slavery, done in "Perils of Pauline" style.

"True Gritt" — A young girls father is killed and she bullies an old marshal to help her track the killer down. Humor and suspense mingle with violence. Excellent western.

BORDERLINE

(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Catch 22" — Unusually biting anti-war film that graphically depicts the immorality and unreason war breeds. Grotesque details, bizarre, morbid and gruesome sequences shown in a series of flashback and flashforwards that adds to the confusion.

"Cotton Comes to Harlem" — Two black policemen fight crime in Harlem. Violence, guiter language are unstrained plus sex and nudity. Film has strong, realistic ethnic flavor.

"Lovers and Dther Strangers" — Amusing, well acted comedy about a couple who have been living together decide to get married. A series of vignettes about their relatives' marital affairs are inter-cut into the wedding preparations. Bedroom scenes abundant.

"Ned Kelley" — Excessively bloody and violent film follows the trail of crimes committed by an Australian family of outlaws in the 1870's. Good score but film long and overdone. Not suitable for Mick Jaggers acting talents.

ADULTS ONLY

"Beyond the Valley of the Dolls" — Sick story of three girls being destroyed by success in Hollywood. Explicit details of their perverted lives including an orgy where a man goes insane and hacks people to death. Waste of time.

"Cherry, Harry and Racquel" — Newest in sick pornographic film. Small band of narcotic smugglers in Arizona while away their time with sex and killings. A tasteless affront to viewers.

"Diary of a Mad Housewife" — A husband who is pompous, social climbing and vitriolically critical, two obnoxious children and a nervous dog drives a housewife into a love affair only to find he is as sadistic, egotistical a boor as her husband. Well acted but much nudity and foul language.

"Easy Rider" — Far out cross country trip of two hippie narcotic peddlers on their motorcycles, create a vision of America that is by turn beautiful and horrifying.

"Jot" — Chillingly honest, well acted melodrama about today's dangerous polarization of life styles and what happens when they clash. Nudity and explicit sex, profanity.

"M-A-S-H" — Hilarious, subtle anti-war comedy of three army surgeons who develop outlandish life-styles to survive the gore that passes before their eyes. Sex, nudity and profanity.

"Vampire Lovers" — Shock thriller replete with nudes, lesbian vampires for added measure. (Motion Picture Exhibitor)

"Vexen" — An amoral woman entertains herself with adultery, lesbianism and incest while her husband is away working as a pilot and hunting guide. Waste of time.

Cosmetics Conference Draws 2,000

Hotel accommodations in Marin County became crowded last night with the arrival of distributors and franchise holders of the products of Holiday Magic, Inc. from throughout the United States and from six foreign countries.

An estimated 2,000 persons — dealers, wives and other family members — were expected to attend Holiday's three-day "World Fair Affair and Open House," but less then half of them are being bedded down locally.

Mrs. Connie Fisher of the Terra Linda office of GTS Travel, who arranged the bookings, said between 450 and 500 persons are staying at Holiday Inn, Terra Linda, where the cosmetic company's conference activities are centered, taking up the inn's 225 rooms.

The rest are at Edgewater Inn, Corte Madera; Sportsman's Lodge, Novato, and at Holiday Inn and the Hilton Hotel in San Francisco. She said she had made reservations for representatives from Great Britain, Denmark, Italy, Mexico, Canada and Australia, in addition to those from this country.

The Holiday Magic program, which extends from today through Sunday morning, involves a special show booth and display center at Holiday Inn and visits to the plant of Holiday Magic and offices of four of its associate companies, the Larry Wilson Corp., Mind Dynamics, Inc., Spectrum Air, Inc. and Alexander Taylor, Inc.

The Wilson Corp. and Mind Dynamics teach courses in sales and success psychology and are headquartered at Holiday Magic's Canal Street offices in San Rafael. Spectrum Air handles airplane sales and rentals at the Marin County Airport. Alexander Taylor is a wholesale men's clothing firm at 1800 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael.

Entertainment and tours arranged for the visitors at various points of interest in Marin include speedboat rides from Loch Lomond Harbor and a visit to the William Penn Patrick yacht Patricia in Sausalito.

Closing activities Sunday morning feature addresses by Patrick, chairman of the board of Holiday Magic, and Ben Gay III, the company's president, and the showing of a color promotion film.

These questions will be discussed by two members of the University of California faculty Tuesday night at the College of Marin. The discussion, sponsored by Marin Professionals for Peace, will be held at 8 p.m. in Olney Hall on the college campus.

Long Road Ahead For Folks Wanting Change

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Provincial attitudes prevailed yesterday as the Sonoma County Planning Commission delayed a decision on one name for the road from Petaluma to the Shoreline Highway at Bodega.

Commission Chairman Robert S. Lipman said businesses along the road had requested that it be changed to one name since the many name changes now are confusing.

The road name changes as it wanders from Petaluma through each hamlet to the coast. Its names include Bodega Avenue, Bodega Highway, Two Rock Road and Petaluma-Valley Ford Road.

According to Lipman, the Petaluma Chamber of Commerce had suggested Bodega Avenue, Valley Ford residents urged retaining the name Petaluma-Valley Ford Road and residents of Two Rock asked that their community's name be included in any new name.

The commission asked that the Petaluma Planning Commission hold a hearing on new name proposals and send a recommendation to the Jan. 7 meeting of the county planners when it will be considered again.

Welfare Payment Approved For Teacher's Vacation

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Alameda County attorney's office says it will go to court to oppose a state official's ruling that in some instances teachers must be paid welfare money during their two-month vacations.

That declaration came Thursday after Maurice Rosen, a hearing officer for the State Department of Welfare, ruled that an $11,000-a-year Oakland teacher was entitled to $172 a month last July and August in Aid to Families with Dependent Children funds.

Rosen's ruling was ratified in Sacramento by Robert Martin, the department's director, and the county attorney's office said that made it a "precedent setting part of the state's welfare regulations."

The woman elementary school teacher could not be identified by law. She is 33, separated from her husband and the mother of two children.

Although she was hired at an annual salary, she was paid in 10 equal installments from September through June.

In contending she met state regulations for welfare eligibility, she said she had less than $600 in personal property and that the house she owns could not be legally considered as offsetting.

Usually, she said, she budgeted her annual salary for 12 months, but this time she made a house down payment instead.

Because she has not been divorced, there is no court order for the absent father to help support the children or pay alimony.

The county asserted she was not eligible for welfare since her annual salary exceeds her needs under the AFC formula.

Rosen overruled that, pointing out that under state regulations, income "is to be counted in the month it is received regardless of the period over which it is accrued."

In saying the county attorney's office would go to court, a spokesman declared that if teachers took advantage of the ruling statewide it could cost state counties millions of dollars.

Martin, the state director, ratified the decision but asked for a review to see if an alternate decision is possible.

Johnston Found Guilty By Jury

A jury in Marin Superior Court Wednesday convicted Daniel John Johnston, 21, of the burglary of the Citadel Nightclub in San Rafael on Dec. 11, 1969.

Judge E. Warren McGuire agreed to hear a motion for a new trial on Dec. 11.

A codefendant, Robert Lee Sisler, 21, also of San Rafael, pleaded guilty earlier this year to the burglary charge and has already served a 90-day jail sentence.

Potentially Lethal Necklaces Sought

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Necklaces made in South Africa and sold in Maryland, were being sought today by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA), which warns the jewelry is made of potenitally deadly "jequirty" beans.

The beans, very small, shiny red or orange with black tips at each end, cause vomiting, convulsions, and death within 12 days if they are eaten, an FDA spokesman said.

CREATORS OF WILSON'S WORLD

Mill Valley author Edith T. Hurd reads from her newest book, "Wilson's World," while her husband, Clement, illustrates the talk with drawings. The Hurds presented the program yesterday to about 30 Mill Valley children and their parents at the Mill Valley Library. The book, which tells how Wilson paints a world, only to have it fill up with people and pollution, will be published by Harper and Row in the fall of 1971. The program was presented in celebration of National Book Week, which ends tomorrow.

Highway Accident Is Fatal

A 19-year-old Antioch woman, attempting to cross Highway 101 in Novato on foot yesterday, was struck by a truck and died hours later at Marin General Hospital.

The California Highway Patrol identified her as Debra Kay Quick.

Officers theorized Miss Quick had been let off where Highway 37 enters Highway 101, and was attempting to hitchhike when a man stopped in the center divider strip because he had dropped a cigarette into his lap.

Miss Quick, apparently thinking he had stopped to give her a ride, darted out into the northbound traffic, the patrol said, and ran into the side of a pickup truck driven by Forrest O. Young, 61, of Santa Rosa.

Officers said it was dark when the accident occurred at 5:20 p.m. and several other motorists narrowly missed hitting her.

Miss Quick was taken to Marin General Hospital by amublance and died at 1:50 a.m. today of massive head injuries.

She is survived by her mother, Lucille, of Antioch. Funeral arrangements were pending today at Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael.

She was the county's 37th traffic fatality this year, compared to 32 at this time last year.

ZIP CODE MESS

School Report Goes Astray

Some 20,000 copies of a report to citizens by the San Rafael City Schools went out by mail last week, but an undetermined number reached addressees in Tamalpais High School District while some San Rafael residents did not receive the publication.

Supt. John F. Plank said today the mix-up is being checked out by his office.

Copies of "San Rafael School Report" — which cost $912 — were mailed to residents of Kentfield and Greenbrae, including the portion of Greenbrae which is in the City of Larkspur. None went to the San Quentin area, which is within the San Rafael High School District, a spot check disclosed some residents in San Rafael itself did not recieve copies.

Plank said the mailing was included in the contract for printing the eight-page tabloid-sized report, and was not done by the schools office. He said it was learned subsequently that the mailer used a list classified by post office zip code, and by error had the "94904" code area listed as "94901." The San Rafael Post Office distributed in Kentfield-Greenbrae with 94904 code, whereas 94901 is the home-delivery code in San Rafael itself south of Puerto Suello Hill.

The contract was for printing and distribution of 23,000 copies, but Plank said this included extras for distribution to school personnel and probably about 20,000 were mailed.

Two years ago, a special census showed 17,200 households in the San Rafael High School District. A breakdown of the number of households from this year's census has not yet been issued, but the school population has remained virtually constant the past two years so the increase apparently would not be great.

The printing and distribution contract was with the Pacific Sun, which shares a printing plant in Northgate Industrial Park with the Novato Advance, at a price of $511 plus $49.47 for address labels and $351.82 postage.

Crafts Shop Plans Are Turned Down

The Fairfax Planning Commission last night turned down a proposal for a crafts shop at 161 Bolinas Road.

Secretary Ernestine Healy said the vote was 5-0, Harold S. Lezzini abstaining, to turn down the request by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Perry to open a shop selling leather clothes and Indian jewelry and artifacts.

The couple had planned to use the front half for the shop and live in the back half, but the commission turned them down on the grounds that the proposed new zoning ordinance disignates the area for apartments, not stores, Mrs. Healy said.

The planning commission granted a conditional zoning permit to Richard Lash for an electronics development laboratory at 8 Bolinas Road.

It asked the city council if it should review a 1968 traffic circulation study in view of changed traffic patterns since that year.

Bishops Reject Any Communion Changes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Conference of Catholic Bishops, heeding protests from laymen disturbed by many changes in traditional church practices, has rejected a proposed modification of the communion rite.

The conference failed to approve the change in a 115-107 vote in a closed meeting Thursday. A two-thirds vote, or 148 votes, was required for passage.

Triumph Stolen

His 1961 Triumph, valued at $500, was taken from where he parked it at the northend of East Francisco Boulevard between 7:30 a.m. and 2 p.m yesterday, Douglas Clarak McGowan of 14 Madeleine Lane, San Rafael, reported to police.

3,700 Receive Shots To Combat Rubella

The first week of Marin County's campaign against rubella ended today with more than 3,700 students and preschool children immunized.

About 200 students and other pre-school children were immunized this morning at Greenbrae school, said County Health Officer Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht. Wolfe Grade and Adaline E. Kent were also scheduled for immunization today.

Yesterday was the largest single day so far in the campaign when 1,356 children were immunized at Coleman, Our Lady of Mount Carmel and Park Schools.

Dr. Albrecht stressed that youngsters need not be enrolled in the schools where the clinics are being held. She said that she hoped to immunize 80 per cent of the county's 47,000 children between ages 1 and 11 in the month-long campaign.

Due to the Thanksgiving holiday, clinics will be held only three days next week. The schedule is:

MONDAY — Granada School in Corte Madera at 9 a.m.; San Clemente School at 10:15 a.m.; Neil Cummins School at 11:30 a.m. and 1 p.m.

TUESDAY — Henry Hall School at 9 a.m.; St. Patrick's School at 10 a.m.; Larkspur-Corte Madera School at 1 p.m.; Ross School at 2 p.m.

WEDNESDAY — Glenwood School at 9 a.m.; San Pedro School at 10:30 a.m.; Santa Venetia School at 1 p.m.; 3-R School at 2 p.m.

No clinic is scheduled for Thursday or Friday, but they will resume on Monday, Nov. 30, and continue through Dec. 15.

Judge Wilson Overruled In Osuna Retrial

A higher court has ruled that Marin Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson must allow testimony about an earlier crime into the penalty phase trial of convicted murderer Marc C. Osuna.

Judge Wilson had ruled that testimony regarding a Sacramento burglary in which guns were stolen which were later used in the holdup and murder could not be introduced into this new trial.

NAMES AT ISSUE

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales said yesterday that the judge's ruling made on the basis that the names of the three prospective witnesses had not been given to the defense attorney before the trial started, had been overruled by the district court of appeals.

Osuna and Jack R. Gorman were convicted of the slaying of a San Rafael bartender during the 1965 Labor Day holdup of the Mission Inn Tavern.

The California Supreme Court upheld their convictions but ordered a new trial to determine if the two, held in San Quentin's death row since their earlier trial, will receive life sentences or the death penalty.

Osuna's retrial, which started almost two weeks ago, was to resume today with former bar owner Leo Albertoni scheduled to take the stand.

SHOOTING WITNESS

During the earlier trial Albertoni testified that bartender Mario Ferrari died after being shot when he tried to escape during the holdup.

The testimony about the Sacramento Burglary is to come later in the trial.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Ernest C. Zunino is prosecuting the case, and Osuna is being defended by Los Angeles attorney Ernest L. Graves, who was appointed for him.

Gorman is scheduled to be tried separately sometime next year.

Proposals For Nike Land Are Discussed

San Rafael City Mgr. James H. McCown told Black Canyon Homeowners Association members last night about proposals that the city buy undeveloped land near the Nike missile site above the canyon.

Association members took no formal stand, but generally favored city plans to use the area for recreation. One question raised was whether traffic would increase on Mountain View Avenue, according to Bettie B. Cooper, association vice president.

The association also heard Pacific Gas and Electric Co. officials on the cost of undergrounding utility lines to the homes, but made no decision.

The members unanimously voted to send a flier to every home in the area, stressing the need to observe speed limits, cautioning youngsters to walk on the sidewalks rather than in streets, and reminding of dog control laws.

The association decided formation of a proposed youth group was not possible under the homeowner group's bylaws.

Group Will Attempt To Save Trees

Spurred into action by the cutting of two clumps of bay trees, an ad hoc committee of Casa Marinwood residents last night decided to meet with county officials to save remaining trees.

"We understand that the Roundtree developers have indicated there will be no further cutting," said L. M. Fox of 70 Grande Paseo. However, Fox said, 40 or 45 residents of the Casa Marinwood development decided last night to talk with county planners, supervisors and attorneys, and the president of U.S. Development Corp. to make sure there is no more cutting.

The movement to protect the trees along an old creek bank began Saturday when trees were cut down because building sites in the Roundtree development had to be shifted into the tree area in two spots to permit access by emergency fire vehicles.

The Independent-Journal erroneously reported yesterday that the trees were cut to make room for removal of buildings.

The committee set no date for its next meeting, Fox said.

Lands Agency Gives Permit For A Walkway On Creek

I-J Special Report

LOS ANGELES — The state Lands Commission yesterday granted a permit to a Corte Madera homeowner for a walkway and float on Corte Madera Creek, and settled an old dispute over the boundary lines of the 109-acre Shellmaker Inc. property on the east side of the Petaluma River at Black Point.

James J. Menke was granted a five-year permit for the walkway and float in Greenbrae.

The commission voted to ask Gov. Ronald Reagan to accept an agreement that the last natural high water mark —from days before the shoreline was diked — would be recognized as the boundary line of the Shellmaker property.

The Black Point Improvement Association and Southern Sonoma County residents successfully fought last year to prevent rezoning of Shellmaker's land for industrial use.

The lands commission also granted the state Division of Highways use of a quarter-acre of state tidelands for construction of a new bridge across Sonoma Creek near the City of Sonoma.

Pair Convicted In Buse Killing

EVERETT, Wash. (UPI)— The 27-day trial of Thomas E. Braun and Leonard Maine ended here Thursday with their conviction of first-degree murder, kidnaping and robbery.

The jury will meet Monday to decide whether Braun and Maine will be sentenced to life imprisonment or death.

The two Ritzville, Wash., men were convicted of the 1967 murder-kidnap of Mrs. Deanna Buse, 22, Monroe, Wash. Braun, 21, and Maine, 22, were extradited from California to stand trial here.

They were found guilty of kidnaping Mrs. Buse, taking her to a secluded area near Echo Lake and fatally shooting her. Braun was accused of the shooting and Maine was named as na accessory.

Nader Campaign For Public Law

NEW YORK (UPI)—Ralph Nader, criticizing lawyers and law students for lacking a "tradition of sacrifice," has urged them to donate $500 a year to establish a $500,000 pool for a public interests law firm.

The consumer crusader told a symposium at the New York City Bar Association Thursday the new "breeder" law firm was needed because "the crisis in society has never been greater, the capacity for planetary destruction has never been greater."

At the same time, Nader said the "capability, talent and affluence for dealing with problems have never been greater, either." Nader, a lawyer himself, urged the legal profession to "focus on the irresponsive power which, like an epidemic, is sweeping the country,"

Chase Ends With Arrest

After a chase at speeds up to 90 miles an hour on Francisco Boulevard at 10:30 p.m. yesterday, a 20-year-old man was arrested on suspicion of reckless driving and possession of dangerous drugs and marijuana, San Rafael police reported.

Ronald Elliott Bortfield of no known address, was booked into Marin County Jail and held to appear this afternoon in Marin Municipal Court.

Police saw two motorcycles racing down Grand Avenue and turn southbound on Francisco Boulevard. The motorcycles passed two cars, one on the left and one on the right side of the cars. Police chased them at speeds up to 90 miles an hour and through the stop sign at Bellam Boulevard. One turned west and Bortfield turned east where he stopped at the market at Bellam and Lisbon Street.

Police found a vial of 45 red capsules and a cigarette of green vegetable matter thought to be marijuana in his jacket pocket.

Today is Friday, Nov. 20, the 324th day of 1970.

The moon is in its last quarter. The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Scorpio.

Peregrine White, the first child born in the New England Colonies, was born aboard the Mayflower on Nov. 20, 1620.

On this day in history:

In 1937 Chungking was established as the wartime capital of China.

In 1945 a total of 24 top German leaders went on trial at Nuremberg before the International War Crimes Tribunal.

In 1947 Pincess Elizabeth of England married Philip Montbatten.

In 1968 explosion and fire entombed 78 men in a coal mine at Farmington, W.V.

The Marin Mounted 4-H Second Annual Novice Schooling Show was held at the Circle V ranch in Fairfax and not at the Sleepy Hollow Stables, as reported Wednesday in the Independent-Journal.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

This Type Of Hand Will Lead The Best Of Players Astray

The national bridge tournament scheduled to begin today in Houston will give several thousand bridge experts the chance to go wrong on the kind of hand shown today. Only a sleepy expert would misplay the hand at rubber bridge, but many wide-awake players would go down in a tournament.

Opening lead — ◇ J

DOESN'T MATTER

West leads the jack of diamonds, and South wins with the ace no matter which kind of bridge he is playing. In a tournament, South would want to try for an overtrick by way of a successful trump finesse. Declarer would therefore lead a spade to dummy's king and would return the nine of hearts for a finesse.

West takes the king of hearts, cashes a diamond trick and then leads a spade to dummy's ace. As a result, the defenders are in position to cash a spade trick when East gets in with the ace of clubs. They take a trick in each suit, and South is down one.

DIFFERENT STORY

There is a different story to tell at rubber bridge. South sees the danger of opening up the spades and sees also that he can afford to take a trump trick.

After taking the ace of diamonds, South leads a low heart to dummy's nine. When this holds, declarer returns the queen of hearts from dummy. West takes the king of hearts (it does him no good to hold off again), cashes a diamond and then leads a spade.

MORE TRUMPS

Dummy wins with the king of spades and leads a trump to permit declarer to draw two more rounds of trumps. South then knocks out the ace of clubs and still has the ace of spades in dummy to serve as an entry and to stop the defenders from winning a spade trick.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠ — 7 6 3
♥ — A J 10 5 2
♦ — A 5
♣ — Q 6 4

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one heart or pass on this borderline hand.

The ten of hearts is the card that would influence many experts to open with one heart. If the hearts were A-J-6-5-2 or the like, very few would consider the hand worth an opening bid.

Californian Named To House Post

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Veteran Congressman Chet Holifield was elected by unanimous voice vote Wednesday as chairman of the House Government Operations Committee, succeeding Rep. William L. Dawson, D-Ill., who died Nov. 9.

The California Democrat, who was re-elected Nov. 3 to a 15th term in Congress, was the ranking Democrat behind Dawson on the committee. He will serve as chairman for the remainder of the 91st Congress that ends this year and is expected to be named to the post again at the start of the new 92nd Congress in January.

REAL ESTATE OPPORTUNITY
In the past year, our investors acquired in excess of $6,000,000 of land thru the ARGUS office. The continuing demand of our investors has created an opening for a land or acreage oriented sales-person. Applicants must be licensed and should be prepared to devote the majority of their efforts to listing rural properties in Marin, Sonoma, Napa, and Solano counties. We prefer a seasoned land man, but will consider substituting drive and ambition for that requirement. We offer a generous commission schedule, an atmosphere of stimulating real estate activities, and congenial co-workers.

Please call Jim Redding at 897-6127 to arrange a personal interview.

Defense Says My Lai Story Anti-U.S. Lie

FT. HOOD, Tex. (UPI)—The attorney for S. Sgt. David Mitchell told a My Lai court-martial today the South Vietnam massacre was fabricated by those who want to "gut the military."

"I have read until I'm disgusted all the details about a wholesale massacre at My Lai, "said defense attorney Ossie Brown, a civilian from Baton Rouge, La.

"I contend this is an attempt by some segments of our country to gut the military and when you gut the military, you gut this country. Everytime I look around some liberal bird is making a speech or writing a book about it trying to destroy the Army," he told a seven-man court-martial panel.

Mitchell, 30, of St. Francisville, La., is charged with assault with intent to murder 30 South Vietnamese civilians in the small hamlet March 16, 1968.

Brown also told the jury in his summary statements, "God forbid that any jury would find me guilty and destroy my future based on the kind of evidence the government has presented."

Brown also said he was "aghast and appalled" that the prosecution in Mitchell's trial introduced only three witnesses.

"This is not evidence that I would want to be convicted on," he said. "This is his (Mitchell's) life. This is his love. To convict this man on the evidence presented isn't right. It can't be right."

Prosecutor Capt. Michael Swan contended Mitchell's version of the My Lai incident was faulty.

"It is the government's contention that the evidence taken as a whole shows something highly out of the ordinary took place at My Lai and that Sgt. Mitchell took part in it," he said. "It is inherently incredible that he could have been where he said he was and his testimony be true."

Kilauea Volcano Eruption Hits Road

HILO, Hawaii (UPI)—Fiery fingers of lava wiped out six miles of road in Hawaii Volcanoes National Park and cut across a parking lot in the latest eruption of sporadic Kilauea Volcano.

Park rangers feared that as many as 16 miles of the chain of craters road may be made impassable by the vigorous lava flow.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Obese Persons Less Likely To Starve, But More Suffer Stroke

Van Dellen

Obesity is a blessing in two extraordinary circumstances — starvation and exposure to the cold. Excess blubber wraps the tissues in a thermal blanket of high heat-producing metabolic activity. No wonder the fattie's skin temperature is 2 degrees Farenheit higher than his lean counterpart. In contrast, the beanpole must rely on the energy produced by recently eaten food.

Overweight individuals also have ample fat reserves to supply their needs during starvation. Studies have shown that chubbies are capable of withstanding abrupt withdrawal of food and are able to tolerate a low - caloric diet for long periods; almost all their weight loss is fatty tissue.

DR. WALTER M. Bortz, Philadelphia, believes that the obese person differs physically and contitutionally from his lean counterpart. These variations do not cause obesity but are the results of it.

Excessive poundage greatly increases the risk of having a heart attack or stroke. Over half who are obese suffer from hypertension and have high levels of cholesterol. Fifty per cent also are prediabetics and 20 per cent have gout. The majority are short of breath and hive pain in their weight bearing joints. Those weighing more than 300 pounds may have dropsy, but the condition is difficult to recognize because of the fatty tissue.

THEY GAIN weight from overeating but are not necessarily gluttons. An extra pat of butter a day with no increase in activities adds 1 pound per month. By the same token, these individuals must reduce their caloric intake to lose weight. The diet also must be geared to existing condtions such as gout, hypertension and an elevated cholesterol. The latter means no egg yolk, animal fats, pork, ham, bacon, fried foods, butter, cream or lard. Salt should be avoided when the person has hypertension or dropsy.

Replacement foods include spices, herbs, salt substitutes, vegetable oils and spreads. Green vegetables are lowest in calories, and the same can be said of skim milk, geltin, fruits and whole grain cereals.

WHITE PATCHES

MRS. S.L. writes: My 17-year-old son develops white spots on his face when the sun hits him. I've consulted several doctors but they say nothing helps lack of pigmentation. Can you offer any suggestions?

REPLY

In vitiligo, the white areas contain no pigment and these spots stand out after exposure to the sun because the normal surrounding skin tans. As a rule, they can be camouflaged with cosmetics. The psoralens, taken internally, are the latest remedies. Our leaflet on vitiligo can be obtained by sending stamped, self - addressed with request.

MARKED WEIGHT LOSS

V.R. writes: Aside from cancer, what would cause a serious loss of weight?

REPLY

An overactive thryoid gland, adrenal tumor, hidden infections, worms, malabsorption syndrome, and starvation.

DAILY RADIATION

P.M. writes: Does radiation from TV and fluorescent light encourage cataracts to form?

REPLY

To my knowledge this has never happened.

LAXATIVES

O. B. writes: Is castor oil considered a good cathartic?

REPLY

It is as good as always but we have newer laxatives that are equally effective and more gentle.

Testimony Of Bodies In Ditch At My Lai

FT. BENNING, Ga. (UPI)—A witness in the murder court-martial of 1st Lt. William L. Calley Jr. added a building block to the Army's case today by testifying he saw the bodies of Vietnamese civilians lying in a ditch in the village of My Lai.

Chief prosecutor Capt. Aubrey M. Daniel III, told the six-officer jury in his opening statement the Army would show that Calley ordered members of his infantry platoon to push people into an irrigation ditch, then "ordered them executed."

Calley, 27, is charged with the premeditated murder of 102 civilians while leading his platoon on a search-and-destroy mission of the Vietnamese hamlet that for years had been a Communist military stronghold. But it apparently had been abandoned by North Vietnamese soldiers by March 16, 1968, when the sweep was made.

David B. Hein, 23, of Janesville, Wis., a civilian, who appeared on the stand without a jacket but wearing a sleeveless sweater over wide-striped shirt, said he had been a gunner with the mortar platoon of Charley Company, which also had three infantry platoons—including Calley's.

Hein testified, on cross-examination, that he saw a "boy who appeared to have been hit with shrapnel."

The defense contends that the men, women, and children Calley is accused of murdering could have been killed with bullet-size pieces of shrapnel from American artillery or fire from helicopters.

Hein said he "just glanced at some bodies" lying in a ditch near a trail in the village. He explained he did not examine them because he was carrying a heavy piece of equipment and did not want to pause.

The boy who seemed to have been hit by shrapnel was "torn up real bad," he said.

"I do a lot of hunting and I've seen a lot of animals hit by rifles and they sure as heck don't look nothing like that," he said.

Hein and the witness after him, Fred W. Dustin, 23, of Canoga Park, Calif., testified they had seen bodies lying near a trail at the southern part of the village. That brought to eight the number of witnesses who said they had seen 15-20 bodies lying at that location.

The government has produced 11 witnesses out of a projected 67. None so far has connected the dead with Calley.

Dustin told of seeing an additional group of "about 10" and after passing them, hearing firing. He said he turned around and "they had been shot."

Sgt. Leo M. Maroney, 38, a veteran of 19 years in the Army testified Thursday that the mortar detachment he commanded during the My Lai operation never received a request for fire support that day.

Maroney said, however, the nine men he led "assisted in destroying the buildings and the crops" of the villagers. He also said he had seen 15 to 20 dead men, women and children along the side of a trail on the southern side of My Lai.

After Maroney told about the group of civilian bodies, the prosecutor, Capt. Aubrey M. Daniel III, asked him: "Did you see any live Vietnamese?"

"Yes," said Maroney, "two or three men — and two little girls that we and the artillery forward observer picked up. We kept them with us until we left the village.

"One was in shock. But she finally got all right and started talking. Of course, we couldn't understand her."

TELEVISION REVIEW

Anybody Noticed Reviewer's Bias?

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Arrows in the air:

Has anybody noticed that NBC-TV's "Kraft Music Hall" is doing this season what a lot of shows should do—putting on numerous special-type hours within the series format?

Can anyone figure out why it took ABC-TV so long to drop Tom Jones, whose ratings finally got so low the network simply had to take action? And isn't it interesting that the video audience never fell for all the high-pressure publicity about what a swoon-maker he is?

Isn't it a pity, by the way, that the same network gave up so fast on the variety series of Engelbert Humperdinck, who had low ratings but the kind of likeability, charm and talent that might have been developed into a long-run video success if nurtured?

Does anybody actually watch CBS-TV's "Green Acres"? Or does anyone actually know anyone who knows anyone who watches it?

Isn't it a pity that Howard Cosell's monologues on ABC-TV's Monday night football games are constantly interrupted by the action? But isn't it also undeniable now that lovable, charming Howard is one of the most colorful sportscasters to hit the scene in years?

Can anyone doubt that CBS-TVs' "Gunsmoke" is a great piece of weekly entertainment, and perhaps the best regular series in the history of television? And did you know that it finished No. 1 in the national ratings for the week ending Nov. 8?

Is there a bigger piece of junk on the air than "The Brady Bunch"? Well, maybe. It's sort of a four-way tossup between that series and "Lets' Make a Deal," "The Newlywed Game" and "Hogan's Heroes," which finds amusement in a Nazi-run prisoner-of-war camp.

Whatever happened to NBC-TV's "Julia" in the ratings? Well, what happened is that it is getting statistically roughed up by two hot, head-on competitors, ABC-TV's "Movie of the Week" and CBS-TV's "Hee Haw."

And isn't NBC-TV surprised beyond its wildest dreams at the resurgence of three veteran series—"Ironside," "The Men from Shiloh" (formerly "The Virginian") and the Walt Disney Hour? All have always done well in the ratings, but they are as hot as can be right now, what with the swing back to conservatism in the nation.

Did you know that the trade press reported that ABC-TV's "Marcus Welby, M.D.," the country's most popular series, was turned down by both CBS-TV and NBC-TV, and that ABC-TV wasn't too keen on it at first either?

Is it true that CBS-TV's Jim Nabors is aiming for the first annual George Jessel singing award?

Novato Review Saves Oak Tree

The Novato Plan Review Committee Wednesday called for shifting location of a parking lot to save a large oak tree at the planned Western Hosts Townhouse development, south of Redwood Boulevard, west of Highway 101.

The committee approved plans for a recreation center at the development, one condition being that the center parking lot be moved 13 feet to save the tree.

Committee members also approved site and architectural plans for the city's corporation yard on the south side of Davidson Street, adjacent to the Novato Sanitary District plant, with beige the color for the building.

Pair Pleads Guilty To Holdup Count

Two Santa Rosa men pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Superior Court to a charge of holding up a San Rafael pool hall owner and were sent to state prison, just six weeks after the robbery.

Admitting the Oct. 9 armed robbery were Gilbert Fullam, 25, and John Douglas Renda, 26.

In exchange for their pleas of guilty to armed robbery, the district attorney asked that two counts of assault with a deadly weapon be dismissed, which Judge E. Warren McGuire did.

The two men then waived a referral to the probation department for a pre-sentence report, and Judge McGuire sentenced them to state prison. The term for armed robbery is five years to life.

Fullam and Renda were arrest after a chase from San Rafael to the Petaluma-Point Reyes Road, where they abandoned their car.

They had held up George Lefevre, owner of George's Recreation Parlor, as he got out of his parked car. The bag containing $19,000 which they had taken from Lefevre was recovered by officers.

The pair had fired two shots at pursuers as they fled.

Big Game Fever Is Spreading In Bay Area

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Maybe it's the fact that Stanford is Rose Bowl-bound, but the 1970 Big Game Saturday at Berkeley is causing the kind of wild times in the Bay Area that many thought had disappeared in the long-ago days of the Vow, Wow, Thunder and Wonder Teams.

For instance, two University of California men raided the Stanford campus Thursday and ran into two security guards. And it was a lucky break for them.

Because the Stanford band has been guarding the campus, too, and already has been involved in fist fights with invading California men Monday and Wednesday.

Cal students David W. Peterson and William P. Guzek were released by the guards who found them trying to steal an athletic informational sign.

The constant raids on the Stanford campus aren't surprising. The UC rally committee has offered a prize for the largest and most important item stolen from Stanford.

The band also performed Friday night outside North Beach spots with topless dancers Lola Raquel and Zig Zag Sunny leading the yells. Theyr'e the girls who ambushed Stanford Heisman Trophy hopeful Jim Plunkett on the practice field earlier this season as he blushed and cameras popoed furiously.

Then there's the matter of tickets. The game is a total sell-out and the scalpers are even in business on this one.

In fact, Cal Athletic director Paul Brechler warned Friday that there was a possibility that student rooter tickets and reserve seat tickets were being counterfeited. He asked all those who attend to keep their ticket stubs.

Perhaps the most serious proof that grid fever has hit epidemic form was shown when 11,000 Rose Bowl tickets went on sale at 3 p.m. The line formed the night before and got longer and longer through the morning.

But what might be termed the anti-football forces are hard at work, too.

Sam Goldberg, ex-Kansas U athlete who speaks for the People's Athletic Committee said a summons has been issued to all Yippies to converge on Berkeley for a massive rally at 12 noon Saturday.

The committee, which represents groups such as the Jock-Lib, Women's Lib and Gay Lib, has promised a jog-in around the stadium to protest the "militarism, elitism, sexism and brutality" of football.

There was some confusion as to whether any attempt would be made to interfere with what was happening inside the packed stadium.

BLACKLISTED

Parrish Testifies In Probe Of NFL

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Bernie Parrish, a former Cleveland Browns defensive back who is now writing a book about pro football, told a federal grand jury Thursday he was blacklisted by the National Football League.

After ending his two and one-half hours in the closed hearing room of U.S. District Court here—his second appearance in as many days—Parrish told newsmen he was sure the jury would return indictments when it ends its investigation.

ANTITRUST

The jury, which has heard from several Browns officials and former players since Monday, is looking into possible violation of antitrust laws by the NFL. It was not expected to meet today.

Parrish said he was blackballed and gave the grand jury a list of other players he believes were treated likewise.

It is "inconceivable to me that the jury, when it completes its investigation, will not return indictments," he said.

"It will involve blacklisting of players, the waiver system and other practices," he added.

Browns owner Art Modell, who has not yet been called to testify, charged that Parrish was merely promoting his new book.

PROMOTION

"Mr. Parrish can say anything he wants—and he will—to promote his book which he says will be published," Modell said.

"I do not think it is proper to engage in arguments about facts which the grand jury is in the process of investigating," Modell added.

"Moreover, since the proceedings of the grand jury are not a matter of public record, it is impossible for me to respond in public to whatever former Browns' players may have testified to in secret proceedings."

Modell denied his team has violated any laws.

Parrish said he believes his activities as vice president of the NFL Players' Association caused him to be blacklisted. Another member of the Browns defensive backfield, Ross Fichtner, however, told the jury Wednesday he could offer no evidence of such practices.

BEACH

Walter Beach, yet another Cleveland defensive back, spent three hours in the jury room Thursday and said he expects to be called again.

Beach told newsmen little about his testimony, but indicated he had discussed possible blacklisting as well as racial discrimination and gambling.

The grand jury is expected to spend a month investigating pro football.

TAKING IT EASY — Heavyweight champion Joe Frazier strolled through downtown Detroit yesterday, the day after he defended his title. In one hand he carried a guitar, in the other he dangled the gloves he used to knock out challenger Bob Foster in the second round.

Frazier's Manager Talks Retirement

Says Clay Last Foe For Champ

DETROIT (UPI)—Joe Frazier's manager, Yank Durham, says the heavyweight champion's last fight will be against Cassius Clay "win, lose or draw."

Durham has insisted all along that Frazier will fight only until he builds up a retirement cushion, and a bout with Clay might provide a $2. million payday, the final stuffing for the cushion.

REGARDLESS

"After Clay, Joe will retire win, lose or draw," said Durham. The manager stressed that losing and drawing weren't the outcome he expected for the bout that is tentatively scheduled for February.

"I don't know about that," drawled Frazier. "I'd like to fight another year or so. I don't know what that talk about losing to Clay is either. There's no notion in my mind that I might lose."

"It don't make no difference whether Joe wants to quit or not," Durham explained. "If I don't let him fight, he won't fight. It's in the contract."

Before a showdown is possible between Clay and Frazier, two more obstacles must be overcome. Clay must beat Oscar Bonavena on Dec. 7 and then avoid going to jail to serve a five-year sentence for draft evasion that is being appealed in the Supreme Court.

NO REST

Frazier and Bob Foster have both left town as champions, but neither one will have much time to rest. Frazier defended his world heavyweight title for the first time Wednesday night by knocking out Bob Foster, the light heavyweight champion at 49 seconds of the second round.

"I'm going to keep training every day to keep my weight down," the 26-year-old Frazier

SEALS DUMPED

Trip Is Turning Into Disaster

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The current seven-game road trip is turning out to be a disaster for the California Golden Seals.

With two games remaining on the eastern swing, the Seals, who started the trip with a club record four-game winning streak, have a 1-4 mark. The latest defeat came Thursday night, 6-2, at the hands of the Philadelphia Flyers.

Ironically, the only team California has been able to beat on the trip is the defending Stanley Cup champion Boston Bruins.

And the loss also hurt the Seals in the National Hockey League's Western Division standings. They muffed a chance to clear out of the cellar and into a sixth place tie with the Pittsburgh Penguins. California is 5-11-2 and Pittsburgh 4-7-6.

For the Flyers, the victory, sparked by Jim Johnson's hat-trick performance, moved them up a notch into third place in the Western Division, six points behind the Chicago Black Hawks.

Johnson had a great shot at going over the hat-trick mark as he rapped in his three goals in the first two periods, but then Bobby Clarke, Serge Bernier and Bill Lesuk picked up the Flyers' scoring pace.

For California, Bill Hicke and Gerry Ehman lit the red light.

Score by periods:

Northwestern Coach For All-Star Game

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI)—Northwestern University football coach Alex Agase was named today as an assistant coach for the North team in the American Bowl All-Star Game Jan. 10.

The head coach for the North is Nebraska's Bob Devaney.

FORD ENDS ITS RACING PROGRAM

DETROIT (UPI) — Ford Motor Co. announced today it was ending its multi-million-dollar racing program, effective immediately — less than one week after Chrysler Corp. drastically cut its racing program for next year.

Earlier American Motors abandoned all racing except for its two-car Trans-Am entry for next season, and General Motors has not competed openly in racing for more than a decade.

The Ford announcement, which surprised the racing sport and the industry, was made by Matthew S. McLaughlin, vice president of sales.

Bob Cousy Blacks Out During Royals' Win

NEW YORK (UPI) —Bob Cousy, coach of the Cincinnati Royals, blacked out briefly during the last two minutes of Thursday night's victory over the New York Knicks because of hyper-tension, the club's trainer said today.

"He hasn't felt well for the last two weeks and has a history of hypertension dating back to his coaching days at Boston College," said "Doc" Joe Keefe. "He was unconscious for 20 or 25 seconds. We have been playing poorly this season and he has borne the brunt of the Cincinnati fans' displeasure."

Cousy, who slumped to his knees with 1:51 to go in the Royals' 106-98 victory, was examined by Dr. Andrew Patterson, a Madison Square Garden physician, after the game and pronounced all right. Cousy left the Garden under his own power.

"This has nothing to do with a heart condition and is not serious," said Keefe. "It is a matter of the blood supply leaving the brain due to hypertension. Bob had been taking tests during the last few years but hasn't had any recently."

The Royals' victory over the Knicks was only their sixth of the National Basketball Association season compared to 12 losses.

Richey Vs. Rosewall In Key Match At Embassy Tennis

WEMBLEY, England (UPI) —Texan Cliff Richey, the sole American survivor in the $60,000 Embassy Indoor tennis championship, meets Australian Ken Rosewall today for a place in the final and in a match which could make a difference of $8,000.

Richey now has 54 International Lawn Tennis Federation (ILTF) Grand Prix points against Rosewall's 49, so victory for either man is vital with regard to next week's final circuit event at Stockholm where $25,000 awaits the winner and $17,000 the second man from the $150,000, 20 tournament Grand Prix.

IMPORTANT

With this tournament carrying $1,200 for fourth place, $1,800 for third, $4,800 for second and $7,200 for the winner, winning also is important.

Arthur Ashe, Gum Spring, Va., a first-round loser here, has 49 Prix points and is the only other man with a chance of threatening Richey and Rosewall now that Australian Rod Laver has decided to skip Stockholm because of a sore ankle.

Laver meets South African Cliff Drysdale in the other Embassy semi-final.

The 23-year-old Richey, an independent, has earned $65,000 from 40 weeks of tournament play in his best season to date.

"I've trained with this Grand Prix in mind and now I'm enjoying indoor play," he said after beating British lefty Roger Taylor 8-6, 8-9, 6-2 in Thursday's quarter-finals.

The 36-year-old Rosewall is not thinking about defeat. The U.S. Open champion said "all these stories in the press about me being too old are rubbish. I've won a few, you know," he said.

WHIPS PANCHO

The match should help draw a near capacity crowd at the Empire Pool. Rosewall showed he is in top form by turning back Pancho Gonzalez of Los Angeles 6-2, 6-3 in his quarter-final.

Laver showed no ill effects from his ankle injury as he swept aside Ilie Nastase of Romania 6-1, 6-2 with his full repertoire of brilliant stroke-making and should be favorite to defeat Drysdale who beat Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., 9-8, 6-8, 6-3.

The women's semi-final pairings are Billie Jean King, Long Beach, Calif., against Francoise Durr of France and Ann Jones against Virginia Wade in an all British match. The girls are playing for a top prize of $3,120.

Wimbledon Officials To Talk With Hunt

WEMBLEY, England (UPI) — Wimbledon, which led the fight to bring about open tennis, has again decided on a "go it alone" policy and plans to negotiate independently with the American controlled professional troupe, sources said Thursday night.

The sources, which declined to be named, said the Wimbledon management committee decided to send its chairman, Herman David, to Dallas, next week for negotiaations with multi-millionaire Lamar Hunt.

Hunt controls World Championship Tennis Inc., the group that has 90 per cent of the world's top players under contract.

The WCT is currently in dispute with the International Lawn Tennis Federation over its demands for guarantees to appear in ILTF events next season. WCT plans its own, rical, series of competitions which would leave the majority of ILTF events bereft of star names.

The sources said Wimbledon means to ensure that the stars will perform at the world's premier championship, even thought the ILTF committee is adamantly against tournaments having independent negotiations with the pros.

Rose Bowl 'Decider' Tomorrow

CHICAGO (UPI) — Michigan plays at Ohio State with the Big Ten championship and possibly a Rose Bowl berth at stake and No. 2 ranked Notre Dame entertains No. 7 rated Louisiana State in perhaps the toughest test of the year for the Irish in highlight games on the Saturday college football slate.

The contest at Columbus pairs unbeaten teams in the Big Ten season finale for the first time in 65 years, Michigan 9-0 and Ohio State 8-0, and involves a position high in the ratings, perhaps even the No. 1 spot. Ohio State, a five point favorite who was rated No. 1 most of the season, now holds the No. 4 position and Michigan is No. 5.

Ohio State could clinch the Rose Bowl berth by defeating Michigan, but should the Wolverines trip the Buckeyes for a second straight year, then the Buckeyes and Wildcats would wind up tied for second place.

Les Bingaman Dies At 44

MIAMI (UPI)—Les Bingaman, a special assistant to Miami Dolphins Coach Don Shula, died in his sleep here early today of an apparent heart attack. He was 44.

Bingaman, who has been with the Dolphins since the club was formed in 1966, died almost a year after collapsing on the sidelines of the Orange Bowl during Miami's 27-24 win over the Denver Broncos last Dec. 7.

Bingaman was the Dolphins' defensive line coach until this season, when he was named a special assistant to Shula and player personnel director Jot Thomas.

One of the first of pro football's big, quick defenders, Bingaman was a three-time all-pro with the Detroit Lions in the late 40's and early 50's.

During his playing days as a middle guard, "Bing" tipped the scales at nearly 300 pounds. He was ordered on a severe diet after collapsk

Twice nice.

Once nice: a beautiful bottle.
Twice nice: a magnificent Bourbon.

But before you succumb to the charm of our Holiday decanter and bright gift wraps, we'd like to introduce the gallant white oak barrels that make it all possible.

These barrels, charred on the inside to precisely ⅛th of an inch, take our newly distilled "Young" Fitzgerald and school it in the art of greatness.

Years later "Old" Fitzgerald emerges triumphant from its white oak school room—ready for the most discriminating consumers of fine Bourbon.

We tell you about our barrels, which are used (gulp!) just once*, for without them there would be no twice nice story to tell.

Old Fitzgerald Prime

*About our used barrels: we ship most of them to Scotland.

PRIME REGULAR FIFTH OR WILDLIFE DECANTER, IN GIFT WRAP AT NO ADDITIONAL COST.

Pheasant Prospects On Par With 1969

By AL GIDDINGS

Some last minute pheasant news. The season opens tomorrow with prospects rated about the same as last year. An estimated 220,000 hunters last year bagged 740,000 birds. The season will be a month long through Sunday, Dec. 20, in all areas except Imperial and eastern Riverside counties where it remains open through Jan. 3.

The bag limit in the northern area is two males per day Nov. 21 and 22 and four per day for the balance of the season, but the bag limit for the season is 10 birds.

There will be no pheasant tags this year, but a pheasant stamp is required for all hunters. Shooting hours are from 8 a.m. until sunset.

PHEASANTS TAKEN by hunters in California this season will be safe to eat, Gov. Reagan's Task Force on Mercury in the Environment reported this week. Testing of birds will be continued all during the pheasant season according to Dr. Ephraim Kahn, Task Force chairman.

With almost no pheasants in Marin County, you can still get a hunt in here, in case you can't make it up to the Sacramento Valley area. Jim Johnson out at the Pierce Point Pheasant Club near Inverness in West Marin called to say that he will have daily hunts for the unattached hunter at $8 per bird. He will also rent you a dog for the day if desired. It's not a bad deal. A trip with gas, oil, food, lodging, lines to buck, and trespassing problems will still cost you at least $20. See Jim, get two birds for $16 guaranteed and no problems. You can be home by noon.

YOU MIGHT wonder what the passage of Proposition 20 in the recent election might mean to you as a Fish and Gamer. Included in the $60 million in bonds is $6 million for fish and wildlife programs. About $3.5 million is earmarked for fish hatchery buildings generally for catchable trout. The balance of the money will be used mostly for increased access to hunting and fishing areas. Let's hope they use this money wisely.

Duck hunting in the refuges has really been slow. Most of the hunters working the areas have come home skined. Howard Leach of Department of Fish and Game's Sacramento office said he hardly heard a shot at Grey Lodge last Sunday. Reports from Grizzly Island are about the same. There's no shortage of birds, just that they have found the unhunted areas of the refuge, and they will stay until fog, rains and rough weather sets in.

SPEAKING of ducks, I recently received a note from Mr. and Mrs. George Tyhurst of Northbridge who are concerned about the ducks in the Civic Center Lagoon. These people feel that the birds, especially the 100 ducks that live around and in the lagoon, are not getting enough to eat. And that some of those welfare checks be used to feed and propagate the wildlife around the Civic Center! Maybe the Board of Supervisors can come up with an answer. And I wonder what the cafeteria down there does with its leftover bread. Ducks like bread.

Marin County's deer kill as reported this week was 422 bucks as compared to 645 last year. The tag setup this year, plus the shorter season is probably the cause. Warden Russ Ild and I took a quick deer count last Saturday. We counted 160 deer in Cheleno Valley and Salmon Creek in about two hours. We also saw quite a few good bucks.

LASSEN COUNTY had an increased kill from 1428 to 2110, and Modoc from 105 in 1969 to 1423 in 1970. In fact many of the northern counties showed increased kills. Did people save their tags and go north?

FRAZIER

explained. "If the fight does come up against Clay I'll be ready."

A bout with Clay would provide the biggest money attraction in sports history, but Frazier insists, "I don't care if I ever fight Clay. It's not a personal matter of pride or nothing to fight him, but just another payday.

FOR MONEY

"If I fight two other guys, I might make as much as I would fighting him. I've got this job for the money, but if the Clay fight never comes off. I won't mope around. I'll just pick up and fight somebody else."

Although it took three minutes to fully revive Foster after the bout, the 31-year-old resident of Silver Spring, Md., said he will defend his title in 90 days.

"The World Boxing Association told me I had to defend in 90 days against Jimmy Dupree," he said. "I just wish someone will tell me who's going to put on the fight. Dupree's a good fighter, but nobody ever heard of him. To think, I was so close, just a finger snap away from winning the heavyweight title with a right hand in the first round. Even Frazier told me that punch hurt him."

NO MEMORY

However, Foster doesn't remember the second round at all. After the fight was over, he asked one of his handlers, Bill Gore, "Was I counted out on my feet?"

"Son," Gore replied, "you were flatter than a jellyfish."

"I just can't remember the count," Foster said. "I can't remember it at all."

Coach Wired (Bleep) For Sound

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Bill Van Breda Kolff knows just how Bob Cousy feels: relieved.

Van Breda Kolff was wired for sound Thursday night because a Detroit television station is doing a special on him, so he had to refrain from using his usual colorful language as the Detroit Pistons snapped a six-game losing streak with a 112-110 victory over the Phoenix Suns.

BLACKED OUT

Cousy blacked out for a period of about 20 or 25 seconds in the last two minutes of his Cincinnati Royals' 106-98 National Basketball Association victory over the New York Knicks.

Seattle nipped Los Angeles, 111-110, on Garfield Heard's basket with a minute to play in the only other NBA action of the night.

Cousy "hasn't felt well for the last two weeks and has a history of hypertension dating back to his coaching days at Boston College," Royals' trainer Joe "Doc" Keefe said. "This has nothing to do with a heart condition and is not serious.

DIFFERENT

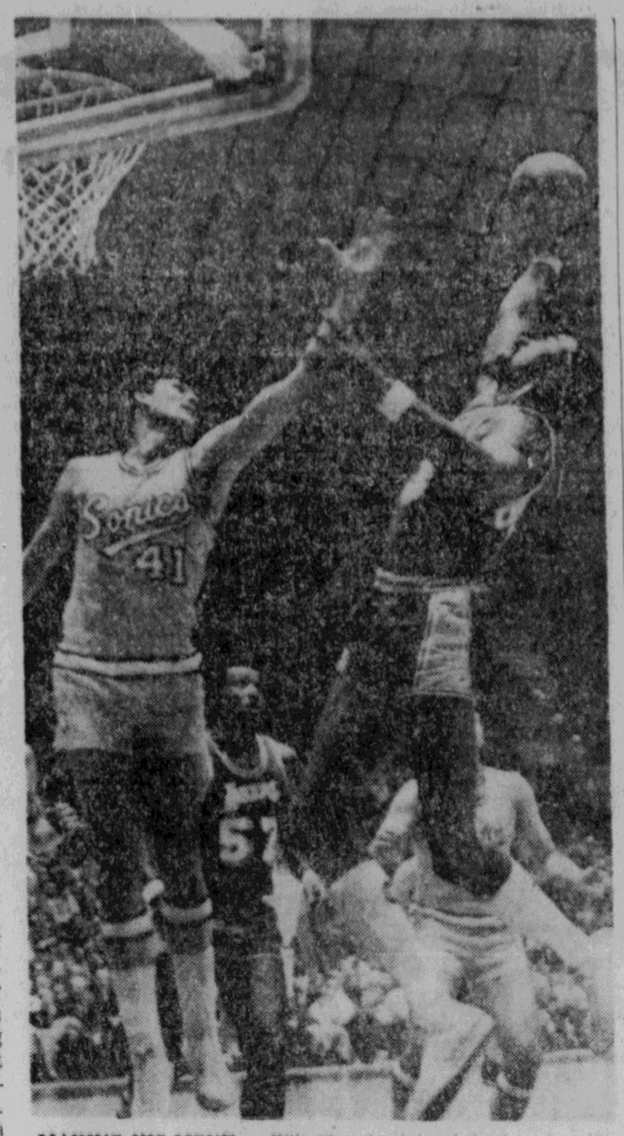
"They're going to have to bleep out most of this," Van Breda Kolff said of the tape made of his reactions during the Pistons' victory.

"I thought something was different about him this game," noted one observer who sat close to Detroit's bench during the game. "He wasn't like he usually is."

Detroit still needed a driving back-handed layup by Steve Mix with only four seconds left to seal the triumph. Mix, Bob Lanier and Terry Dischinger each finished with 17 points while Dave Bing had 19. Dick Van Arsdale had the game's high of 23 points and Clem Haskins, whose shot just before the Buzzer missed, added 21.

Nate Archibald sank a one-hander with 1:40 left to break a 98-98 tie and converted a pair of free throws nine seconds later to seal Cincinnati's victory over New York. Archibald and Tom Van Arsdale each had 22 points for the Royals but Walt Frazier of the Knicks led all scorers with 28.

The Knicks, already without league MVP Willis Reed (bad knee) and Cazzie Russell, (broken wrist) suffered another blow when Dave DeBusschere was forced out of the game after only seven minutes with a [illegible] left ankle. DeBusschere will be [illegible] today to determine the extent of the injury.



MAKING HIS MOVE — Wilt Chamberlain of the Los Angeles Lakers went high over Seattle's Pete Cross to score last night in Seattle. Chamberlain had 32 points, but the Sonics won, 111-110. (UPI Telephoto)

Defensive Specialist Named New San Jose State Coach

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) — San Jose State, a team that can always score points, apparently wants a defense, too.

San Jose State president John Bunzel Thursday announced that DeWayne Dewey King would take over as head coach.

King, 42, had been serving as interim coach since Sept. 29 when head coach Joe McMullen resigned for health reasons.

SPORTS SHORTS

Baseball

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Los Angeles Dodgers' newest slugging star, Richie Allen says he has set some sort of personal record for coming to terms with a baseball club and an estimated $100,000 may have had something to do with his early signing.

"This is the earliest I've ever signed," said Allen. "It's also the best contract I've ever been offered and I couldn't be happier."

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John J. Reynolds, attorney for former baseball umpires Al Salerno and Bill Valentine, will meet with general council of the National Labor Relations Board today to discuss the government ruling throwing out his clients' case.

Reynolds said Thursday night that he had not had time to study the government trial examiner's findings, which rejected the Salerno and Valentine charge that they had been fired by the American League because of union organizing activities.

Golf

ATLANTA (UPI) — Ed Griffith will resign as tournament director of the Ladies Professional Golfers Association on Dec. 1. Griffith cited other business offers and a desire to give the LPGA plenty of time to find a successor.

JIM MURRAY

Drinks Are On Me, Says Happy 'Ace'

My late, great friend, the author, Gene Fowler, always wanted to write the definitive book on golf, entitled "How to Make a Hole-in-One." He thought that would put the whole lunatic game in its proper demented perspective — like a book on "How to Grow Tall," or "How to Have Blue Eyes."

But now, I'm in a position to make the book a biography. I, alas!, made a hole-in-one the other day. I am now addressed as "Ace" around the clubhouse.

SOME GUYS waste a hole-in-one. I didn't. I used mine to turn in a nifty 102 for the 18. Without it, I might have had a lousy round.

Most holes-in-one look as if they were diagrammed by Rube Goldberg. I mean, you say: "Ball (a) is struck by club (b) and hits three (c) which sets robin (d) to chirping and resultant sound waves (e) direct flight of ball (f) onto rock (g) which skips it onto pond (h) where it hits fish (i) and squirts onto green (j) where it strikes watering can (k) tipping it over and resulting flood (l) washes it into hole (m)."

MY HOLE-IN-ONE was none of these. It was a carefully thought-out, impeccably-executed classic demonstration of engineering the hole. At address, I pictured myself standing with that pane of glass hung around my neck like those Ben Hogan illustrations. I envisioned my body turn as if I were in a barrel, just like Billy Casper. I started my swing with the pure spasm takeway I have perfected. This was followed by the famous Murray Hip Lock, a technique which is as recognizable to seasoned golfers as the Vardon overlapping grip. My grip, incidentally, was the usual Tension Clutch which has been likened to the grip a guy might have on a prison bedpost when they're trying to drag him to the electric chair.

My downswing, which is known as "Murray's Blur" and which frequently creates a sonic boom, was as usual, initiated with the Shoulder Dip and that well-known component, the Traveling Elbow. They say you have to get the hips out of the way on the downswing, but there's much nonsense promulgated by the teaching pros. I just get the club out of the way.

YOU START the downswing with the now-famous Murray Sway in which you come into the ball like a girl in a grass skirt doing the Hukilau.

It is important that your eyes bulge and your neck cords stick out at impact, and you must shout, "Oh, my God, I came off it!" two-tenths of a second BEFORE impact. This establishes you as a man who knows WHAT he should be doing, only all his muscles have jumped the club. George Plimpton likened it to a Japanese admiral on the bridge shouting instructions down to a drunken crew in the engine room.

The follow-through for a hole-in-one should never be more than two inches. You know, Hogan made only ONE hole-in-one in his entire career, and I can tell him what his trouble is right from here. NEVER let the club drift past horizontal after impact. In fact, a backswing which wouldn't hurt someone who was kissing you in the back of the neck is advised.

MY HITTING action is modeled after captured horse thieves. It's known around the club as "the hanging hip." Both feet are off the ground and twitching violently. The tongue is protruding and the throat rattles. Someone in the crowd usually remarks after I have topped the ball six feet to the front of the tee, "Okay, go cut him down."

I made my hole-in-one at my home course, Riviera. You can always tell a member of Riviera. He looks as if he has just escaped Devil's Island. I once asked Tommy Bolt the best way to play Riviera. "With a crown of thorns," he advised.

I played with Stan Wood, the demon golf coach of USC; Jim O'Hearn, the demon realtor from Malibu, and Dr. Manch Gadwa.

I MADE THE ace on No. 16. I used a Titleist No. 1 ball and a Spalding No. 5 iron. The card lists the hole as 138 yards. The card lies. That's as the crow flies. I have often taken a route to the hole which turned it into 2,000 yards and all carry. It has more sand around it than Cairo.

I came to 16 with 87 shots, and left it with 88. My momentum carried me through the last two holes in 7-7.

At great moments in history, some people fail to grasp the significance, particularly today. If Alexander Graham Bell invented his telephone today he would get a recording. "The number you have reached is not in working order. Please be sure you have the right number."

SO, WHEN I hit my hole-in-one, you know what Jim O'Hearn said? "Nice punt shot," is what he said. Stan was yawning. "That has a chance to be on," he said.

The odds against a guy hitting a hole-in-one are 6,000 to 1. Lloyds of London used to put up $50,000 against a pro hitting one, until they found out it would be cheaper insuring leaking boats in ice fields.

My hole-in-one cost me $77.92 for drinks (Dean Martin had already gone home), a headache, and I also put a cut in the ball. Also, I am not speaking to all the people who said, "How many sand traps did it run through?" Or "No. 16? What did you use—a driver?"

Never mind, I now know exactly how to hit a hole-in-one. I am waiting for a call from Ed Sullivan and Mark McCormack and President Nixon and I intend to make it into a movie with Doris Day, and market it in book form along with my other instructional works, "The Topped Shot and Other Communicable Diseases," and "The Eight-Piece Swing."

Player's Death Ends Grid Game

JEFFERSON CITY, Tenn. (UPI)—Sixteen-year-old Steve Gladson was injured in the first quarter of the annual Tomato Bowl high school football game Thursday night and died en route to a hospital.

His teammates on the Rogersville squad were told of the death at halftime and refused to continue the game.

"They just couldn't play any more," said Rogersville High Principal Norman Tunnell. "They wouldn't."

Rogersville was leading Knoxville Catholic 14-6 at the time. Officials declared the game "no contest."

Gladson, a defensive end, died of apparent head injuries.

It was the second tragedy to hit the Rogersville football team in the past year. Last season, David Gladson, a cousin to Steve and highly-touted prep player, was killed in an automobile wreck.

Freitas Is Champion At San Geronimo

Twenty-four-year-old Chuck Freitas defeated two-time defending champion Ken Harquist, 2 and 1 last Sunday for the club championship at San Geronimo Golf Course. In the first flight finals, Larry Gapinski downed Mike O'Donnel, 6 and 5.

A HOLE-IN-ONE contest will be held tomorrow at Indian Valley Golf Course, from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m., the proceeds from which will go to benefit the recreation department of the Marin Juvenile Court Auxiliary.

Cost of the contest is 50 cents per shot, with merchandisep rizes going to the winners.

AROUND 100 players are expected to compete Sunday in the second annual Rohnert Park Invitational tournament. Club pro Bob Porter reported 62 had signed up as of last Monday.

THREE MARINITES walked off with top prizes last week in the first California Jewelers' golf championship at Lake Tahoe. Milt Woods of Terra Linda, a member of the Mill Valley Golf Club, took low gross honors, while Larry Callan of San Rafael had the low net score. Bill Carewe of Ross was second low gross.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL TRADITIONALS

Big Game Weekend On West Coast

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

It's "Big Game" week in the West where victory over the backyard neighbor is almost as good as going to the Rose Bowl.

There can be only one Rose Bowl representative and Stanford locked up things for 1970 two weeks ago. That leaves the Indians, upset losers to the Air Force last week, merely playing out the string Saturday against California.

While the Indians, favored by 10 points, are battling the Golden Bears before a full house of 77,000 at Berkeley, Oregon and Oregon State renew the Far West's second oldest rivalry at Eugene, Washington takes on Washington State at Spokane and Southern California plays UCLA in Los Angeles.

FAVORITES

The oddsmakers pick Oregon closest to unbeaten Stanford in the Paciifc 8 Conference with a 4-2 record, by five points over Oregon State, Washington by 15 over WSU and USC by six over UCLA.

Generally, adjusting a line on such traditional rivalries as these is risky business for an oddsmakers. More often than not the underdogs have won, so you bets your money and makes your choice.

Stanford is 8-2 overall after winning six of six conference games to take the Pac 8 title for the first time since 1951. Ordinarily the struggle with Cal is the "Big Game" of the year for the Indians, but it really isn't this year.

"There is nothing bigger than the Rose Bowl," coach John Ralston said. "That doesn't mean we are looking past Cal to New Year's Day. Not by a long shot. Our rivalry with Cal is in a class all by itself."

TOUGH JOB

California (5-5) would like nothing better than to upset Stanford, but to do it the Golden Bears have to contain Jim Plunkett.

"You never can hope to really stop Plunkett," said Cal coach Ray Willsey. "The best you can hope for is to keep him from hurting you to a point from which you can't come back."

Cal's problems with Plunkett, college football's all-time passing and total offense champion, figure to be even tougher with the prospect that two regular defensive backs may not be able to play.

The Oregon-Oregon State rivalry dates back to 1894 and encompasses 73 games. The Stanford-California rivalry is two years older but covers 72 games, although a number of the early day games actually were rugby.

The Webfoots had a chance to make it a real banner year in 1970 but they failed to beat such easy rivals as Illinois and Army. Instead of going into the season finale at 8-1 they are 6-2-1. Still, though, victory over the Beavers, (5-5), whom they have beaten only once in the last 11 years, would vindicate the Ducks and make their followers forget the fact they didn't make it all the way to the league title and Pasadena.

FOUTS

Dan Fouts is the big man on the Eugene campus, and well he might be. The soph quarterback burst onto the scene from nowhere to prove the Oregon leader and his passing ability makes the Ducks favorites almost every time they take the field.

Washington could cap its comeback year with victory over poor Washington State. The Huskies, 1-9 a year ago, are in position to make it a 6-4 season as they take on the Cougars, 1-9, for the 63rd time in their rivalry.

In four of the last five years the season closer featuring USC and UCLA has decided the Pac-8 title. The Bruins won the game and the title five years ago, but USC took the game three of four times and the league championship ever since. Their renewal Saturday is the 40th.

ARE THEY DOOMED? — In five years, apartment houses for 150-200 Army families could replace these stately old homes around the parade ground in Fort Baker, according to the commanding general of the Sixth Army who is looking to the Marin fort as a site for future housing for personnel at the Presidio of San Francisco.

Sixth Army May Build Houses At Fort Baker

Plans Alarm Marin Conservationists

By PAT ANGLE

The commanding general of the Sixth Army has decided that any housing needed for personnel working at the Presidio of San Francisco should be built at Fort Baker.

Lt. Gen. Stanley R. (Swede) Larsen on Wednesday signed a "gentleman's agreement" to that effect with Mayor Joseph L. Alioto of San Francisco and promised he would recommend that no new housing be constructed on the Presidio.

In selecting Fort Baker, the general toog cognizance of demand in San Francisco that open space at the Presidio be preserved, but it alarmed officials and conservationists who are hoping to see scenic lands at Marin's forts turned into a regional park.

Construction of the Western Institute of Medical Research near the base's Letterman Hospital, scheduled to take place in the next five years, will require living quarters for 150 to 200 families, according to the general.

And, unless space can be found in existing housing on the Presidio, General Larsen said the units will be constructed on Fort Baker, at least if he has any say in the matter.

The general's disclosure raised concern that future development at Fort Baker could jeopardise the proposed Golden Gate National Recreation Area planned for the fort lands in the future.

But Col. P. Lee Mason, Sixth Army public information officer, said the construction, if it is needed, should have no effect on the dreams of a regional park along the Marin headlands.

The colonel said any future park could only include those lands not being used by the military and indicated the Army has no plans to abandon operations at Fort Baker.

Ray B. Hunter, chief deputy director of the State Parks and Recreation Department, took a different view. "It has always been our understanding that the forts would all be phased out of military operation in the future," Hunter said.

He added: "We feel this property is too valuable to be diverted into a housing development and have received reports that Walter J. Hickel, secretary of the Interior is pushing for the Golden Gate National Recreation Area, to include the forts and the Presidio."

Col. Mason said the Sixth Army's first recommendation would be that any new housing on Baker be constructed around the parade ground, replacing pre-World War II houses which are uneconomical to maintain because of their age. "It appears now, because of the paucity of funds, that any new housing would be multiple dwelling units," he said.

"It's about time people of this country relizes the Army is not the bad guy," Colonel Mason said, indicating any new con-

'ROUGH UP' STORIES

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The prosecution in the murder trial of Frank J. Thurber concluded its case in superior court yesterday with testimony by two witnesses: a Soledad Prison inmate who said he was hired by Thurber to beat up Allan W. Daly and a deaf mute who attacked a key defense argument.

The Soledad prisoner was the second witness in six days of testimony to tell the court that Thurber had offered him money to "rough up" Daly, in Independent-Journal employee.

Daly was fatally shot July 4 in his San Francisco home by two youths, both 17 and both, like Thurber, residents of San Bruno. The two, Richard A. Wamsley and Larry G. Rutherford were sentenced to long terms with the California Youth Authority after confessing the crime.

Wamsley has testified that the attack, which resulted in Daly's death 12 days later, was masterminded by Thurber, 45-year-old member of the Mailers Union, charged with murder, conspiracy, robbery and burglary.

The deaf mute, Lupe Mercado, who lives across the street from Thurber, testified through an interpreter that he saw Wamsley and another San Bruno youth, Walter Peterson, making firebombs in the garage of Thurber's home in June.

His testimony attacked a defense argument that the invasion of Daly's home July 4 was planned and carried out by Wamsley and Rutherford alone and that Thurber was not involved.

Defense attorney Nathan Cohn had suggested that the youths were not responsible for firebombing of Daly's home June 15 and 16.

Cohn said evidence would show that the boys read newspaper accounts of the firebombings and decided they could safely rob the I-J employee because suspicion would fall on San Francisco Typographical Union 21, on strike against the newspaper since Jan. 7.

Wamsley testified Tuesday that the firebombings were done at the request of Thurber, and Mercado's silent testimony yesterday was introduced to support his story.

The Soledad inmate, Wayne Cavelli, 23, testified yesterday he was offered $300 and was paid $100 of it in advance in May to beat up Daly "bad enough to put him in the hospital."

Wednesday, James Thomas Turner Jr., a carpenter now living in South Carolina testified that a man later identified as Thurber offered him money to "rough up" a man who "was going in on the job, crossing the picket line or something."

Cavelli, serving time for forgery, said yesterday he had agreed to Thurber's offer, but he did not explain why he did not carry out the beating.

Wearing a gray prison jacket, several sizes too small for him, Cavelli slouched in the witness stand as he told his story.

Last May, he said, Thurber went to Cavelli's Pacifica home and "told me he had a job he wanted me to do and he'd pay me $300."

"He wanted some man beat up bad enough for him to be put in the hospital," Cavelli testified.

After he agreed to the deal, Cavelli said, Thurber drove him to San Francisco where the two of them sat for about an hour and drank beer in a car driven by Thurber and parked up the street from the Daly residence.

They were waiting for Daly, Cavelli said, but they didn't see him. They then drove to the San Francisco Newspaper Printing Co., where Thurber worked, and Thurber went into the building to pick up his paycheck, Cavelli said.

When Thurber returned to the car, "he said he had told someone that it was agreed that I

Manson On Stand; Tells Philosophy

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Charles Manson took the witness stand outside the presence of the jury at the Tate murder trial today and said that society should realize the reason that "children came at them with knives" was because they had rejected their children.

In a rambling account without any questions being asked or objections raised, the 36-year-old hippie cult leader launched into an exposition of his philosophy and that of the "family."

"You people think with your mind but that's not the way I do it," Manson said.

"I've spent my life in jail. I've stayed a child while you have grown up.

"I don't judge anyone, I judge only myself and I'm content with myself. You want to put me in a penitentiary but that is nothing. You kicked me out of the last one. I didn't want to go. I liked it there."

"And then children come at you with knives. You told them what to do. I didn't tell them. They're the children that you didn't want and I took them on my garbage dump."

The sensational appearance of Manson in the case came after the three young women codefendants — Susan Atkins, Leslie Van Houten and Patricia Krenwinkel—had informed the court they wished to take the stand and confess in detail to the seven Tate-LaBianca slayings.

Superior Court Judge Charles H. Older ruled however that the three young women would have to tell their story first outside of the presence of the jury so that it could be determined whether it was admissible under the law.

Susan Atkins and Patricia Krenwinkel both insisted they wished to tell their story only before a jury and at that point Manson said he was prepared

LEAD STANDARD SET

Pollution Agency Adopts Nation's Toughest Limit

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — The nation's toughest limit on poisonous atmospheric lead — in California almost entirely the product of some 12 million vehicles — was set yesterday by the state Air Resources Board.

The unanimous board vote came after a six-hour, nonstop hearing on the limit, with a formidable array of experts offering contradictory opinions on whether the limit was needed.

Claims by medical experts hired by the producers of lead that no health hazard was involved were contradicted by experts outside the industry.

One such opponent of the industry experts went so far as to say that many of the unspecified "everyday, nagging complaints of our population" may be the result of air pollution.

The board brushed aside industry objections that cutting most lead out of gasoline will require its replacement with cancer-producing aromatics to maintain octane ratings high enough for most existing vehicles. Aromatics also will be limited in future board action, its members indicated.

The board also sharply cut back the maximum emissions allowed from trucks, buses and other vehicles over 6,000 pounds. The new limits on such heavy duty vehicles will cut their emissions 65 per cent by 1973, and halve them again by 1975.

The practical effect of the crackdown on lead remained unclear since the board has no authority to regulate the composition of fuel. The board next must translate its new standard of 1.5 micrograms per cubic meter into what emission limit will be needed to cleanse the air of enough lead to meet the standard.

John A. Maga, the board's executive officer, told the Independent-Journal that the emission limit may prove too difficult to meet with a tailpipe control. If so, he said, the Legislature would have to be asked to limit sharply the amount of lead in fuel. He declined to guess whether such legislation will be needed, insisting that development of such an exhaust device was "conceivable."

Maga had in mind what happened last March when the board asked the Legislature to order that lead be eliminated entirely from gasoline by 1977.

The Legislature failed to pass any of the bills designed to meet that deadline.

There would be two differences this time, however, if the new standard requires legislation. First, it would involve eliminating most, but not all lead from gasoline, unlike last year's attempt. And second, the new standard was based on the board's finding that health effects require the standard.

Last year's request to the Legislature was based on the claim by automotive manufac-

U.N. Again Bars Peking, But Vote Is First Majority Count

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)— The U.N. General Assembly today barred Communist China from the United Nations for another year. But for the first time in 20 years of trying Peking won a majority vote.

Backer of the move to give Peking the seat now held by Nationalist China were jubilant and predicted the Peking regime would be seated next year when the matter comes to a vote again.

The United States blocked Peking's admission this year by once gain winning approval of a resolution declaring the seating of Red China an "important question" requiring a two-thirds vote.

The American resolution passed by a vote of 65 to 52 with seven abstentions.

On the actual vote whether to seat Peking or Taipei, the vote for Peking was 51 with 49 votes against and 25 abstensions—short of the two-thirds majority.

Such pro-Peking groups as Albania confidently predicted the United States would not be able to impose the two-thirds majority rule again next year.

The closest Peking came to winning a majority came in 1965 when the General Assembly registered a 47-47 tie vote that rejected the move to seat Peking.

Ambassador Mohammed Yazid of Algeria, one of the principal pro-Peking envoys, said today's upset vote meant Peking was sure to win next year.

Immediately after the voting, Tunisia made a formal move toward a "two-China" policy that would seat both Peking and the Nationalist regime.

Ambassador Ralid Driss proposed that the assembly vote to put the China representation item on the 1971 agenda and ask Secretary General Thant in the meantime to seek a "possible solution for the presence of Taiwan."

Last year Communist China received 48 votes, and Nationalist China 56 votes. There were 21 abstensions.

In 19 previous votes, mainland China could manage no better than a 47-47 tie, achieved in the 1965 balloting. Last year's vote was 56-48 in favor of Taiwan on the expulsion vote, with the General Assembly registering 71-48 on the resolution to require a two-thirds margin.

Ambassador Liu Chieh of Nationalist China ended the formal debate Thursday by renewing Taiwan's 14-year-old offer for a plebiscite in Mainland China to determine whether the people want the Nationalists to represent them in the United Nations.

"Would Peking allow such a

PHILOSOPHER
A man whose philosophy enables him to endure anything — even his own philosophy.

Mrs. Thoresen Found Innocent Of Slaying

FRESNO, Calif. (UPI)—A jury of seven men and five women today found Louise Thoresen innocent of all charges in the slaying of her millionaire husband, who died when she pumped five bullets into his nude body from one of the weapons in his private arsenal.

The jury deliberated almost 11 hours through most of the night before concluding that Mrs. Thoresen was acting in self defense when she killed William E. Thoresen III, 33-year-old heir to a Chicago steel fortune, in their bedroom last June 10.

She was motionless as the verdict was read but then went over to hug her parents.

During the 14-day trial, the willowy Mrs. Thoresen, 34, testified that Thoresen had sadistically stabbed her in the buttocks with a knife, tortured her with a whip and made her write "suicide" notes before trying to shove a lethal dose of pills down her throat. Colored slides of her bruised and cut body were shown to the jury.

"William Thoresen was a madman," defense attorney Kenneth Devaney said in his final summation. "He was a sick man, a depraved man. He was a deadly, murderous man."

In the final prosecution argument, deputy district attorney Stephen Henry said of the defendant: "As bad as he was, as bad as you think he was, you don't have the right to shoot him." The prosecution contended Thoresen was asleep when he was shot and not rising from the bed to attack Mrs. Thoresen, as she testified.

Mrs. Thoresen testified that on the night before she shot Thoresen he disclosed that he

Policeman Describes Riot As 'Hand-To-Hand Combat'

I-J Special Report

FAIRFIELD — The confrontation between police and demonstrators outside the Independent-Journal Feb. 14 was described today as "hand-to-hand combat" by a San Rafael police officer.

Sgt. Phillip Green, the ninth prosecution witness in the trial of seven men arrested during the Valentine's Day violence, testified he saw demonstrators "using picket signs to strike blows against police officers."

Green also said he witnessed one of the defendants, 20-year-old Terry Lansing of Berkeley, strike Officer Donald Rose of the San Rafael police on the shoulder with a picket sign handle, breaking it, and then throw the rest of the handle into Rose's face.

Green then identified Lansing in court and the youth responded with a blushing smile. The youth is charged with assault on a police officer, resisting arrest and various other counts stemming from the violent demonstration, which was called in support of San Francisco Typographical Union 21, on strike against the I-J.

Green testified he arrested Lansing with a flying tackle aft-

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Controversial Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The House has passed a bill designed to cut down the flow of cheap imported shoes, textiles and other goods coming into the country —a move that would be the first reversal of a free trade policy the United States has followed since World War II.

But the trade bill, the most controversial legislation of its type since the Depression, was a long way from becoming law —if it ever does.

The Senate will take it up next month, in the closing weeks of the lame-duck session. It may become so loaded down with other import-stopping devices in the Senate that it may never reach President Nixon's desk.

Panther Standoff

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)— Police Superintendent Clarence Giarrusso withdrew 150 police Thursday as they moved into a housing project to arrest barricaded Black Panthers. Giarrusso said he wanted to avoid "a bloodbath."

The Panthers have established a fortified headquarters in the Desire housing project where they live rent free. The city claims this violates the trespassing laws and ordered between 5 and 15 Panthers arrested.

Giarrusso ordered the withdrawal as the heavily armed police squad, facing massive support for the Panthers in the project, closed in on their headquarters.

Giarrusso negotiated a 24-hour "cooling off" period to give the Panthers time to challenge the trespass law in the courts.

Not Much Status For The Stratus

"Please correct the first word to read 'stratus' not 'status' as sent. The clouds just aren't that important."

43 Vacant Seats

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If President Nixon seeks a way to reward Republicans who made good but unsuccessful attempts to win or retain office in the recent election, he might turn to the federal courts. A check today showed there are 43 vacant seats on the lower federal courts.

Such jobs would be available as well for any member of Nixon's Cabinet or White House staff who may be on his way out, although that possibility is less likely.

Most of the judiciary openings exist because of a law passed by Congress earlier this year providing for 61 additional judgeships in federal district courts.

Many of the seats created by the law have been filled, but others have opened up because of retirements or other circumstances. There are vacancies in 36 district court seats and seven circuit courts of appeal seats.

Jaundice Fatalities

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The U.S. Public Health Service says it is investigating an outbreak of jaundice among persons on Capitol Hill who were taking an antituberculosis drug.

Eight persons have contracted jaundice —a symptom of liver disease —including two newsmen who died this week. All were among some 2,000 persons who chose to take the drug Isoniazid following an outbreak of tuberculosis at the beginning of this year.

Isoniazid has proved an effective antituberculosis drug for two decades, but it produces side effects in 5 to 10 per cent of those taking it. One of the more rare side effects is liver disease.

Arkansas Twisters

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI)— Tornadoes and tornadic winds whirled trailer houses in the air and blew down homes and barns in northern and eastern Arkansas Thursday, injuring 30 persons, none seriously.

The heaviest damage was in southeast Arkansas. A tornado mowed a four-mile path near the communities of Oak Forest and Moro, destroying or heavily damaging 11 homes.

Another storm twisted power line poles in the Red Hill community, causing $50,000 damage according to Arkansas Per and Light Co. officials. A state policeman estimated $10,000 damage in Red Hill and Hollowell where house trailers were flipped over and several buildings demaged.

Pot Roast

TIJUANA, Mexico (UPI)— Mexican authorities staged what they call a "pot roast" Thursday and burned 10 tons of marijuana and dangerous drugs seized in the past five months.

MARSHAL DEAD — Soviet Marshal Andrei I. Yeremenko died yesterday in Moscow at the age of 78. Yeremenko directed military operations in the battles of Moscow and Stalingrad in World War II, served on several major World War II fronts and was an alternate member of the Communist Party's Central Committee. Israel Warns Peace Talks 'Not In Bag'

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

An Israeli cabinet minister said tonight Israel will return to the Middle East peace talks only when conditions are right and that Israeli participation still "is not in the bag."

The statement in Tel Aviv came from Israel Galili, a minister without portfolio who is responsible for information and who is a close confidante of Premier Golda Meir. His statement came in an interview with the army radio station on its news magazine program.

"Political observers will not be in error if they suppose that in principle we are prepared to take part in the Jarring talks (U.N. mediator Gunnar Jarring) but will be sorely mistaken if they support that our participation is in the bag, without the creation of conditions that would warrant such participation," he said.

Galili said he saw no contradiction in two statements issued in Washington this week —that the United States is allocating $500 million to Israel for arms purchases and that the United States has not abandoned the 1969 plan by Secretary of State William P. Rogers calling for Israeli withdrawal from occupied Arab territory.

$369 Round-Trip Offered To GIs

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The United Service Club, a nonprofit organization set up in 1969, says it will offer GIs getting leave from Vietnam a $369 round-trip air fare to the United States at Christmas.

The rate, the club said, is a little more than half the standard GI fare of $692.30 from Saigon to Oakland, Calif. Arrangements will be made for extending the service to other sections of the country, the club said.

Red Tank Threat Seen In Cambodia

SAIGON (UPI)—Field commanders reported today that South Vietnamese troops have uncovered evidence the Communists have as many as 15 Soviet-built tanks operating in northeastern Cambodia and may be preparing to use them in the war.

The officers said the discoveries were made by elements of a 6,000-man South Vietnamese task force operating about 12 miles inside Cambodia in an area 200 miles northeast of Phnom Penh.

The officers speculated the Communists may be preparing to use the tanks in Cambodia to counter South Vietnamese armored thrusts across the border. The South Vietnamese armor is much lighter and could not stand up against the T34 tanks.

Intelligence data gathere since the start of the new operation Monday indicated as many as 15 T34 tanks were hidden in the Bo Kheo forests. Other officers reported evidence of tank presence, including tank tracks not far from a bunker complex where South Vietnamese troops uncovered a 254-ton cache of 85mm shells in underground bunkers.

The shells, found Tuesday, could be used by T34 tanks or could be fired from field and antiaircraft pieces, officers said.

South Vietnamese troops also located what appeared to be a parking area for six tanks, some of it underground, and spare parts believed to be for the tanks. In addition, the troops also reported hearing the tanks in the deep forests near Highway 19.

The U.S. and South Vietnamese Commands in Saigon reported 23 shelling attacks in the 72-hour period ending at 8 a.m. today, only one of them against an American position.

Nineteen South Vietnamese were wounded when four rounds of 82mm mortar fire hit the Thanh Tri district town.

Man Charged In Bank Of America Extortion

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— FBI agents charged a suburban real estate appraiser Thursday with trying to extort $100,000 from the Bank of America and said they were trying to learn if he was involved with a suspicious fire in the bank's international headquarters.

Battista D. Pietrelli, 46, of Daly City held his head in his hands and wept as he was arraigned before U.S. Commissioner Richard Goldsmith who set bail at $50,000 and scheduled a hearing for Nov. 30.

Arden F. Keith, the FBI agent who filed the complaint, attached an affidavit saying an extortionist claimed in a telephone call to have started the 35th floor blaze in the bank headquarters Wednesday.

Pietrelli was under FBI surveillance before the fire because of a series of calls threatening to bomb the world's largest commercial bank. An agent reported seeing him walk out of the 52-story headquarters building four minutes before the blaze was reported.

His arrest came that same day as a bank official followed telephoned instructions from an extortionist.

Michael Peterson, a bank officer, was told to load a white cash bag with $100,000 and throw it from a moving automobile off an elevated freeway.

FBI agents, watching as the bag was thrown from the Embarcadero Freeway onto Drumm Street, reported that Pierrelli drove an automobile over the bag which had fallen near a fire plug.

Agents waited briefly to see if Pietrelli would pick up the bag but said they arrested him when a passing citizen objected to a car parked near a fire plug and called police.

The fire damaged the 34th and 35th floors of the bank building, biggest skyscraper in the west, although no one was injured. The broker's office estimated its damage at $100,000.

Nader Warning On Asbestos Pollution

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ralph Nader has urged the Food and Drug Administration to warn art teachers not to mix powdered asbestos with water and wallpaper paste to make "clay" for their students.

"Under prolonged use in rooms with air conditioning or closed ventilation systems this practice could result in severe asbestos pollution," Nader said Thursday. Asbestos dust can cause lung damage.

Official Toll In Pakistan: 148,000

DACCA, East Pakistan (UPI) —U.S. Army troops and helicopters arrived today and British navy ships were on the way to spearhead rescue operations to save survivors of last week's deadly cyclone and tidal waves.

The Pakistani government put the official confirmed death toll at more than 148,000, but unofficial estimates indicated the number of victims might eventually top 500,000.

U.S. cargo planes began unloading rescue supplies and American UH1 (Huey) helicopters arrived to fly the items to out-of-the-way, stricken areas.

The U.S. Army sent four helicopters from the states and two from Nepal to Pakistan today and shipped in a contingent of 25 soldiers from Fort Bragg, N.C., to help in rescue operations.

The soldiers planned to move south in helicopters Saturday to the coastal area devastated by the deadly wind and water a week ago.

Antelope rely mainly on their keen eyesight to warn them of danger.

Mooncrawler Dodges Deep Lunar Crater

MOSCOW (UPI) — Russia's lunar buggy dodged a deep crater and chugged up a steep hill today in increasingly challenging explorations to "prepare conditions for man's presence, and perhaps even life, on the moon."

The official news agency Tass said Lunokhod 1 traveled 90 yards today during a 4-hour, 25-minute trip through the Sea of Rains.

The robot explorer has traveled a total of 217 yards since landing on the moon last Tuesday.

"As a result of Lunokhod's maneuvers, it is now 125 meters (137 yards) away from the landing stage of Luna 17," Tass said. Luna 17 was the ship that brought Lunokhod to the moon.

"At certain parts of the journey the inclination of the surface reached 14 degrees," Tass said. "Lunokhod also came across quite a deep crater in its path which was successfully avoided by its operators."

The steepest previous hills faced by the vehicle were about 10 degrees, according to earlier Tass reports.

Tass said Lunokhod was sampling and evaluating lunar soil beneath its chassis by means of an X-ray and spectrometer as well as a "stamping device" punched into the ground.

Dr. Georgy Petrov, director of the Soviet Space Research Institute, said Lunokhod I was the first of a series of mechanical explorers with the goal of examining the moon from top to bottom.

"Man has already stepped on the moon surface," he said. "In time representatives of various branches of sciences will be able to visit the moon and even more remote celestial bodies. People will also fly to the moon simply as tourists."

"However, before this can happen, the moon will be thoroughly investigated by automatic device such as Lunokhod I. They will prepare conditions for man's presence, and perhaps even life, on the moon."

Medi-Cal Care In Middle Level

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The state today announced plans to put into effect a new "middle level" of out-of-home care for certain Medi-Cal patients now in nursing homes.

The state Department of Health Care Services said the plan means that some nursing home patients who don't need constant medical attention will be transferred to non-nursing facilities.

The 55,000 Medi-Cal recipients currently in nursing homes are being "surveyed" by special review teams to determine whether they actually belong there, a department spokesman said.

The department administers the $1 billion-a-year-plus Medi-Cal program for the medically indigent in California.

The department said it will adopt regulations and rates Dec. 1 for the proposed new "middle level" of care for the elderly. It said the revision will fill "the gap between homes that provide no nursing care and those that provide it around the clock."

The proposed maximum monthly rate which the non-medical home would charge per patient would be $305. The state Department of Public Health will license the intermediate care facilities.

Dr. Earl Brian, department director, said the new level is aimed at nursing home patients who don't have "an illness or disability which requires intensive nursing services provided by nursing homes."

The Medi-Cal spokesman said special "medical-social review teams" of two nurses, two medical social workers and a physician currently are checking nursing home patients to determine "whether those persons rightly belong in an intermediate care facility rather than a nursing home."

The patient's own physician first must concur before a patient is moved to another facility, he said.

"We're not going to move anybody until there's a place for him," he said, noting that the program will become operational early in 1972.

Brian said $225 million in Medi-Cal funds currently are earmarked for nursing home care and added that the new "proposed rate is designed to assure that nursing home care is available to those who need it."

"Medi-Cal is not going to pay for the cost of running nursing homes that were built in the wrong time or in the wrong place," he said. "We are not picking up the tab for operating costs that are too high because the facility is inefficient and Medi-Cal is not going to pay what someone thinks is fair."

The agency also called a public hearing for Dec. 15-16 to adopt regulations cutting back rates from $14 to $13.54 a day for nursing home patients.

The hearing is the result of a court order obtained by the California Association of Nursing Homes to hold a public hearing.

The court prohibited the department from establishing rates negotiated with the industry without such a hearing.

Greyhound Status In Mill Valley

Greyhound lines is not considering building a new depot in Mill Valley because "the revenue doesn't warrant it," a Greyhound official said yesterday.

William P. Wescott, director of customer relations, said the firm would relocate to an existing building if Mill Valley cancels the company's lease on the bus depot in Lytton Square. The city owns the depot and adjacent parking lot.

Wescott said it would be impractical to build a new terminal at Sunnyside and Miller avenues as suggested by Mill Valley City Council Tuesday when it refused to extend Greyhound's lease, which expired Wednesday

Pauling Says Vitamin Cures Common Cold

STANFORD (UPI) — Nobel prize winner Linus Pauling says in a new book Vitamin C is the cure for the common cold.

"The natural, essential food ascorbic acid (Vitamin C), taken in the right amounts at the right time, would prevent most of these colds from developing and would in most cases greatly decrease the intensity of the symptoms in those that do develop," Pauling says.

Pauling's book, "Vitamin C and the Common Cold," said ascorbic acid has been around since 1928, when it was developed by Dr. Albert Szent-Gyorgyi.

Nevertheless, Pauling said, Americans spend about half a billion dollars a year on cold medicines which "do not prevent the colds. They may decrease somewhat the misery of the cold, but they also do harm, because of their toxicity and side effects."

Pauling said colds are caused by viruses which circulate ceaselessly throughout the world. If the incidence could be decreased enough, colds would die out, "as smallpox has in the British Isles."

Pauling, only man in history to win two Nobel Prizes, has become interested in the field of vitamins. He is currently researching the effect of vitamin deficiencies on mental illness.

He said last year that since he started his research, he had been taking 3,000 milligrams of Vitamin C a day for five years and hadn't had a cold since.

Pauling said there has been a "fallacious" feeling that the intake of Vitamin C should be kept as low as possible. These worries do not apply to Vitamin C, he said, because it is not a drug and is not toxic.

"Another factor has probably been the lack of interest of the drug companies in a natural substance that is available at a low price and cannot be patented," he said.

Pauling won the Nobel Prize for chemistry in 1954 for his work on the structure of the protein molecule, and the Nobel Peace Prize in 1962 for his championing of the nuclear test ban treaty.

Marijuana Hearing

A preliminary hearing was set yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for Dec. 17 for Mark Robert Topper and Eugenia Henriette Polos, both of Novato, who are charged with growing and possessing marijuana on Oct. 14.

Child Center Fund Asked Of County

The Marin Mental Health Advisory Board has recommended that the Marin County Board of Supervisors allocate up to $30,000 this fiscal year to keep the Marin Child Development Center from folding.

The recommendation, along with a suggestion that the center become a county program in 1917-72, must also be approved by the Marin Hospital District Board, according to mental health chairman Peter W. Palmer.

Palmer said funds accumulated since allocation for four posts as yet unfilled, at the Community Mental Health Center will cover the cost if the supervisors and the hospital district board agree.

Supervisors had ordered that any new program must be funded at the expense of existing programs already financed by the county.

The child development center which has a capacity of 30 children, but now handles 21, according to Palmer, had been funded by private foundation funds which have been exhausted.

The Marin Mental Health Advisory board also recommended:

NEW PROGRAMS — Establishing a residential treatment center for alcoholics, a psychiatric day care center for children, a methadone program for heroin users, and vocational and social programs for the mentally retarded.

FIVE-YEAR PLAN — Approving the group's five-year plan listing goals by health service as required by the state.

GROUP THERAPY — Increasing the proportion of group to individual therapy at the Community Mental Health Center.

Indians Begin Second Year On Alcatraz

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A hardy band of young Indians today began their second year on rocks, desolate Alcatraz Island — symbolic home of a militant "red power" movement that has known few successes.

Their tribal elders will help them celebrate the first anniversary of the invasion of the former federal penitentiary with traditional Indian ceremonies this weekend.

The occupants—who number somewhere between 20 and 130, depending on whom you ask—still hold the 12-acre island in San Francisco Bay which they seized in a raid on Nov. 20, 1969.

Federal officials have made no effort to remove them—and say they won't until the White House and Congress decide what's to be done with Alcatraz.

The successful invasion by 89 men, women and children came 10 days after a half-in-jest first attempt to capture the island by 14 college-age men and women.

And it spawned a series of similar "red power" land seizures, particularly in northern California.

The Indians also took over a deserted U. S. Army communications center about 60 miles away near the University of California at Davis. The federally owned, 640-acre site is in the process of being transferred to the university.

But attempts to take Lassen Volcanic National Park and federal and private campgrounds around it plus a fort in Seattle and Ellis Island in New York harbor all failed.

The Pit River Indians have made repeated attempts to capture part of 5,000 square miles of northern California which they claim was stolen by the government in 1853. An attempt to invade Lassen Park was turned back last June, but forced closure of the park for several days.

Indians were arrested later for trespassing at a private campground, in the park and in a national forest. A violent melee erupted last month when authorities drove 100 Indians out of a camp they had seized near Burney. A federal court has rejected the Pit River tribe's legal claims.

The Alcatraz seizure began in earnest when the invaders issued a proclamation demanding immediate title to the federally owned island, which was abandoned when the famous prison was closed in 1963. Federal authorities rejected the demands, but made no effort to remove the Indians.

The occupants were mostly young people, although a few families with children joined them.

Herbert Spencer, English philosopher (1820-1903), coined the phrase "survival of the fittest."

Moscow Working On Pollution

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Kremlin, once boastful of Moscow's cleanliness, has noticed the blue cloud overhead and is beginning anti-pollution work.

The Kremlin now has said "nyet" to city planners' ideas of locating more worker apartment buildings near factories — plants with pollution potential are to be located out of town.

The Soviets are also trying out buses with low-pollution engines. But with a new Fiat-built auto plant sent to turn out 600,000 cars a year, Moscow's pollution woe may be only beginning.

Huge U.S. High-Lift Hydro Pump Being Installed In Kern County

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Installation of the largest capacity high-lift hydro pump ever manufactured in the United States is now in progress at the state water project's Edmonston Pumping Plant in Kern County.

Based at the foot of the Tehachapi Mountains, the 400,000-pound pump, scheduled for initial operation by June of 1971, will be joined by 10 others between now and 1972 to lift project water 2,000 feet over the mountains into the reservoirs of Castaic and Cedar Springs dams.

The Edmonston Pumping Plant is a key link in the $2.8 billion State Water Project, according to the department of water resources, and the last in a series of pumping stations from the Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta to the Tehachapi Mountains.

Each of the Edmonston pumps will have the capacity to lift some 142,000 gallons of water per minute 2,000 feet, when driven by 80,000-horsepower motors.

The pumps are approximately 31 feet tall and 16 feet in diameter. Size and weight of the pumps requires much special equipment for installation, and special assemblies had to be manufactured to lower workmen inside the pumps for internal assembly.

Additional pumps will be installed following the June test operations scheduled for the present pump, and four will be in operation by October to pump water into the east and west branches of the California Aqueduct.

Construction of the project, in operation since 1962, is estimated to be 96 per cent complete. Only 4 per cent of the construction contracts are still to be awarded to assure deliveries of water to Southern California by 1973.

Interviews Set

A special meeting to interview applicants for town manager will be held at 7 p.m. Monday in the Town Hall Council Chambers by the Corte Madera Town Council, according to Mayor Edward W. Colthurst.

turers that lead would have to be eliminated entirely from gasoline for future smog devices to work. This may still prove to be true, of course, but is unrelated to the health effects of lead.

Before yesterday's action, the state had no standard for the amount of lead that should be permitted in the air. Only three other states, Pennsylvania, New Mexico and Montana have lead standards, but all of them are much higher, five micrograms, and apply only to smelters, not vehicles.

Dr. Milton Feldstein, director of technical services for the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District, said that the average level of lead in the Bay Area was about 2.5 micrograms, with peaks at about 3.8.

The new standard will require a 60 per cent cut in lead emissions in the Bay Area, Feldstein estimated. He said that 95 per cent of the atmospheric lead in the region came from vehicles.

The only moment of doubt among board memebrs on the lead standard was voiced by Walter R. Schmid of Orange County, who asked if it could be met. A strong affirmative came from the board's chairman, Dr. A. J. Haagen-Smit: "If we set the standard, it will be met."

Opposition to the standard came almost entirely from the Ethyl Corp., the world's largest manufacturer of lead additives. Doctors and health experts it hired testified that the principal source of lead in humans was diet, and that atmospheric lead did not contribute significantly to lead in the soil.

Ethyl suggested that the standard be set at 10 micrograms per cubic meter, a limit branded by Haagen-Smith as "rather ludicrous."

The biggest gun firing for the standard of 1.5 finally adopted by the board was Dr. Joshua Lederberg, Nobel Prize winner and genetics professor at Stanford University Medical School. He cited lead as a unique environmental hazard because it accumulates in humans in an "almost irreversible" process.

Lederberg declared that Ethyl's claim that lead had not been shown to be harmful to health was "simply false." He cited studies he said showed lead can cause cancer of the kidney, leukemia, congenital malformations and chromosome breakage.

He also cited a study at Dartmouth that found a reduction in life span and vitality from long-term exposure to lead at low doses.

As for Ethyl's assertion that lead accumulates harmlessly in human bones, Lederberg testified that this accumulation of lead in bones is "mobilized back into the body circulation during times of stress and calcium demand (for example, milk production during the nursing period.)"

Dr. R. Cree Pillsbury of the Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association of Santa Clara-San Benito counties, testified that about 30 per cent of the lead that is inhaled is "taken into the body." He said that this was the "major source of lead in the human body."

Pillsbury noted that many of his patients "have nonspecific complaints such as headaches, gastrointestinal upsets, leg cramps, malaise and anemia. In a vast majority of these people no cause can be found for these complaints.

"These complaints are identical to the symptoms that people with clinical lead poisoning experience, and I suggest to you that many of the everyday nagging complaints of our population may be related to poisoning from air pollution."

Another threat posed by lead was cited by Dr. Sumner M. Kalman, pharmacology professor at Stanford University Medical School. A new study of wild oat plants in rural areas of the state found high accumulations of lead, raising the threat that "people who eat meat will be subjected to additional risk" because cattle feed on such contaminated grain, he said.

Dr. Frederic A. Lane of Bakersfield, citing industry's claim that lead had not been proven harmful to human health, said that "when the day comes that lead in our air can be shown to be beneficial to living things, I will insist that we hook up an exhaust device from autos to our home ventilation system and pipe lead in with the Muzak."

paid a man to murder his brother in 1965 and later shot the triggerman "to put him out of his misery" after beating him with a hammer.

At the time of his death, William Thoresen was appealing a 1969 conviction for illegal possession of 77 tons of weapons, including machineguns, mortars, mines and grenades.

The officers who found his naked, bullet-riddled body discovered $20,000 worth of military weapons and explosives inside the house.

Mrs. Thoresen, who said she planned to try to commit her husband, testified she picked up a .38-caliber revolver from a dresser top and "fired it until I couldn't fire it any more" when Thoresen said he was going to kill her.

Few people were in the courtroom shortly before 4 a.m. when the jury returned to deliver its verdict. Mrs. Thoresen sat still as it was read and then ran over to embrace her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Banich of Chicago, at the rail.

"Mama, mama . . . dady, daddy," she said softly. "Thank you so much for coming out here to be with me."

Her attorney said to her: "Louise, old thing, we've been through a lot."

She said, "Thank you, it's all over now."

to testify under any circumstances.

Dressed in blue prison denims and speaking in a calm, clear voice, Manson began by saying he hoped he could clarify the things that had been said at the 19-week trial about the "family" and about "any conspiracy to commit murder." He said he never had killed anyone and had never ordered anyone else to kill someone.

His attorney, Irving Kanarek, rose sputtering to his feet to protest Manson's testifying. The slender defendant spoke into a hand microphone saying: "Sit down, stupid."

plebiscite?" Liu asked. "I think not. The Communists are perfectly aware that if such a plebiscite were to take place they would be repudiated by an overwhelming majority of the Chinese people."

Soviet Ambassador Jacob A. Malik, in a surprise move, made an appeal Thursday for the seating of Peking which he said would restore the "usurped" rights of Communist China.

Though the Soviet Union always has voted in favor of seating Communist China, it had not spoken in behalf of it for two years.

Wrecks Send Novatans To Hospitals

Two Novato residents were hospitalized yesterday when their car plunged through a fence on Highway 101 in San Rafael and struck a utility pole.

Three other persons received less serious injuries in two other accidents, according to the California Highway Patrol.

The the first wreck, Esther L. Thompson, 57, of 6 Doris Avenue, was treated at Marin General Hospital for lacerations of both knees and transferred to Hamilton Air Force Base Hospital.

A passenger, James Rush, 33, of 2112 Vineyard Road, was listed in fair condition today at Marin General with a fractured right hip and dislocated left shoulder.

Officers said Mrs. Thompson was driving north on Highway 101 near the junction of Highway 17 at 2:20 p.m. when her brakes failed. She pulled the emergency brake and her car swerved into the center divider railing, crossed the freeway, went through a fence, crossed Francisco Boulevard and hit an iron utility pole.

In the second mishap, Joy P. O'Leary, 44, of 48 Edward Avenue, San Rafael, eastbound on North San Pedro Road near East Meriam Avenue at 1:35 p.m., ran off the road and struck three trees, demolishing her car.

Officers said she was taken to Marin General for treatment of unspecified minor injuries, but a hospital spokesman had no record of her.

Two young Novato women were injured yesterday at 9:20 p.m. when their cars collided at Ignacio Boulevard and Entrada Drive, Ignacio.

Mary C. Convis, 18, of 2 Drakewood Lane, was treated at Novato General Hospital for shoulder pain. Cynthia A. Hiatt, 23, of 12 Saint Johns Court, was treated for scrapes.

A Legal Fee Of $1.275 Million

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The attorney who brought a taxpayers' suit against firms benefitting from the property assessment practices of convicted bribe taker Russell Wolden has won a $1,275,000 legal fee.

Retired Appellate Justice A. F. Bray awarded attorney Morris Lowenthal of San Francisco 85 per cent of the $1.5 million fee. The remainder went to John M. Thorpe of Hayward, co-counsel in the class action.

The fee was based on a percentage formula applied to more than $10 million in underassessed taxes recovered for the city by the suit. The attorneys filed the action after Wolden, the city assessor, was convicted of accepting bribes from taxpayers.

Sixth Army May Build Houses At Fort Baker

struction of Fort Baker will require congressional approval. "Congress pulls the strings: anything the army does is done at the direction of Congress."

He said the research center, already approved by the Department of Defense, is the only major project approved for the Presidio with no provision for housing included in the funding, but could not explain the omission.

The colonel praised Larsen's agreement with San Francisco which will provide for a complete exchange of information between the city and the Army on all plans for use of the Presidio and its immediate surrounding area.

"For the first time he (Larsen) has told this region he is going to save open space at the Presidio," Mason said. When asked whether the general also planned to save open space at the forts, the public information officer said "the only place there seems to be concern about open space — at least that I'm aware of, is at the Presidio."

"You have here a situation of vested interest of a small group of people," Mason explained. "People in San Francisco are delighted to see no housing built in San Francisco and people in Marin County would like to see any construction done at the Presidio."

But Mason made it clear San Franciscans are like to be delighted by the future Army building plans: "... This post belongs to Swede Larsen, and, as he would say: 'there ain't anybody going to build no houses on my post.' "

Marin officials reacted with predictable dismay to General Larsen's statements. "This is a reversal of their (the Sixth Army's) stand," said Supervisor Michael Wornum, "and I'm obviously against it; that land should be turned into a headlands park. I certainly hope the Army will change back to its original plans to eventually move out of the forts."

Pierre W. Joseke, county director of parks and recreation, said he felt the Army, and everyone else, should huild housing closer to where people work, so they can walk to work. "We can't keep following a trend of putting more commuters on the Golden Gate Bridge, of putting people somewhere just because there is space."

Joske said he was confident the Army could find room for housing at the Presidio "because there is a lot of room on the Presidio; a lot of buildings and things they have there are becoming obsolete and could be removed."

er the youth had broken free from the grasp of another San Rafael police officer, Scott Nelson.

The Solano County Superior Court trial resumed yesterday after a one-day recess, which was called because two of the defendants were injured in a massive chain reaction auto accident Tuesday on Interstate 80 near Crockett.

Alvis Dean Bailey, 43, of San Francisco suffered a fractured right leg and hobbled into court yesterday on crutches. Charles Porter Vance, 56, also of San Francisco suffered internal injuries.

Testimony resumed yesterday afternoon, although Judge William E. Jensen was first hesitant about restarting the trial because the two defendants appeared to be in considerable pain.

Officer Nelson testified yesterday he saw Lansing strike a policeman on the head with a picket stick, but could not identify the officer.

Under cross-examination, Nelson admitted he had told the Marin County Grand Jury, which indicted the seven defendants, that the officer struck was Rose. But he said he would stick to yesterday's version that he could not identify the officer.

Retarded Girl's Father Is Dead

ARCADIA, Calif. (UPI) — Clark Wiley, 70, was found fatally shot today shortly before he was due for arraignment with his wife on charges they kept their 13-year-old daughter a prisoner for most of her life.

First indications were that Wiley had taken his own life.

Wiley and his estranged wife Irene, 50, were arrested Monday after welfare workers found the child, Susan, in their home. She was unable to walk, wore diapers and had retarded muscle development. Authorities said the child had the mental capacity of a 12 to 18-month old infant.

Woman Reports She's Attacked

A 21-year-old San Rafael college student was raped in her apartment shortly after noon yesterday, police reported.

The woman had just returned from classes to her Canal Street apartment when she was overpowered by a man described as in his late 20s, five feet seven inches tall, of slight build, with sandy hair and several days growth of beard. He was wearing a grey pendleton shirt and brown slacks, police reported.

After he left, werning her not to call police for 10 minutes, she wriggled free of her nylon stocking bindings and called police. There was no evidence of forced entry into the apartment, and the woman had no idea of how he gained entry, police reported.

THURBER

was going to beat up Allan Daly," Cavelli told the court.

He said that Thurber gave him two photos of Daly as well as his address and the make, model and license number of his car.

Under cross-examination by Cohn, Cavelli denied that he had been promised anything for testifying or that he thought it would help him at Soledad. Actually, he indicated, he was worse off because of his testimony.

"I think that my life is in danger now," he said.

The deaf mute Mercado, who lives, as did Wamsley, at the home of the mother of Wamsley's girl friend across the street from Thurber, spoke slowly and deliberately with his hands as he testified yesterday.

Interpreter Grace Flanagan repeated aloud the questions she was translating into sign language for Mercado as well as his answers.

Mercado testified he saw Wamsley and Peterson leave Thurber's home one night in June and walk across the street to the garage of the home where he and Wamsley lived.

He said he saw Wamsley and Peterson make three firebombs, pouring gasoline in bottles and then stuffing in rags for fuses.

Mercado further testified that on July 3, the night before Daly was shot, he saw Thurber's son, Michael, switch license plates on Thurber's car.

Wamsley said in court Tuesday that it was Michael who drove Thurber, Rutherford and himself in Thurber's car to Daly's home the night of the fatal shooting.

The trial recessed yesterday until Monday when Cohn, who had said earlier he doubted he would present any defense witnesses, said he would have witnesses ready to testify.

Dutton's Wife Asks Dissolution

The wife of University of California Regent Frederick G. Dutton yesterday asked dissolution of their 24-year marriage.

A petition filed by June Dutton in Marin Superior Court stated the couple was married in 1946 and separated Jan. 1 of this year.

There are three children, Christopher, 20; Lisa, 16; and Eve, 10. The family home is in Sausalito.

Dutton, an attorney, was appointed to the university board in 1962 by Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

ABAG Call To Form Regional Government

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — The president of the Association of Bay Area Governments last night urged that it try again for legislation to convert the association into a regional governmental agency for the nine-county area.

Sonoma County Supervisor Ignazio A. Vella, speaking at ABAG's semiannual general assembly at His Lordship's Restaurant, urged that the legislation be "reflective of the Bay Area."

He did not detail his proposal, but apparently had in mind the same sort of legislation that has been killed several times in Sacramento. The association, comprised of elected city and county officials, wants any regional agency created by the state to be run by elected city and county officials.

Critics of ABAG, however, citing its difficulties in resolving competing interests among its members, generally favor a new agency run by officials elected specifically for that job by the voters.

Vella said that ABAG should be willing to settle for legislation which, " if not perfect, will be a beginning that we can vote for now and amend as needed."

He cautioned against giving "so much credence to the various ideas of pressure groups, local politics, special interest groups, the far left and far right, and lately, ecology nd environment."

Vella declared that "there are real problems of real people living in real, taxpaying communities in the real Bay Area that want solutions." If their problems are not resolved, he said. the state will impose solutions and bypass local government.

Delegates also viewed a 20-minute color slide show designed to explain the association. The show, which ranged from pictures of ABAG meetings to flowers, cost ABAG $1,-200.

Lucas Valley Man Gets MTC Slot

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — E. Jack Schoop of Lucas Valley, chief planner of the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission, was elected yesterday as the commission's representative on the new Metropolitan Transportation Commission.

Schoop was nominated by BCDC chairman Melvin Lane, and given a unanimous vote for the position.

The MTC created by the Legislature, will have strong powers over transportation in the Bay Area. It will pass on all applications for state and federal funds, and will draw a plan to guide all future regional transportation in the nine-county area.

Schoop's selection may mean that three Marin residents will be on the 19-member MTC, although the county will have only one official representative, A. W. Gatov of Kentfield. Supervisor John F. McInnis is expected to represent the Association of Bay Area Governments on the MTC.

Feb. 8 Trial For Gnoss Arson Case

William Phillip Nance, 20, of Santa Rosa, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to charges of burglary and arson stemming from the $250,-000 fire Oct. 12 at Gnoss Field.

A jury trial was set for the week of Feb. 8 for Nance, who is free on $1,000 bail.

Officers have said that Nance and three other youths went to the airport to steal gasoline. Upon discovering they had to go inside a building to release a lock on a gas pump, they reportedly stole a tape recorder and radio and then set the building on fire to cover fingerprints.

The other youths are still being held in Sonoma County on other charges.

Marin City CSD Board Split On Brooks Issue

A rift developed in the Marin City Community Services District last night as that group considered whether to demand that charges be brought against former executive director, Harold B. Brooks Jr.

Brooks had filed a claim for back pay against the district, but director Doretha Mitchell said, "I feel we ought to be the ones who bring charges. He took us to the cleaners."

She was joined in her demand for immediate legal action against Brooks by director Arthur Miller, but the rest of the board adopted a wait-and-see attitude.

"Had Mr. Brooks forged my name, I would have done anything I could to clear my name," Miller said to Chairman Frank Phillips.

Brooks resigned, then was fired in September, before his resignation took effect, amid a storm of charges that he had misused a credit card for major repairs and tires for his private auto and had refunded a $120 deposit although the board had ordered him not to.

"He used your name to draw out $100 for his personal use from CSD funds," Mrs. Mitchell told Phillips. Hwever, Phillips said prosecution is up to the county counsel's office.

Director C. J. Williams said he would not vote for legal action because the board gave Brooks the power he abused. Director Michael Washington made no comment.

The board ordered an audit of district funds when it fired Brooks, but declined to aim court action at him. However, Brooks has since filed a claim against the board to recover back pay and vacation reimbursement.

Board secretary Reba Mason said $308 was withheld from Brooks pay to reimburse the district for money allegedly misused.

Brooks is claiming $600, according to Thomas G. Hendricks of the county counsel's office. Hendricks said today the claim will be considered by the state Labor Commissioner Dec. 18, and predicted the district would be upheld.

Hendricks said the district is gathering evidence and "if that evidence indicates a course of action against Mr. Brooks then we would file it."

When it became clear last night that the board would not initiate action against its Brooks, Otis Gains, an employee of the district, sarcastically declared he should get some additional cash with impunity.

"What is fair for one is fair for me," he said. "Tomorrow morning I am going to charge $100 to the Community Services District."

Mrs. Mitchell took the opposite tack, threatening a citizen's suit if the board refuses to act.

The Marin City CSD Board Also:

CLINIC — Turned down a request by the Marin County Economic Opportunity Conncil for $3,600 for an adult clinic in Marin City.

APPOINTMENT — Appointed Mrs. Mitchell to serve on a temporary committee of the Marin County Housing Authority when that group selects its executive director Dec. 5.

FACILITIES — Tabled a discussion of charges for renting the Manzanita Hall facilities on a nightly basis.

NAME CHANGE — Took no stand on changing the name of the Sausalito School District to reflect that the district encompasses Marin City and forts Barry, Baker and Cronkhite.

RECREATION ASSISTANT — Decided by a 3-2 vote to screen 38 applicants for recreation assistant rather than allowing Executive Director Daniel F. Winters to pare down the number. Directors Miller and Washington dissented.

BENEFITS — Authorized Winters to apply for county retirement benefits on behalf of district employees.

DOORS — Allocated $300 for the repair of the front doors of Manzanita Center.

FIRE PROTECION — Decided to write to the county, to the county fire chief and to the Marin County Housing Authority asking for more fire protection. Winters said only one fireman is on duty at times when two or three should be.

SPEEDERS — Decided to write the California Highway Patrol asking for more enforcement of speeding laws in Marin City and for an end to long-term parking of buses on Drake Boulevard.

STOP LIGHT — Ordered that a letter be sent to the state Division of Highways requesting a stop light at the Marin City turn-off from Bridgeway.

BALL FIELD — Authorized Winters to investigate the pros and cons of obtaining land for a baseball field, football field and playground from the Tamalpais High School District.

ABATEMENT — Was told by Capt. Lee Gary Booker of the Marin County Fire Department that abatement proceedings to force the Tamalpais High School District to clean up its 34-acre plot in Marin City are now being processed through the sheriff's department. He suggested that the district might be willing to sell its holdings for a nominal fee to avoid the $1,800 cleanup cost.

Deadline For College Entry

Students planning to apply for admission to California state colleges next fall should apply by Nov. 30 to receive maximum consideration, according to Dr. David Kagan, coordinator of admission services.

Filings received after Nov. 30 will be considered on a first-come, first-serve basis at colleges unfilled by the November applicants, Kagan said.

Applications should be mailed only to the college of first choice with alternate choices listed, Kagan said. Prospects should include a $20 processing fee, Kagan said.

Bronze Stars To Dogs Confirmed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Army confirmed a St. Louis Post-Dispatch story Friday that two dogs were listed as Bronze Star medal winners in Vietnam last month.

A military announcement in Vietnam on the ordering of Bronze Star awards for 21 recipients contained two fictitious names with serial numbers which turned out to be dogs.

"Authorities in Vietnam have determined that the order was a hoax and it has been revoked," a Defense Department spokesman said.

TWA Announces 130 Layoffs

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Trans World Airlines will dismiss 130 of its employes in the San Francisco Bay area before the end of the year as part of a worldwide cutback, the financially-troubled firm announced today.

TWA, which lost $37 million during the first 10 months of the year, reported Thursday it would lay off between 1,500 and 2,000 employes around the world before Jan. 1.

The airline has 2,800 workers in the Bay Area.

ITU Seeks Court Ban On So-Called 'Harassment'

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO—A labor attorney yesterday sought a federal court order to end what he claimed was harassment of union men picketing the Independent-Journal, by federal marshals.

U. S. District Court Judge William T. Sweigert told attorney Cecil Poole he would rule on the request Monday. The judge then resumed hearing civil and criminal contempt charges against four Bay Area locals and several union officials.

The National Labor Relations Board has charged the unions with conducting an illegal secondary boycott against Independent-Journal advertisers in violation of a court order.

Poole complained about incidents Nov. 10 and Nov. 16. He claimed a U. S. marshall and two photographers invaded a motel room occupied by two union men, in an attempt to serve an injunction order. Poole also said marshals demanded identification from pickets.

Poole is one of two attorneys representing International Typographical Union 21 — which has been on strike against the I-J since Jan. 7 — and Teamsters Local 85. Attorneys for Teamsters Local 70 and Longshoremen's Local 10 said they were not aware of Poole's plans to seek the restraining order against the marshals.

During the contempt hearings yesterday, NLRB attorneys put four witnesses on the stand.

San Rafael Police Officer Frederick G. Castillo, a former member of Teamsters Local 85, said he had seen the local's secretary, Tim Richardson, among the pickets in San Rafael.

Castillo told of seeing pickets stop trucks near Highway 101 and elsewhere in San Rafael, and identified several pickets from photographs.

The officer also said he checked out the license of one car involved in halting trucks. He said it was registered to Ricardo Garcia, a teamster who was arrested Oct. 26 on a charge of stinkbombing the I-J and is to stand trial in March.

Other witnesses included truck drivers James Matteri and George Williams, who said pickets told them to get out of San Rafael without delivering to stores, and Petrini's Market clerk Jerome P. Garcia. He said pickets at the Greenbrae store told him so long as the store advertised in the I-J it "would have problems."

NLRB attorneys yesterday pointed out to Judge Sweigert that the unions and officers named in the complaint have not obeyed subpoenas to produce certain records. Union attorneys tried to quash the orders on grounds of constitutional protection against self-incrimination. The judge said he would rule on the matter when the contempt hearing resumes Monday.

Prison, Fines For Anti-U.S. Incident

OEREBRO, Sweden (UPI) — One youth was sentenced to prison and five were fined today for an egg throwing demonstration last May against U.S. Ambassador Dr. Jerome H. Holland.

Originally 13 leftist youths, most of them Viet Cong supporters organized in the Swedish branch of the South Vietnamese National Liberation Front (NLF), were charged.

Five others earlier were fined and two were acquitted by the court today.

One of those sentenced today, a 24-year old man, was ordered to prison for two months for molesting the ambassador, while the other five defendants were fined for hindering the free movement of a representative of a foreign power.

'Crash Pad' Raid Nets Pot Suspect

A raiding party of eight law enforcement officers, armed with a search warrant for LSD and marijuana, entered a San Anselmo "crash pad" yesterday making one arrest and confiscating numerous bags of suspected marijuana and marijuana seeds.

Officers said they entered the residence at 33 Sequoia Drive at about 3:55 p.m. with a warrant signed by Marin Superior Court Judge E. Warren McGuire and found four plastic bags, a tobacco can and cigar box filled with the suspected weed and its seeds.

Lt. G. Albert Howenstein, who led the raid, said officers also found hypodermic syringes and needles, pills suspected as dangerous drugs and several roach holders.

Howenstein, whose force of five San Anselmo officers was accompanied by two county narcotics agents, said Lorie Joy Towers, 21, of Forest Hills, New York, was arrested on suspicion of possessing dangerous drugs. She was booked into Marin County Jail where she was held in lieu of $1,250 bail to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Howenstein said the two-story home has been occupied by six adults and two children for several months. He said a 6-year-old girl found there yesterday was turned over to the probation department for protective custody.

Four other adults were at the home when raided, Howenstein said, but were not arrested.

Willis Correction

Former Sausalito patrolman Stephen M. Willis said today he testified at a hearing Wednesday that he did not consider suspended Sgt. Thomas H. Zink a competent policeman. The Independent Journal yesterday reported that Willis testified he considered Zink competent.

Officer Files $2 Million Suit

Petaluma Policeman Vilho Ahola, who was shot last year in the line of duty, has filed a $2 million lawsuit against his convicted assailant, Walter Lee Hale.

Ahola, 42, was shot by Hale on Nov. 7 when he went to the Hale home at 718 I Street to help Mrs. Hale remove personal belongings. Ahola remains paralyzed from the waist down.

Hale, 51, was convicted of assault on a police officer and was sentenced on March 13 to one-to-15 years in state prison. Ahola is seeking $1 million in general damages and $1 million in punitive damages.

Novato police reported a false bomb report at Novato High School at 8:56 a.m. yesterday, latest in a series to the school.

An unidentified male called the school and said "a bomb is going to go off at Novato High," police said. No further action was taken.

Pay Hike For Cotati Police Chief

A 5 per cent salary increase for the chief of police and hiring three replacements for the public works department were approved last night by the Cotati City Council.

The salary raise for Chief Tony Locarini will bring his salary to $801 per month, which the council felt was more in line with the prevailing wage scale for small town police chiefs.

In hiring three public works employees, the council filled vacancies created by two firings and a resignation.

Hired were Philip Binkley at a salary of $491 per month and Gary Newport and Louis Bruce at $465 per month.

They will replace Ronald Santero and John Rossi who were fired by City Mgr. Paul W. Salfren for poor work records and Raymond Butler, who resigned in protest over the firings.

The Cotati City Council also:

HOUSING — Asked for more information on a plan by the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors to establish a county-wide housing authority.

ADVISORS — Reported that 13 applications had been received for service on the Citizens Planning Advisory Committee and that more would be welcome.

PLANNING — Heard a report that Herbert Miller and Robert Frazier had applied for appointment to the planning commission vacancy created by the resignation of John Harte. Salfen said more applicants are sought and that the planning commission will interview the applicants at a closed meeting on Nov. 24 and make a recommendation to the council.

Forty photographs snapped by photography students at Sir Francis Drake High School are on display in the Marin County Library at the Civic Center.

County Librarian Bruce D. Bajema announced that the exhibit will be open to the public from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday until the end of this month.

The photographs, in black and white, are the work of 26 students of instructor Reynolds Crutchfield of San Anselmo.

They depict Marin County scenery and people, with emphasis on light and shadows.

"The young photographers are demonstrating the way in which they interpret their environment," said Crutchfield. "The photographs are outstanding for high school students."

Sleepy Hollow Swim Team In The Works

Directors of the Sleepy Hollow Homes Association decided last night to sponsor a swimming team for Sleepy Hollow youngsters aged 6 to 17, president Merritt A. Robinson reported.

Robinson said the team will be organized next spring, probably in April or May.

Elks Oppose Socialist Meeting At Berkeley

Use of University of California facilities for a Young Socialist Alliance "revolution conference" was protested yesterday by San Rafael Lodge 1108, B.P.O. Elks.

The lodge sent telegrams to Gov. Ronald Reagan and U.C. president Charles J. Hitch declaring:

"We vehemently object to the use of facilities at University of California, Berkeley, by the Young Socialist Alliance on Nov. 20, 21, 22 whereat methods of revolution and other anti-government subjects will be taught. Patriotic taxpayers provide and finance the university and its operation and do not intend it to aid and abet those seeking the overthrow of our system of government."

Lt. Col. Walter S. Filler, Elks Americanism chairman, said the telegram was approved by the lodge membership.

Highlight of the three-day Young Socialist Alliance conference on the U.S. Berkeley campus is to be an address at 1 p.m. Sunday by Peter Camejo on "How To Make a Revolution in the United States."

$406,000 Heist By Three Gunmen

NEW YORK (UPI)—Three men hijacked an armored truck today after pistol-whipping two guards and escaped with an estimated $406,000, police reported.

They said the Armored Carrier Corp. truck was parked outside a diner at 5:50 a.m. Two guards were inside the diner having coffee while a third remained in the truck.

When one guard left the diner and returned to the truck the three holdup men appeared. Both guards were struck on the head with pistols.

The holdup men then sped off in the truck with the two guards leaving the third guard at the diner.

Richard E. Timmerman, 16, of 680 Oranges Street, Novato, suffered a cut above his right eye and a skinned right knee when his car swerved off northbound Highway 101 at Hill Road, Novato, at 6:40 p.m. yesterday, Novato police reported. He told officers he would see his own doctor.

Tax Spenders Play Games To Conceal True Cost

Those in high places sometimes become very clever at explaining away what happens to the taxpayer's money. They become adept at making an expense appear to be a saving, in camouflaging an increase as a cut.

And when they do cut expenses somewhere, they make a great to-do over it, calling attention to how hard they are trying to protect the taxpayer — but carefully not mentioning that while a dollar was saved on one item, many additional dollars were spent somewhere else.

ONE OF THEIR FAVORITE devices is the "constant dollar."

This one is trotted out regularly by those who play financial sleight-of-hand games with the people's money at the federal level. The game there has become so complicated that nobody really knows from one day to the next how many billions the government is in debt, and frequently not even whether it is operating for the moment with funds on hand or a deficit.

The "constant dollar" is a device by which the sleight-of-hand players peg the dollar on the basis of its purchasing power in some past year (it is seldom the same year twice in this game). They can then show with what they pretend to be perfect logic that the increase in spending is really not so great because it is in terms of "inflated dollars," and if it were compared with the "constant dollars" would be found to be really insignificant.

THE LATEST to play this game is Melvin Laird, secretary of defense.

When President Nixon some months back announced "deep cuts" in defense spending, there were some (including this newspaper) who pointed out that the cuts didn't look very deep compared with the total arms outlay.

Such criticism apparently disturbs Secretary Laird. He has been reported as being unable to convince Congress and public that he really has trimmed his department's spending to the bone.

TO PROVE THAT he has, he trotted out the "constant dollar" — based, this time, on the buying power of the dollar in 1964. Chalmers M. Roberts of the Washington Post wrote a long article about Laird's explanation, arriving at the conclusion that, based on the 1964 "constant dollar," the defense cuts were the greatest since 1950.

There were charts with the article —produced by the Defense Department. These showed that arms spending at the peak of the Vietnam War in 1968 was roughly equal to that at the peak of World War II in 1945, and this year is down some $5 billion from that peak, a matter of roughly 7 per cent.

But in terms of 1964 "constant dollars," the 1968 peak was shown as little more than half that of 1945 (long before the 1964 "constant dollar" existed, of course), and, by a piece of mathematical legerdemain, the cuts in "constant dollars" have been not 7 per cent but more like 20 per cent!

THE TROUBLE with this nonsense is that it takes no cognizance of the fact that it is federal spending itself which is largely responsible for the decline in the dollar's buying power. If the Defense Department spends $80 billion, naturally each dollar will not buy as much as if it spent only half that — because credit must be inflated out of proportion to supply the additional funds. And as each defense dollar buys less, so does each dollar the taxpayer earns.

And if the tax bite for defense is decreased by 7 per cent, it does the poor taxpayer no good whatever to be told that if his dollars were converted to some non-existent value, the cut would be 20 per cent.

What We All Can Do

It is not enough to pass laws and think that in this way we are going to solve the ecological crisis.

If we are to reverse the current trend toward the further deterioration of our environment in Marin, as elsewhere, we must practice as well as preach ecological awareness. In other words, we will have to change our habits and revamp our way of life.

Some of the things we can do are: don't litter; make what you buy last longer; use fewer disposable products; take it easy on detergents and hard pesticides; avoid plastics; turn in bottles, cans and newspapers for recycling; compost organic garbage and plant a vegetable garden; be sparing in your use of autos and electricity.

In short, don't waste.

Court Refusal Merely Shows Fault In State Welfare Setup

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Refusal of the United States Supreme Court to hear a California case involving supplemental welfare to people who are working, but not earning enough to support their families, only goes to show that something is radically wrong with the welfare setup in this state.

This is not a question of too much, too often and too liberal; it is rather a question of discrimination against the welfare recipient who's really trying to work his way out of a bad situation.

QUITE OBVIOUSLY, the court's refusal to hear the case does nothing on behalf of the people who are making an effort to disengage themselves from the system. Rather, it is a legal block designed to promote the usage of welfare rather than save tax money for the taxpayer.

In other words, the welfare rules and laws put a penalty on effort to earn a living rather than mooch it from the state.

Even attorneys who took the case to the Supreme Court feel the plaintiffs have been "had" in that the effect of the court action is "to perpetuate a welfare system that is counter-productive."

Yet under the circumstances, and the wording of the state law and rules and regulations, the supreme court could do little else than refuse the case.

IT IS UP to the legislature to reform the welfare program to the extent that the state would be able to supplement earnings with subsidy in case earnings aren't enough.

Fred Gillette, welfare director of Santa Clara County, which was involved in the case, pointed out that a family with 10 children would qualify for $664 per month in welfare, while a worker at full-time on a 40-hour week might earn about $250 per month.

But instead of permitting the state to make up the difference of $414, the welfare system tells the recipient he must give up the job or lose the entire welfare benefit.

Not only the welfare recipient has a stake in this plan, but also every taxpayer.

WHEN THE WELFARE program was instituted back in the 1930s, the general idea was to help people help themselves. But today, the opposite appears to be the rule.

Welfare reform is really a necessity if the system is to survive, and assistance given to the really needy.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Courts' Approach To Drunken Driving

I read with interest your Nov. 6 editorial "A Step Toward Solving Drunken Driver Problem." Several years ago the municipal court joined forces with the Marin Institute in order that positive non-punitive steps could be taken to control the drunk driving problem in this county. Consequently, for the past five years, Marin has had a program which is at least comparable to "DWI Phoenix." In 1965, in order to assure the liaison I accepted a place on the board of the Marin Institute which has worked closely with the probation department to create a court school for drinking offenders and to provide a treatment facility. Initially all persons convicted of drunk driving were directed to attend the court school which not only took an educational approach but also endeavored to identify the alcoholic.

Unhappily, the impact was not as great as we hoped for and a statistical check in 1969 reflected that during the period of January through September of '68 there were 417 drunk driver filings while for the same period in 1969 there were 707 such filings, an increase of approximately seventy per cent over a one year period. Upon inquiry of the C.H.P. I was advised that approximately the same number of officers were on the highway during both periods and, therefore, the increase could not be attributed to increased enforcement.

Thus, it became perfectly clear that our education approach, while possibly deterring a second offense, did not have a significant impact on potential first offenders and, further, could not assure that persons identified as alcoholics would receive treatment. Moreover, many of the persons sent to the court school were found to have acute emotional problems (frequently not characterized by alcoholism) and education alone was obviously inadequate to deal with those persons.

As a result, we initiated our present program of referring first offense drunk drivers to the probation department for pre-sentence reports. This was based upon a judgment that before pronouncing sentence in such cases the court had an obligation to find out more about the first offender and to attempt to identify those who suffer from alcoholism, emotional problems, (etc.) . . .

In my opinion this is more effective than reliance upon the method described in "DWI Phoenix" which does not assure that those persons who have serious emotional or medical problems, such as alcoholism, will be exposed to a community based treatment program. Programs that rely too heavily on education are doomed to failure . . .

I doubt the assertion of the A.A.A. Foundation for Traffic Safety that "acute alcoholism is present in the majority of persons responsible for fatal automobile crashes. . . I have had occasion to examine D.M.V. records of some of those who are responsible for fatal automobile crashes in which drinking is involved. Most of such persons have no record whatsoever for drunk driving and there is no statistic of which I am aware to establish that the drinking drivers who are responsible for highway fatalities have ever been before a court on any related charge. This is probably why our arrest figures increase rather than decrease.

I believe that the Marin Courts are doing a good job with the drunk drivers that come before them. We have not learned how to deter the first offender and I am beginning to wonder whether we shouldn't go the route of some European countries and impose short terms of confinement as well as driving suspensions for all persons convicted of drunk driving, first offenders or not . . .

In any event, I wanted you to know that the Judges of the municipal court have endeavored to deal with this problem in a responsible and constructive fashion with an approach that is both punitive and therapeutic . . .

Election Causes Environment Worry

Coastal California from Marin County north is an area of extraordinary beauty. It has a magnificent coast, tree-covered mountains, fertile valleys, the great redwood forests, numerous as-yet uncontaminated rivers in addition to the finest wine growing region in the country.

But the results of the recent election, from the congressional level to the Sonoma County supervisors make one wonder if the fortunate residents of this area are aware of their heritage.

The election results indicate that a majority don't give a damn if Sonoma County becomes another Santa Clara County, our subdivisions another Westlake. Or if we lose all of our great rivers to Southern California's golf courses and swimming pools. It would appear that the candidates who were aware of the potentials for intelligent development or alternative disaster were all decisively defeated.

If ways to preserve and enchance the 1st Congressional District cannot be effected through political officeholders, other peaceful but persuasive ways must be found. If not, a lot of people will wake up one of these days and wonder what happened.

Nixon Will Not Pursue Purge –Needs Liberal Republican Votes

A Republican President joined in shooting down a Republican senator, Charles Goodell of New York.

And now other liberal GOP senators, who voted against President Nixon in the past, are uncertain whether they will be targets of a similar purge in 1972.

We report with knowledge that President Nixon does not intend to try to purge any Republican member of Congress, Senate or House, nor to feud with any GOP liberals if they vote against him.

There is a good reason to accept this declaration of intent. President Nixon certainly sounded as though he meant it when he discussed this matter in conversation the other day.

MORE THAN GOOD intentions support his words.

Namely: The President needs the Republican liberal senators more than they need him.

He needs their votes for a wide range of domestic legislation which he wants during the next two years. Two immediate examples —the family assistance plan, the keystone of the Nixon welfare reform, and the farm bill.

The Senate's failure to act on Nixon's farm legislation acutely hurt Republican candidates in the Middle West and may well have cost the GOP several House seats because of farm voter dissatisfaction.

AND PRESIDENT NIXON is also going to need the help of the Republican moderates and their votes in the 1972 presidential campaign.

They are politically strong in states where the President has been weak — such as Senators Clifford Case in New Jersey, Jacob Javits in New York, Edward Brooke in Massachusetts, Charles Percy in Illinois, and Robert Griffin in Michigan. They are all up for re-election in '72 and their willingness to campaign earnestly for Nixon — as well as for themselves — could well be crucial.

Their willingness to do so will depend on whether Mr. Nixon does three things: extends a cordial hand to the Republican liberals in the Senate, heeds their views in the formulation of his legislative programs and convinces them that purge is no longer his tactic.

PRESIDENT NIXON saw a wholly exceptional situation in the New York Senate race this year.

His view was that Goodell lagged from the beginning, had no chance of winning, that Conservative Party candidate James Buckley could win with a little extra help and would give the President considerable needed support in the Senate.

The Republican Senate liberals — and some GOP conservatives like Gordon Allott and Peter Dominick of Colorado — didn't see it that way. They saw the President's desertion of Goodell as a future peril to themselves and as an attempt to tell Republican senators they must not vote against the President very often or face White House punishment at the polls.

Twenty Republican senators gave Goodell their public support in letters, and eight of them campaigned for him in New York.

THIS BREACH within the Republican Party will take time to heal. It leaves tender sores. Its after-effects are divisive. But Republican liberals we have talked with do not think it will likely happen again in the Nixon administration. They feel that President Nixon is basically a party man and that his overriding political interest requires party unity, not party purge.

The predominant evidence is that President Nixon needs the Republican liberals in the Senate and their active support to get re-elected. That should bring them together.

BY NO MEANS NEUTRAL

The Old Rules Give Way To Provide Volunteer Army

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

WASHINGTON — They didn't have go-go joints when William C. Westmoreland was a young soldier, and if they had he wouldn't have spent any money in them. He and his classmates at West Point in the 1930s were as remote from social and cultural temptations off the post as Alexander the Great's tactics are remote from the ABM controversy. And Westmoreland, by choice, was more remote than most.

When he was a junior battalion commander at Fort Bragg, N.C., in the early days of World War II, "dope" was the particular sight setting that allowed for the aiming peculiarities of an individual weapon.

Now that he is 56 and chief of staff of the whole Army, as his classmates said he would be someday, go-go and dope and acid rock and black power and a catalogue of other matters career officers would like to keep off the military reservation have forcibly entered his vocabulary.

NO SOONER than it had to — in fact, a little late — the military establishment is conceding formally that the men it must train and motivate are the same ones who man the high schools, colleges and slum streets of America. There was a time when that fact was ignored because it was possible to make different men of them, via the basic training, boot-camp method of breaking and rebuilding.

In fact, it is still possible. The pot smokers, rock fans and apprentice Panthers who come into the service today are not so superior to those of the past that they cannot be broken and rebuilt. Even now men are capable of being motivated to charge up hills for strategic reasons as obscure to them as Alexander's battle plan at Guagamela.

The trouble is, if and when they come back down the hill, they don't ship over for that extra two or four years.

THIS IS A fact of life with which military administrators have learned to live in the post-war years because for most of that time there has been the pressure of the draft to keep rifle platoons and paint-chipping details up to strength. Draftees fleshed out the Army, and the threat of being drafted inspired volunteers for it and the other services.

Now, however, the Nixon Administration has made a partly political pledge to end the draft in another two and a half years or so. That means all-volunteer armed forces. And that means things have to do a lot of changing in the next 30 months.

Thus, Westmoreland and his Navy counterpart, Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt Jr., have been making speeches and issuing directives to drum up publicity for a new, humanitarian military force in which today's students and street dudes alike might learn to feel at home.

SO WE HAVE such innovations as a real live go-go girl performing at a club right on the post at Fort Carson, Colo., and ordinary enlisted soldiers drinking hard liquor instead of beer as they watch her dance. At the same post they run a coffee house like the ones outside, and believe it or not they allow agitation against the war and the Army and whatever else occurs to the coffee drinkers there engaged.

At Fort Bragg these days, dope means the same thing it means at Lenox Avenue and 125th Street in Harlem, or at Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School in the Washington suburbs. One of Westmoreland's proteges from the old days and from Vietnam, Lt. Gen. John J. (Jumping Jack) Tolson, is the man looking dope in the face there, running a treatment, rehabilitation and education program which might serve as a useful model to civilian authorities in ghetto or suburb.

In the Navy, Zumwalt is issuing a series of "Z-grams" — directives officially sanctioning sideburns, motorcycles, overnight liberty, and myriad other changes which in the current Pentagon mood are labeled improvements.

Thus do the topbrass and braid adjust to life in the Age of Aquarius.

Bridge District Gets Permit, Then Tries To Change The Rules

On June 30, the Sausalito City Council — not without considerable hesitation — approved a permit for the Golden Gate Bridge District to operate a ferry in Sausalito.

Terms of the permit were quite explicit, and the council and city staff agonized over them for weeks, hoping to make certain Sausalito was protected and that the ferry would not have an adverse effect on the already congested town.

The council was very firm about two conditions: that the bridge district would provide a permanent northern terminal in Marinship for out-of-town commuters and a whistle stop downtown for Sausalito residents.

At least one councilman wanted to withhold permission for ferry runs to Sausalito until a northern terminal could be established, but Dale Luehring, the bridge district's general manager, said a single northern stop would not be feasible.

LUEHRING TOLD the council in April the ferry would depend on mid-day and weekend tourist traffic to avoid serious revenue losses and indicated a northern stop, away from the downtown, would not appeal to tourists.

But, before the permit was finally granted, Luehring and his staff had attended several council meetings and promised the city a Marinship terminal, to be built within three to five months of the beginning of ferry service.

During those meetings Luehring and county Supervisor Michael Wornum, a director of the bridge district, stressed the district intended to serve Sausalito with the ferry service. Residents would benefit and commuters would reap the major gains from a ferry, Wornum said again and again.

Approximately one month later a consultant hired by the bridge district came up with a report that a northern terminal was not feasible because of the cost of dredging and said two stops in Sausalito would provide problems in scheduling.

This information was not new to the bridge district because, while asking for the permit, both problems had been mentioned by district employees. The same employees assured the city council the problems could all be worked out.

NOW THE DISTRICT is asking for a single terminal in the center of Sausalito within easy walking distance of the already crowded downtown area and asking the city to forget the promise of both northern terminal and downtown stop.

In addition, the district, which had talked of providing parking in Marinship, is asking to locate some 300 parking spaces between Litho and Locust streets, only a few blocks from downtown. The 300 spaces would almost double the amount of parking available now in the city's four major downtown lots.

And, unless the bridge district has discovered some miraculous way to move cars in and out of its proposed central terminal, that much more pafking so close to downtown could only curther choke Sausalito's streets.

IT IS NO WONDER some city officials and residents — Councilmen Wyman Hicks and Stephen Fraser for example — are angry with the new poposed ferry location. Hicks, Fraser and others feel the talk of dredging problems and schedules are not the real reason for abandonment of a Marinship terminal.

They believe the terminal is not being planned in the interest of Sausalito and its commuters (about 350 commuters are using the ferry each day) but to accommodate the thousands of tourists who flock to Sausalito via the ferry.

When, at the June meeting, the council appeared wary of the bridge district and tried to put stringent conditions on the ferry operation, supervisor Wornum became exasperated. "We are not an enemy power coming in to occupy the city of Sausalito," Wornum said and pleaded with the council to trust the bridge district.

The councilmen took Wornum's advice. Maybe they are sorry they did.

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

What Happened 10 Years Ago Still Has Its Echoes Today

Fusselman

The I-J column, "Remember When?" — 10 and 20 years ago — has a wide readership. The old-timers like to be reminded and new members of the club are always interested in what went before.

Because of the many years I served, my name comes up every now and then. Last Saturday this: "Nov. 14, — Alan Bruce of Marin County administrator . . . with Supervisor William D. Fusselman saying, 'the job might be short lived.'" What a laugh!

A letted from his boss, County Administrator Donald A. Jensen, saying that he was taking another position with the state (auto emission control.) It was pretty well known that I wasn't very happy about Bruce's performance, so his pals on the board looked at me. Following my strong belief that the next in line should always be given the first consideration, I spoke up and said, "Well Alan should have a chance." Then I followed with the quote above.

HEAVY PRESSURE had been put on me to go along with firing him, but I refused to hurt a young man just getting started. However, I recommended that we abolish the position and employ a special assistant to the board. This was on the idea that boards of supervisors would do the work they were elected to do — not just collect the salary once a month for spending money.

The job was abolished by ordinance in 1961. Bruce and his pals got up a referendum. This required the board to rescind its action or hold an election for the voters to decide. We set June 5, 1962 (a general election date). After a recall in the third district, Peter Behr came on the board and one day in my absence induced Walter Castro and Bill Gnoss to go along with him and they killed the chance for the public to vote on it.

I HAVE MANY times since in this column, laid on the table for all to see and read the sad story that is going on, because of the denial of your right to vote on the proposition.

Now, last Monday in the same "Remember When?" space this: "The Marin County Board of Supervisors, by 3-2 vote rejected a proposed ordinance banning descrimination in housing. Chairman Walter R. Castro and Supervisors William D. Fusselman and William A. Gnoss made up the majority."

This was an example of what I witnessed many times over the years. The earnest, well-meaning people, who were promoting this ordinance, just hadn't done their home work. Had this ordinance they presented been passed it would have produced a more precise, definable discrimination than they claimed existed then.

THEY FELL into the same trap that others have. They believed that if the board of supervisors of the City and County of San Francisco can pass ordinances that are effective throughout the city, the board of supervisors of the County of Marin can do the same. Not so! The board in San Francisco acts as both supervisors and city councilmen. This by a special act of the legislature.

At that time we had 10 cities in Marin (Tiburon had not yet incorporated.) I told those present that the minute they presented to and had passed this same ordinance by those 10 cities, I would vote for this one on our board. We only had jurisdiction in the unincorporated areas.

Sorry about the Indians this week. Next time, no matter what comes up.

IRS Announces A Simplified 1040

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Internal Revenue Service has unveiled this year's version of the basic 1040 income tax form, claiming that it has been "simplified" once again.

The new form will consist of 24 pages, eight fewer than last year, and instructions will be included in a separate booklet, rather than printed on the back of the form itself. The service also said it would figure income tax payments and retirement credits for any taxpayer so desiring, provided he earns no more than $20,000 in salaries, wages, dividends, interest, pensions and annuities, and takes the standard deduction.

Computers: They May Have A Scary Future

HOUSTON (UPI) —Let's say, for example, a computer in the Pentagon is sending top-secret information to a computer located at a Strategic Air Command base somewhere in the Midwest.

Someone with the proper know-how can eavesdrop on the conversation and get secrets that could be vital to the security of the nation, according to one computer expert.

Or suppose organized crime moves into the computer field and begins running its embezzling operations through punch cards and high-speed tapes.

There is another possibility, according to a second expert in the field.

Computers are nice but their brains can be picked by unauthorized persons and they can be used for illegal purposes. That is the opinion of two computer experts who filed separate papers on the subject Wednesday during the fall Joint Computer Conference.

"The instances of computerized crime are relatively rare on a scale with other types of larceny but the instances could increase if precautions are not taken now," said Dr. Dennis Van Tassel of the University of California at Santa Cruz.

Dr. J. M. Carroll of the University of Western Ontario, Canada, said valuable information can be safeguarded through a system of codes to activate computers, or by programming computers to communicate in codes that would be changed periodically and decoded by inexpensive, specialized computers.

"There can be no privacy without security," Carroll said.

Van Tassel said computerized crime requires highly-skilled, technical minds, but with more persons becoming familiar with computers, the machines will be turned to criminal uses more often.

"Although most criminal uses of computers are by individuals, organized crime has not overlooked the possibilities of large payoffs through the use of computerized embezzlement," he said.

In 1968, he said, a credit card fraud cost the Diner's Club $1 million.

He said most computers are too large to steal. But he said there is a good market for stolen computer tapes, cards and discs.

"Another possible area for the computer criminal is the area of stolen computer time," Van Tassel said. "In late 1967, for example, the Chicago Board of Education accused five employes in its data processing bureau of setting up their own data processing firm while using the board's equipment during slow hours."

Carroll said new computer data systems which involve terminals through which persons can "talk" with computers miles away through telephone lines are vulnerable to electronic eavesdropping.

"We know it is because we have done it on an experimental basis," he said.

Carroll said anyone with the technical ability could set up an unauthorized terminal to bleed the computer of its knowledge or to use its time without paying for it.

Special Family Dinner Scores Hit Among Sabella's Clientele

A special family dinner at $3.95 has been drawing good attendance at Sabella's on Monday through Thrusday nights recently.

Lou Sabella describes it as a "return of the family trade which is becoming increasingly difficult to hold these days with spiraling prices."

Wholesale food prices frequently fluctuate from one week to the next, but restaurants are obliged to adjust their menu figures to the average instead of repricing them at every whim of the suppliers. Lou thinks he has solved part of this problem by making specials of some of his most popular selections when the price is right.

Thus, one time you'll find halibut champagne featured; on other occasions it may be halibut Florentine, deep sea bass, jumbo Louisiana prawns, whole turbot amandine, mahi mahi, rex sole, sandabs, red snappers provencale or something else. So far he has been lucky and hasn't had to duplicate dishes. It's a good trick if he can keep it up — but I don't think there are that many different edible varieties of seafood in the market to continue indefinitely.

Don't expect a choice of several $3.95 complete dinners when you go. They are limited to one each night. If that doesn't satisfy you, let your eye wander over the regular menu. I'm sure you'll find something appealing.

Lou has had a problem here that doesn't have to be faced to the same extent by smaller restaurants. Sabella's is a huge place, with the entire dining room exposed to public view. It may be doing an excellent evening's business and still appear to be half empty — a situation every restauranteur tries to avoid.

The family dinner has been a blessing — and it makes diners feel more comfortable knowing they have lots of company. Sabella's has always been a family-type place and the family wants to keep it that way. If you think any popular restaurateur enjoys charging high prices you're badly mistaken. It doesn't help his reputation.

That busy night manager and maitre d', who seems to be all over the place, is Mitch Vezalich, who was at Veneto's in San Francisco for 17 years. He tried to retire — but it didn't take.

WITHOUT TAKING A COMPLETE CHECK, we have been trying to sound out a few spots on Thanksgiving dinners. It appears, as usual, that quite a few places will be closed that day — perhaps more than is generally the case. But you are bound to find some openings and we'd suggest making advance reservations.

THE NEWLY OPENED Alvarado Inn at Ignacio is one place that will be open and serving from 1 to 10 p.m. Turkey dinner is $4.50 and the regular menu will be available.

Alvarado Inn got off to a good start last weekend and promises to provide both good food by chef Nello Russo and interesting times in the days ahead. You'll like the decor here and the outlook from the dining room.

BERNARD'S EXECUTIVE LOUNGE in San Rafael will serve Thanksgiving dinner from 2 to 10 p.m. Reservations are recommended, for it's not a large dining room. Turkey dinner with dressing, salad, vegetable and dessert will be $3.95. Baked Virginia ham and prime rib dinners will run $1 more.

JERRY'S FARM HOUSE at Olema reports that dinners will be served from noon to 10 p.m. Complete turkey dinner is $4.50, with a $2.25 tab for youngsters under 12. The regular menu will also be served. This includes several seafoods, barbecued chicken and steaks — so you'll have a good choice.

Look for Jerry and Agnes Bunce to get their dining room enlarged this winter, increasing its capacity by another 100 chairs. The extra space is needed, for the Farm House is one of the most popular restaurants in west Marin.

AT THE OLD VIKING in Lagunitas, not everything on the menu will be Swedish food. Turkey dinner will probably be in the $4.50 range, though the Mattssons had not determined the exact price at this writing. Other choices will include duck, short ribs and veal. Dinners are from 1 p.m.

BILL AND ADOLPH'S WEST END VILLA, San Rafael will serve Thanksgiving dinner from 3 p.m. Turkey and prime rib are the specialties of the day.

LE CHALET BASQUE in Santa Venetia usually stays open and this Thanksgiving is no exception. Dinners will be served from 4 p.m. Regular menu and also turkey will be featured. Make reservations if your party consists of four or more persons. Couples should, too, though at times can get by without it.

RUBINI'S in Fairfax is keeping to its usual custom for the Thanksgiving week by closing Monday through Thursday — opening again for business as usual on Friday night.

The banquet room here has been enjoying good patronage. Gordon Jones tells me that the second week of December (a popular time for office and group parties) is all taken up, but time is still available for the first week of the month.

FRANCHINI'S CHATEAU has completed its redecorating, but is traditionally closed on Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Niki Franchini is now running a cocktail period from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. Tuesdays through Fridays. Hot hors d'oeuvres are supplied.

ALSO AMONG THE CLOSINGS will be La Petite Auberge, San Rafael; Lin Fa Gardens at Northgate; and Peacock Gap Country Club.

Acutally Peacock Gap has given up dinners for the winter season — except for special banquets, which are being booked heavily.

SHIPWRECK PETE'S at the Sportsman's Lodge in Novato is closing — with the Lind family observing its own holiday. The Linds celebrated their first year in business here Wednesday — now I guess they're celebrating the celebration on Thanksgiving.

ALSO IN NOVATO, Cloud 5 is closing next Thursday. It has skipped Thanksgiving day dinners for the last few years.

FLAMENCO AND CLASSICAL GUITARIST Fritz Von Gluck is back a London Arms on the San Anselmo Miracle Mile, playing Saturdays from 9 p.m. and Sundays from 8 p.m.

BUD AND VIRGINIA STEINHOFF of Mill Valley, owners of the Purple Onion in San Francisco, will do a half-hour special over KPIX-TV tomorrow at 7 p.m. History of the club will be covered, along with the many personalities who got their start here. These include Ronnie Schell, Phyllis Diller, the Kingston Trio, Jim Nabors, the Smothers Brothers and Rod McKuen.

PETE CLUTE of San Anselmo and his partner jazzman Turk Murphy in Earthquake McGoon's in San Francisco will open McGoon's Magic Cellar next Tuesday.

Years ago they discovered several trunks of magic paraphernalia belonging to Carter the Great, who made headlines around the turn of the century. They have assembled most of the tricks for their bar patrons. The cellar will be open daily at 4 p.m. — but if there are 20 persons there when you visit you won't be admitted. That's the limit at one time.

Nixon Reassures San Jose Mayor

SAN JOSE (UPI) — President Nixon has written San Jose Mayor Ronald James assuring him the Oct. 29 rock and egg-throwing demonstration in San Jose "in no way reflects on the citizens of your community."

The letter was in response to a City Council statement of regret over the incident, which followed a Nixon campaign speech at the San Jose Municipal Auditorium.

"As I wrote to Joe Ridder, publisher of the San Jose Mercury and News, a few days ago, the fact the October 29 incident happened in San Jose in no way reflects on the citizens of your community or on San Jose State College," Nixon wrote James.

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) says it will make more use of its powers to seize dangerously flammable products until importers and manufacturers adhere more strictly to flammability standards.

The FTC issued its warning in conjunction with the recall of about 88,000 women's lightweight scarves Thursday.

The commission seized some 10,000 nylon scarves from a big New York importer, Berkshire Handkerchief, Inc., and stopped the sale of 78,000 others Berkshire had already sold to a chain store.

Heyerdahl Says Oil Slicks Killing Atlantic

PARIS (UPI) — Thor Heyerdahl, Norwegian leader of the Kon-Tiki and Ra expeditions told a news conference Thursday night unless men take drastic action the Atlantic Ocean will become a dead sea within five years.

Heyerdahl was in Paris to sign the French edition of his latest book "The Ra Expeditions" which tells of his two voyages from Morocco to the West Indies in papyrus boats with a multinational crew.

"We discovered that large oil slicks in the Atlantic follow exactly the same currents we followed ourselves and do not disappear but keep moving, destroying life where they are.

"Unless men take urgent measures the Atlantic will become a dead sea within five years" he said.

Heyerdahl said he is now working on the film of his Ra expedition which should be ready early next year.

SBA Head Resigns, Lists Poor Health

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI)— Hilary Sandoval Jr. announced today he has resigned as the $50,000-a-year administrator of the Small Business Administration (SBA) effective Jan. 1. He denied he is quitting because of administration pressure and said the only reason is poor health.

Sandoval, 40, has been in a hospital with a circulatory ailment, but is back home now. As SBA administrator, he achieved the highest government rank of any Mexican-American. He was appointed in February, 1969.

Areas Of Service For Rec Program

Only residents within the corporate limits of San Anselmo can participate in the proposed San Anselmo School-City recreation program, the San Anselmo School District board has decided, Supt. W. Kenneth Lowry reported yesterday.

This agreement which was reviewed by County Counsel Richard V. Godino, must now go to the city for approval, Lowry said.

The recreation agreement has been discussed between the school and the city for several months. The district had held out for inclusion of the entire school district, including the areas such as Sleepy Hollow which are outside the city limits. The board changed its mind and agreed to just the incorporated city at the meeting Tuesday night, Lowry said.

The San Anselmo School District Board Also:

SAFETY — Asked the principal of each school and a representative of each parent's club to make a traffic safety survey at each school and report after the first of next year.

LANGUAGES — Agreed to study at future meetings the foreign language program. The district now has two foreign language teachers for grades 7 and 8. The board wants some foreign language program in the lower grades, Lowry said.

RESOLUTION — Tabled indefinitely a resolution from the Tamalpais High School District asking removal of the unification election every four years.

HEALTH — Postponed from February to next September starting comprehensive health study program. The lay health committee had discussed the possibility of starting an interim program in February. By waiting until September, sex education could be added to the program.

TEXTBOOKS — Tabled for further study on dropping three textbooks which the human rights commission felt contained inaccuracies and distortions. The books are: "Land of the Free, A History of the United States," "California, Our Home," and "California, a History."

SCHOOL SITE — Discussed the possibility of the City of San Anselmo acquiring the Isabel Cook site for city use in several years.

Nerve Gas Ship

BOSTON (UPI) — The USS LeBaron Russell Briggs Jr., rusting Liberty ship which was sunk in the Atlantic with nerve gas aboard, was named for a former Harvard University dean of faculty arts and sciences who later served as president of Radcliffe College.

Bargain Light Poles For Courts

A bargain basement purchase of eight light poles for $1 from Pacific Gas and Electric Co. will speed lighting of the tennis courts at the Marinwood Recreation Center.

Recreation Director William A. Gordon reported the purchase Wednesday night to the Marinwood Parks and Recreation Commission.

He said he will get volunteer labor to erect the poles and then the lighting, which will light the tennis courts at a fraction of the cost to the district.

The Marinwood Parks and Recreation Commission also:

DRAPES — Approved buying new drapes at $170.

POOL TABLE — Decided to junk the pool table as it is too costly to repair.

HIRED — Hired John Durfee, a student, to work part time on the grounds at $187 for six weeks.

CHAIRS — Decided to ask for 50 more folding chairs in the 1971-72 fiscal budget.

MOUNTAIN - — Approved spending up to $300 for seven foot high mountain in the tiny tot lot.

POOL — Received a report that the pool had been drained, and cleaned with hydrochloric acid.

DEFERRED — Deferred until its Dec. 14 meeting, purchase of drapes, bids for janitorial work, purchase of grills, and turfing behind Quietwood.

Ceramist Arneson To Give Lecture

No Decision On Waterfront Land

The Sausalito City Council remained undecided on just how to develop the city's new waterfront land after a lengthy meeting last night.

Biggest stumbling block seemed to be whether to locate a proposed new city hall at the 10-acre site, purchased with $560,000 in bond funds approved by voters in June. At a previous meeting, the council had decided to build a new library on the site east of Bridgeway between Litho and Napa streets.

Evert Heynemann of the city's planning commission said building a new city hall on the waterfront land would be a mistake because "the site has no ties to Sausalito's center and is bound to fail." He likened such a move to the building of Brazil's new capital at Brazilia, calling both "artificial locations."

He suggested instead a civic center near the location of the present city hall and including a library, recreation facilities, a plaza with fountains and perhaps a restaurant. "A place where people can come together to communicate," he said.

Mayor Alexander R. Imlay disagreed, saying that the city's growth is expected in the north. He was supported by Assistant City Mgr. Eric H. Borgwardt, who said that while the city hall's present location may be the historic center of town, the population and geographic center was nearer the waterfront site.

The issue is further complicated by the fact that only about 1.7 acres of the waterfront site is above water and suitable for building. If a city hall and proposed recreational facilities such as a youth center, swimming pool and parking space are added to the proposed library, there may not be enough land available, according to Imlay.

The mayor proposed that an architect consultant be retained to make a feasibility study of the site to see what facilities the land could support. A five-man committee to select this consultant was appointed, including councilmen Wyman Hicks and Robin Sweeny, plus one member each from the library boadrd, the planning commission and the parks and recreation department.

No further meeting on the waterfront development was to be scheduled until this committee reports back to the council in early February.

Pakistan Appeal By CARE, Red Cross Groups

The Marin Chapter of American Red Cross and the regional offices at CARE are seeking cash donations for disaster work in East Pakistan, where storms and tidal waves killed hundreds of thousands and left millions homeless on Nov. 13.

Because of the great distance and difference in cultural habits of diet and garb, the Red Cross cannot accept gifts of food or clothing, the Marin Chapter said yesterday.

Checks, marked for Pakistan Relief may be sent to the Marin Chapter, American Red Cross, 712 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael. Donations to the CARE effort should be made out to Pakistan Emergency Fund, CARE, Inc., 444 Market Street, San Francisco.

Linguistics Scholar To Speak Tuesday

Dr. Francis Utley, scholar in folklore, linguistics and medieval literature, will speak at Sonoma State College Tuesday at 11 a.m. in Ives Hall of Music.

Utley, a member of other state university's English department since 1935, will speak on the "The Rhetoric of Morality." He was a consultant on folklore and mythology for the Encyclopedia Americana from 1958 to 1965 and on literature for the Random House Dictionary of the English Language.

Salaries Of Two Teachers Corrected

The payroll department of the Tamalpais High School District reported yesterday that there were errors in the list of salaries it furnished the Independent-Journal for publication.

The salary of Pamela Dagley is $6,060, not $7,272, and Shirley Mosley's salary is $4,960, not $7,670, the district office said.

Ideas Asked On Rubbish Collections

The Homestead Valley Sanitary District, which provides a rubbish collection bin two or three times a month for residents, is seeking suggestions for an alternate method of collection.

In place of the bin, which benefits about 35 families a month, the district board has suggested a well publicized valleywide campaign twice a year, during which about 20 garbage cans of rubbish from each household could be collected.

The board will consider this suggestion and others made by the public when it meets Monday at 8:30 p.m. at Homestead Valley School.

Bands To Compete For Prize Money

Five bands will compete for $150 in prize money at a battle of the bands Saturday at 6 p.m. at Rohnert Park Junior High School.

First price of $100 and a second prize of $50 will be awarded. Each band will play for 45 minutes and winners will be picked by a written vote of the audience.

Bands competing will be Distance Dawning of Petaluma, Gladstone of Rohnert Park, the Tamalpais Three from Tamalpais High School, Crabfoot from Santa Rosa and Buckwheat from Sebastopol.

A light show by Vulcan Lite Company of Marin County will be featured in the event sponsored by the Rohnert Park Cultural Arts Commission.

Pumping Station Bid Date Is Set

The San Rafael Sanitation District board after reviewing plans and site for the Francisco Boulevard pumping station, set 5 p.m. Dec. 2 for calling for bids on the project, administrator Norris W. Rawles reported yesterday.

The board on Wednesday also set 5 p.m., Dec. 23, for opening the bids on the project, estimated at $500,000.

Rawles reported on the relocation of the force main on South San Pedro Road. The relocation will cost the district approximately $50,000, he said. Work on the road will not be done until a joint-powers agreement has been reached between the City of San Rafael and Marin County, Rawles said. It probably will not go to bid until the next year or two.

If Bayside annexes to the district, a new gravity flow sewer will be constructed by an assessment district there to connect to the relocated sewer on South San Pedro Road, Rawles reported.

77 Criminal Reports In October In San Anselmo

San Anselmo police received reports of 77 crimes during October, Chief Raymond R. Buchignani has reported to the city administrator's office. A total of 19 persons were charged with criminal offenses.

By categories, the month's crime log included:

Burglary, nine; robbery, one; larceny, 14; petty larceny, 31, and auto theft, two.

Persons charged included:

Burglary, 11; grand theft, one; petty theft, two; assault and battery, two; sex offense, one; stolen property, one, and narcotics violation, one.

Buchignani said the department handled nearly 500 other noncrime incidents ranging from 185 special assists to citizens to one vicious animal, during October.

Employment in the alcoholic beverage industry has grown 560 per cent since repeal of Prohibition.

Group To Discuss Novato Rent Prices

The newly-formed Novato Tenants Union will discuss ways to fight high rents in Novato at 7:30 p.m. today at the Economic Opportunity Council Center, 875 Grant Avenue, Novato.

Lee Payne, EOC community worker in Novato, said the union, for tenants of both public and private housing, was formed to help tenants learn their rights and act to protect them.

Recreation Deadline Is Extended

Registration for the fall and winter program of the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department has been extended to Nov. 25, A.J. Snyder Jr., parks and recreation director, said today.

Youth activities include arts and crafts, yell leading, rhythm, baton twirling, guitar lessons, modern dance, tumbling, ballet, judo and wrestling. Boys basketball will also be offered.

Adult programs include yoga, slimnastics, folk guitar, cake decorating, oil painting, beginning bridge, and holiday and decorating crafts.

Red Propaganda

BERLIN (UPI) — The Communists have opened a propaganda campaign to combat hopes of East Germans that any talks with Bonn might lead to close and friendly ties between the halves of divided Germany.

Larkspur's Town Meeting Tomorrow

A five-page fact sheet on the history, present facilities, schools and government of Larkspur will be given to Larkspur residents who attend the Larkspur Town Meeting tomorrow.

The town meeting will be held from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the Redwood High School Little Theater. It is under the guidance of Pacific Gas and Electric Co., which has sponsored Congresses for Community Progress in Novato, San Anselmo and Fairfax.

The fact sheet gives a brief history of the city, including the fact that its name was a mistake made by a botanist who thought the wild lupines were Larskpur. It has grown, according to the fact sheet, from 5,700 to approximately 8,000 people in the past 10 years. Its ultimate population is estimated at 20,000 in 1985.

Members of the city council, planning commission, park and recreation commission and library board are all listed.

The city's five parks are listed: Piper Park, Dolliver Park, William Street, Madrone Canyon and Hillview Gardens.

Schools Take Part In Red Cross Drive

Public and private schools throughout Marin County are cooperating this month in a youth membership and fund drive for the Marin County Chapter of the American Red Cross, said Joanne Karlsrud, youth director.

Students are not asked for any specific amount, Mrs. Karlsrud said. This money is used for such projects as making albums showing life in America to be sent to foreign countries.

Food Wholesaler Is Limited Risk Issue

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I am considering buying Fleming Company, now selling at depressed prices. Could you please give me any information you have on this company? S.R.

A. Fleming, a food wholesaler, also operates 27 cash-and-carry warehouses and 36 supermarkets. A manufacturer of freight and refrigerator vans was acquird ine early 1970 for 200,000 Fleming shares. Members of four voluntary associations of retail grocers account for the bulk of Fleming's wholesale operations. However, the company supplies more than 1,000 other retailers on a contract basis.

Having grown at a relatively rapid pace in the early Sixites, Fleming's earnings reached a plaeau in 19699 with virtually no progress made since. A repeat of this sideways trend is likely again this year. Shares are trading at about 11x estimated 1970 earnings of 95 cents a share. While this multiple may appear low, it is average for the wholesale grocery industry.

Several factors which contributed to 1970's profit squeeze should be brought under control or eliminated next year. Although a somewhat prosaic issue, Fleming has limited downside risk, coupled with better-than-average recovery potential.

Q. Could you give me information on Lynch Corp. trading on the American Stock Exchange at about $4? I am interested in speculation. E.T.

A. After two years of deficit operations, some improvement was reported by Lynch in the nine-month period ended Spt. 30, 1970. Sales, which were off 16 per cent for the nine months, dropped only 6 per cent in the third quarter.

Income of $12,000, equal to one cent a share, was reported for the first three quarters, compared with a deficit of 27 cents a share in the like 1969 period. Under a $5.5 million financing agreement made with Curtiss-Wright in 1964, that firm acquired virtual control of Lynch.

Conversion of notes and warrants held by Curtiss would increase Lynch's common stock by 78 per cent. Reduced demand for home entertainment equipment produced by one of Lynch's three divisions has hurt company sales. I wouldn't expect much immediate or dynamic price action here.

Japan Reluctant To Restrict Exports

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Japanese see no reason why they should accept voluntary restrictions on exports to the United States just to help carry out President Nixon's political promises, says Edwin O. Reischauer, former Ambassador to Japan.

Reischauer, a member of the Harvard University faculty, addressed a luncheon meeting of the 57th National Foreign Trade Convention. He said the Japanese remain totally unconvinced that their exports of textiles and other products, which the United States wishes them to restrict voluntarily, exercise any significant impact at all on the economy of the United States and they feel no obligation to help the Nixon Administration make good on its promises to the American textile and garment industries.

Market Rally In Stepped Up Trading

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market failed on stepped-up trading today.

Shortly before the final bell, advances were leading declines by around 300 issues, 760 to 473. The Dow Jones industrial average, the blue chip barometer, was up 5.75 at 761.57.

Turnover of around 10,500,000 shares compared with 9,280,000 shares traded Thursday.

Closing prices included: Am T&T 44 up 3-8; Chrysler 25 5-8 up 1-2; Ford 49 3-8 up 1 3-8; Gen El 86 1-4 up 1-2; Gen Motors 73 3-4 up 1 5-8; So Pac 31 3-8 up 5-8.

Analysts attributed strength to an improved bond market, broad reductions in short term interest rates this week rising the possibility of another cut in the Federal Reserve discount rate and bank prime interest rate; and speculation that President Nixon may be taking new steps to help revive the sluggish economy.

Nixon held a series of meetings with his economic advisers Friday to discuss ways of overcoming the current business slump.

White House Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler had no comment when asked if Nixon had urged Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur Burns to expand the money supply at a faster rate.

Prices edged higher on routine turnover on the American Stock Exchange.

AMC Reports Net Loss Of $56.2 Million In '70

DETROIT (UPI) — American Motors Corp,. smallest of the major U.S. carmakers, reported it had a net loss of $56.2 million for the 1970 fiscal year ending Sept. 30.

The loss compared to net profits of $4.9 million in the 1969 fiscal year.

AMC Board Chairman Roy D. Chapin, Jr., and President William V. Luneburg said the major factors involved in the heavy 1970 loss were a five-week strike at the beginning of the model year, lost market momentum as a result, and introductory marketing expenditures as well as the economic downturn and the cost-price squeeze caused by rapidly escalating labor, materials and other costs.

"We expect to resume in fiscal 1971 the growth pattern established in 1968 and 1969," said a statement issued by the two AMC executives. "The company is currently operating profitably and we anticipate reporting a profit for the first quarter ending Dec. 31."

Sierra Club Seeking Ruling On Tidelands

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The Sierra Club has asked the California Supreme Court to rule on a landmark suit involving Tomales Bay that may determine the public's navigation, fishing and recreation rights over hundreds of thousands of acres of tidelands.

The club asked the court to require trial judges considering tideland titles to decree they are subject to such public rights, to require the Marin County Superior Court to rule that a citizen and not just the state may establish in court his right to such easements, and to reverse the Marin court's ruling that the easements were extinguished by the state in 1874.

Tidelands are the wet part of beaches and mudflats lying between high and low tide.

The Tomales Bay case grew out of a dispute between Larry H. Marks Jr., tidelot owner, and Peter D. Whitney, an adjoining waterfront owner. Whitney is the great-grandson of Oscar Shafter, whose family once owned the entire Point Reyes peninsula. His property is the last remnant of the Shafter Ranch, and has been in the family since 1858, according to the Sierra Club.

The dispute began in 1963, when Marks began a quiet title action to establish his exclusive right to use the property. The action was to clear the way for fencing, filling and developing the tidelot he claimed. Whitney, however, asserted his right to take advantage of the historic public easement over Mark's tidelot.

The Sierra Club said that the California Supreme Court has held since the 1850s that tidelands are held in trust for the people of the state, and that the people have the right to boat, fish, walk, and swim on these trust tidelands.

Marin Superior Court Judge Samuel W. Gardiner, however, rejected Whitney's claim, saying the state deed to tidelands destroyed the public rights. He also ruled that only the state, not its citizens, could sue to establish rights under the public trust.

The Sierra Club's amicus curiae brief also cited two 1913 decisions by the California Supreme Court that owners of tidelands could do nothing to interfere with the public rights over the tidelands.

The Sierra Club's legal step was the latest move in a series of appeals by Whitney. The District Court of Appeal last month again affirmed the original decision by Judge Gardner.

Fighting with Marks in court against the appeals has been Westbay Community Associates, which claims extensive tidelands in San Francisco Bay.

Driver Is Arraigned

Lewis Edward Meyers, 59, of Petaluma, was arraigned Wednesday in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court on a charge of felony drunken driving.

Judge Alexander J. McMahon ordered Meyers held in the county jail until a recommendation on bail is received from the Sonoma County Probation Department. Meyers was set to enter a plea Monday at 1:30 p.m.

He was arrested Tuesday by Petaluma police after his car allegedly struck Dennis Stankalis, 17, of 26 Huntington Drive, Petaluma, severing Stankalis's legs.

Sulphide Fumes Kill Three Men

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A broken gas mask in a cement tannery pit resulted in three deaths Thursday, two of them in a unsuccessful rescue attempt.

Dr. Henry Turkel, city coroner who blamed hydrogen sulphide gas, said that Calvin Hubbard, 46, died when he fell and broke the face plate on his mask, allowing fumes to reach his lungs.

Jose R. Medina, 25, and Marcelino B. Yambo, 41, died while trying to pull him from the pit at Le Gallet Tanning Co., the coroner added.

All the victims lived in San Francisco.

Pesticides Ruin Pelican Hatchings

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Anacapa Island, off the California coastline, used to be warm with brown pelican hatchlings each year. No longer, the Interior Department said today—pesticides have decimated the flock.

"One bird hatched at Anacapa this year," a spokesman from the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife said. "That island used to have about a thousand breeding pairs of brown pelicans."

Interior said, "test findings from two Interior laboratories suggest the pesticides are wiping out the species."

Diabetes Group Will Be Formed

An organizational meeting of a diabetes association for Marin County is set for Dec. 10 at 7:30 p.m. in Olney Hall, College of Marin.

The group aimed at finding undiagnosed diabetes in Marin is being formed by Sandra Glazunov of Greenbrae as part of the Northern California Diabetes Association.

They make Volkswagens, but they buy Renaults.

Last year only 18,132 VW's were sold in France.

Yet, during the same period, Renault sold 112,263 cars in West Germany.

Germans are famous for demanding quality and dependability above all else.

Does that seem to tell you anything?

Planners Ask Revision Of Hunter Plan

The Sausalito Planning Commission Wednesday postponed action on a request from David Hunter for a conditional use permit to allow construction of an 18-unit cluster housing development near Santa Rosa Avenue and Glen Drive.

The commission asked Hunter to submit revised site plans for the development which would include apartments, duplexes and single family homes and asked him to present the plans at the Commission's Dec. 2 meeting.

The Sausalito Planning Commission also:

BUS PARKING — Approved, in principle, a plan for permitting the Golden Gate Bridge District to load and unload its ferry shuttle buses in Sausalito's Parking Lot No. 1, but referred the proposal to the Community Appearance Advisory Board to consider landscaping, lighting and design of the bus parking area.

LOT SPLIT — Approved an application from A. A. Raymond to allow a 14,500 square foot lot at 625 Locust Road to be divided into two parcels.

MEETING — Set Dec. 16 as date for a hearing on proposed amendments to regulations governing the city's central waterfront district zone and for consideration of regulations of resident commercial and commercial manufacturing zones.

Yoga Involves Body, Mind And Spirit

"Yoga has changed my life dramatically for the better . . ." writes Janet Kohloff of Novato in the introduction to her new yoga record album, which she hopes will change the lives of others.

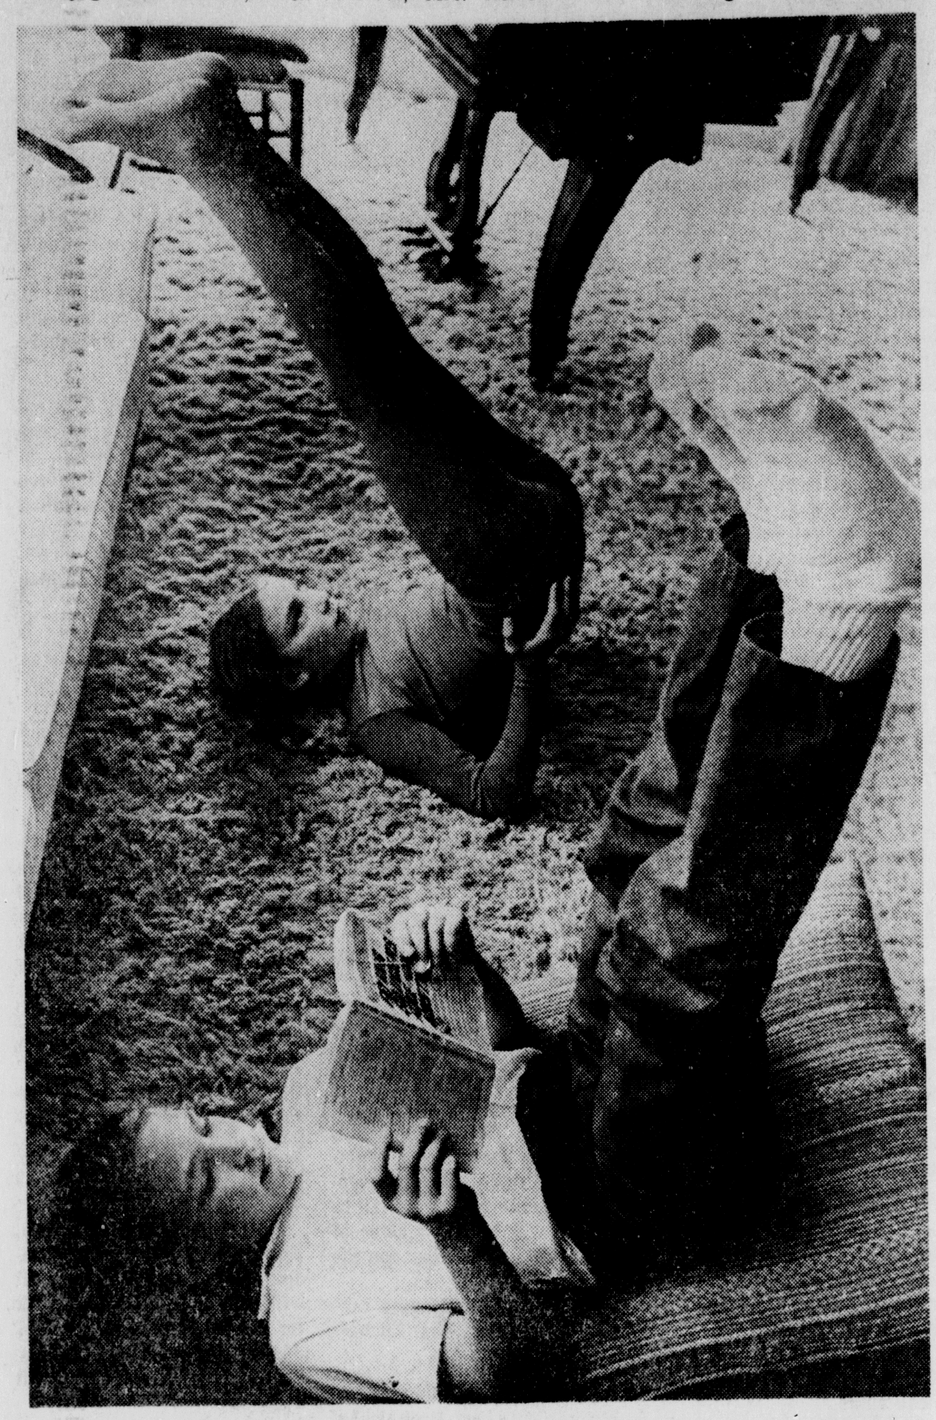
Curled up on the sofa of the Kohloffs' ranch house in rural Novato, Mrs. Kohloff talked about what yoga can mean to the average person.

"Yoga is a system of self-cuture and self-improvement, involving all levels and aspects of our existence — physical, mental and spiritual. Perfection isn't important. Consistency is." she says.

Her introduction further explains that the student of yoga practices a set of postures (or asanas) each day, relaxing completely in between and thinking good and peaceful thoughts. An example is sitting up straight, hands on knees with palms up "in a feeling of open trust." The repetition of the uplifting postures and good thoughts then become habit.

Janet Kohloff, whose husband, Roland, is a tympanist with the San Francisco Symphony, explains that yoga helps one accept himself.

"We are very accepting of ourselves in class and hopefully outside of class." She thinks yoga helps her students to be more gentle with themselves and, therefore, others.



STEVEN KOHLOFF reads a book about flying saucers while doing "his brand of 11-year-old yoga" which he does for five minutes each morning. Steven who has a brown belt in judo was a very asthmatic child until Janet Kohloff, his mother, took him to a guru who worked with Steven and told him he would never have another attack again. That was six years ago and he hasn't had one. Jami, 12, demonstrates the basic Viparita Karani posture which has a healthful effect on the thyroid, brings new blood to the head and helps prevent colds and sore throats.

SHE FIRST went to a yoga class six years ago in San Francisco as a way of paying back a favor the teacher's wife had done for her. The teacher, her guru, was Leon Kaye whom she calls "a very, very special person. The kindest, most gentle, most wise man I've ever met."

She attended several classes, and her husband became interested "when he noticed a change in me that was very positive," she said.

She took Steven, who was then six and a severely asthmatic, to see Kaye becaue he thought he could help him. Kaye worked with Steven and told him he would never have another asthma attack again.

"He was right in the middle of a bad attack at the time," Mrs. Kohloff said, and that was almost six years ago. Steven, now 11, has not had another. The night after the first session with Kaye, Steven was breathing deeply and rhythmically in his sleep.

"He does about five minutes of his brand of 11-year-old yoga in the morning," Janet said. "We don't really understand it. I think it is something beyond us. He was a very sick child."

Now Mrs. Kohloff teaches six classes a week and helps some students privately in her home. Some of them call her their guru.

THE WHOLE KOHLOFF family often practices yoga together. Jami, 12, demonstrates for her mother in class. Janet, who is from Chicago, met her husband, who is from New York, when they both were spending their first season with the San Francisco Opera. She was singing in the chorus and he played in the orchestra.

She calls their small ranch her "dream." A horsewoman, Janet trained and showed horses since she was in junior high, but has given it up to spend more time on yoga. Her husband has taken over the responsibility of feeding their horse and two that board there.

"He didn't know a thing about horses when we started. I think he enjoys having them around now," she said.

From yoga the couple have developed a feeling for an infinite being which they never had before, she says. Yet she emphasizes that yoga is not a religion, and it doesn't conflict with any religion in any way. "Through yoga, one gradually develops a greater insight into himself and others, and into the universe. You can be of any faith or no faith at all." she says.

One summer while her husband was teaching music at Aspen, Colo., Janet taught yoga to the monks at St. Benedict Monastery near Snowmass. She said the abbey let some of the "older, safer, monks attend classes — the ones who couldn't be corrupted," she laughs.

The day of the interview she had received a letter from one of the brothers who had a copy of her record. He said he enjoyed the "peace of it," but another brother was doing the postures.

"MY DRIVE now is to share yoga with people who wouldn't have ordinarily tried it. I want to share the wisdom of inner peace," she said.

Yoga, for Janet Kohloff, is not a quest for the occult. She believes that mystical powers and the acquisition of them can be a distraction. "It's better to be tuned in to your brother's need," she says.

Mrs. Kohloff doesn't make a fetish about food. She quoted a yogi who once said, "It is more important what comes out of your mouth than what goes into it."

"We feel that whatever we put into our bodies should be good for them," is her simple rule about food.

The Kohloff family life has changed with their involvement with yoga because they have "simplified it." Her introduction says, "Yoga says the whole world can be our teacher, that life is a school, and that we learn from every single experience — from our mistakes and losses as well as our successes. We begin to discriminate more what is important and what is not, to make our lives more simple and yet more meaningful."

The Kohloff family life is centered around family activities and children's activities. They attend few parties but she shares close relationships with her students.

"I CAMPAIGNED a little bit for Riles but because I felt so strong about it," she says.

"Yoga must be practical," Janet insists. "It's a way of living that has to be made useful in daily life.

"What's important in my way of teaching yoga is that each person is unique, so each person is involved in a different way That doesn't mean that the parts that are fitting to them now will be right next year."

"Yoga has been around since before Christ and it's still here. It has a universal truth. It all comes from the one mind," Mrs. Kohloff says.

JANET KOHLOFF and her husband Roland stop in one of the twelve positions that make up the Sun Salutation or Soorya Namasker which ideally should be done facing the sun. It is a combination of breathing, flexing and stretching. Mrs. Kohloff, who teaches yoga, has released a record for those who are new to yoga and also for her students who practice better at home with its help.

Marin Women

An Appeal To Men To Bring About Changes In Women

By PAT BALMES

Introductions of members' wives were in order yesterday at the monthly meeting of the all-male Southern Marin Kiwanis Club at Kubla Khan Restaurant in Strawberry. The women has been invited to lunch and to listen to two speakers from the National Organization for Women.

With a bow to women's liberation, each member arose to present his spouse. Only one demurred, "This is women's liberation. She's on her own."

A gray-haired Kiwanis spoke of his wife of 39 years "who never yet has asked to be liberated."

ONE KIWANIS introduced his wife as a woman "who doesn't believe women should have gotten the vote."

And so on down the table as members good humoredly introduced their wives with remarks ranging from "My better half" to "My secretary couldn't come, so I brought my wife."

A serious chairman of the education committee for NOW addressed an appeal to the men for help and partnership in the woman's liberation movement. Mrs. Alexandra Glazunova of Greenbrae said, "As it takes both male and female to make a human being, it will take both to bring about a change in our society. NOW advocates a society where men and women have an equal balance in family, work and community.

"What kind of a lop-sided society do we have?" asked Mrs. Glazunova. "During the wars women build ships. But when things go back to status quo, women are shoved back as stupid. Their education level makes little difference. Women with college degrees earn the same as men with high school educations. Where the male and female's educations are equal, men earn nearly twice as much. Women have to be twice as good to earn the same salary," says the mature woman.

CANDISS CONANT of San Rafael, a Sonoma State College sociology student in her 20s, got the Kiwanis's attention when she asked that they open doors for women . . . doors to good jobs. Candiss wants to work with school drop-outs but can only find a job as a waitress. She charged that there is discrimination in job opportunities, job advancement and pay scales. She also charged discrimination against women in education, in opportunities for scholarships and in attitudes toward women depicted in text books.

Candiss repeated NOW's demand that free child care become a political issue.

"Most women in Marin County have to work. There is a high divorce rate. But women can't concentrate unless their most important concern is taken care of, child care. NOW proposes to call upon labor, industry and government to make facilities and funds available and to grant tax deduction for quality child care.

Other NOW aims were read from its leaflet. Urging women to run for office, NOW says its members will work for candidates who support NOW goals. Political action is necessary to achieve equal rights for women.

NOW urges the National Council of Churches to challenge and assist church bodies to rethink and restate theological concepts which contribute to a false view of women.

NOW OPPOSES all legislation and practices which restrict access to any means of birth control, contraceptives, sterilization and abortion.

Deploring the image of women as presented through mass media NOW will seek equal time for feminist view on television and radio.

NOW Marin County chapter holds two monthly meetings. A public meeting often featuring an invited guest speaker or special program and an open board meeting at which most decisions are made. Local action priorities are in the areas of employment, education and child care.

According to Mrs. Glazunova, it is criminal for a mother to represent the world to her daughter in a false light, "Don't worry your pretty head about society's troubles, just get a man." Young women's talents are needed to solve our problems. I have lived in many countries, but I never have seen so many gaps as in

THE SUBURBAN SCENE

A Friend At The Top Greets The Climbers

By MOLLY MARIN

The cognac that greeted the two men who were victorious in their 27-day climb of El Capitan in Yosemite Wednesday was delivered in the person of Beryl Knauth of Belvedere, a friend of Warren Harding and his fellow climber Dean Caldwell. And the two bottles of cognac were sent by Beryl's father, Basil Knauth, when Beryl checked in over the weekend to visit her parents in Marin from her home near Ventura.

A former Marin deb, Beryl has done some climbing herself around Yosemite with the new celebrities and chose the easier route up El Capitan with other friends to greet the climbers at the summit. When she's not climbing, Beryl, who has an art degree, takes art classes at the University of California at Santa Barbara in Goleta and teaches a class in art there for underprivileged children.

PAMELA MARIE Souza and Darrell James Cox have selected Dec. 5 as the date for their wedding, which will take place at 2 p.m. at the Star of the Sea Church in Sausalito.

The bride-elect, a graduate of Tamalpais High School, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest M. Souza of Mill Valley. She is the sister of Mrs. Thomas Bass of Merced.

Her fiance, who was graduated from College Park High School in Pleasant Hill, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Cox of Pacheco. He is serving in the U.S. Air Force at Castle Air Force Base in Merced. His sister is Mrs. Bob Martin of Colorado.

MRS. DANTE Tognoli of Fairfax has reserved two sponsor tables for the "Roman Holidays" luncheon and fashion show to benefit the Girls' Town of Italy. Mrs. Tognoli is serving as Marin chairman for the Dec. 3 noon event at the Grand Ballroom of the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco.

On the committee are Marinites Mrs. John Isi of Corte Madera and Mrs. Ronald F. Antonioli of Novato. Sausalito chairman for the luncheon is Mrs. William Wachter of Sausalito.

CELEBRATING THEIR golden wedding anniversary at dinner at Rubini's restaurant in Fairfax were the Peter Locatis of Mill Valley. The dinner, given by their son and daughter-in law, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Locati of Mill Valley, was held after the anniversary date, as the celebrants were on a trip to Hawaii on the actual wedding anniversary, Oct. 22. During their visit to the various Hawaiian islands their grandsons, Charles and Mike Locati made a surprise flight to Kauai to celebrate the day.

The Locatis, who were married 50 years ago at St. Raphael's Church in San Rafael, enjoy gardening and travel, having made a trip to Europe last year and hoping to see more of the world.

Only Woman Officer In A Fighter Pilot Squadron

The only woman officer in a squadron of fighter pilots at Hamilton Air Force Base is Woman in the Air Force (WAF) Second Lt. Melissa M. Hobgood, supply officer, for the Aerospace Defense Command's 84th Fighter Interceptor Squadron.

As a supply officer, Lieutenant Hobgood is with the fighter unit providing air defense for the San Francisco Bay Area.

She is looking forward to the challenge of working with a flying outfit saying her duties would be diversified.

She attended Louisiana State University and was graduated from Southeastern University with a bachelor's degree in elementary education. She taught school in Baton Rouge and joined the Air Force reserves in 1969 and then went to officer's training school at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex.

Her first assignment was at Boron Air Force Station in Southern California, in the Mohave Desert, the only WAF stationed there. For a short time she was that station's commanding officer, she reported.

While in the service, attractive Lieutenant Hobgood said she plans to take flying lessons with the base Aero Club and to attain her master's degree and one day work to help mentally disturbed children.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Card Party Cats All Have Their Own Stingy Household Habits

DEAR HELEN:

I am steaming. I just got home from a card party where my "friend" made me look like a complete fool by telling everybody how I save and reuse birthday candles and wrapping paper, and a few other things that she thinks is chintzy. So of course everybody laughed and I could have gone through the floor. You see, these women are all "country club," and they looked at me as if I were some kind of specimen.

Well, I could have told them a few things: This fun-poking female makes her family use the same paper napkins twice, and I've seen her pour half an unused drink into a new glass when she's "mixing" out at the kitchen-bar.

But when I'm furious, I can never think of the right put-down. I just sit there and try to smile while I smolder and shake like a volcano inside. Next time we're all together, I'd love to clobber her with these cheap tricks of hers, but Helen, I won't. . . I'll begin to think how mean I'd sound.

What's wrong with a woman who simmers but can't boil over — TO BE A CAT!

DEAR TBAC:

You're more feeling than feline, that's all. And that isn't bad. The world has too many card-party cats already.

I'll bet those women laughed more with, than at you — for we all have our own pet parsimonious habits, and when we hear about others, we relate. What's mine? — Rinsing out the "empty" catsup bottle with vinegar then adding the remains to my salad dressing — which saves maybe half a cent, but makes me feel terribly worthy.

And I know a woman who tears facial tissues in half, and another one who cuts up junk-mail letters to make note pads. Really, all these things are smart, no matter what your income. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My father is a menace to the highway. He's 70, has poor reflexes but a heavy foot, and a heart condition. I know that someday soon he'll have an accident, a killer. Yet he brags about fooling the license examiner.

Would I be a traitor if I had a talk with the people down at the Motor Vehicles Bureau? — SCARED DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER:

No. You might be a lifesaver. Do it now. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I enjoyed those "Ten Commandments for Drivers." Thought you might enjoy having this to add to your highways and byways file:

Hymns To Sing While You Drive

At 55 miles per hour: "Highways are Happy Ways."
At 65 miles per hour: "I'm But a Stranger Here: Heaven is My Home."
At 75 miles per hour: "Nearer My God To Thee."
At 80 miles per hour: "When the Roll is Called Up Yonder, I'll Be There."
At 90 miles per hour: "Lord I'm Coming Home."
At 100 miles per hour: "Farewell to Thee."

Amen. — N. K.

Red, White, Blue Shirts With Slogans For Teens

By WALTER LOGAN

NEW YORK (UPI)—If your teen-age son turns up in red, white and blue clothes next spring it doesn't mean he has joined the Establishment. A second look and you might see a picture of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew on a T-shirt or an end-the-war slogan.

For reasons known only to teen-agers, red, white and blue has become the dominant color combination in skinny shirts shown for spring along with slogans hailing ecology, praising or damning Women's Lib or advertising Black Power.

It isn't all anti-establishment. The red, white and blue theme in establishment versions shows the flag whole. In antiestablishment versions parts of the flag are playfully rearranged but apparently legally since they are only fragments.

AS WITH most teen-age fashion it was started by the young people themselves at various boutiques and then picked up by various manufacturers. It wasn't necessarily hippie stuff —just teen-age.

That insight into the thinking of the younger generation turned up in the semi-annual musical fashion show presented by the National Association of Men's Sportswear Buyers for the hundreds of menswear buyers who descend on New York twice a year.

Aside from the patriotic color scheme that ran through the show the dominant idea for dress next spring was "do your own thing" which really means put your own costume together the way you want to and down with tradition.

The core of the youth market was jeans—as it has been since Levi Strauss went to California during the 1849 Gold Rush. The basic look is flared pants, with the knee at 18 inches and the bottom 20 inches and up. Button-through flies are almost standard but new are prominent zippers with ring pulls—a fashion also taken up by teen-age girls.

Blue jeans are by far the most popular but there are many textured jeans—heavy corduroys, twills, jacquard weaves and stripes. Fancy pockets also are shown since teen-agers finally discovered they had to have somewhere to carry things when they weren't wearing jackets.

A MAIN reason for the newfound popularity of pockets is the skimpiness of the shirts worn with the jeans. They are ultra form fitting and there is no room for pockets. Some are knits made about one size too small; and there also were bare midriff shifts with a big gap between shirt and pants.

NEW IDEAS in spring fashions for men include this double-knit polyester suit inspired by the safari jacket. The suit was presented during the recent semi-annual fashion production of the National Association of Men's Sportswear Buyers in New York. (UPI photo)

It wasn't all like that. There were some dress up clothes for the younger generations for discotheques and parties—knitted jumpsuits, "unsuits" in velvet or velours and made with flared bottoms. Tops in this area range anywhere from sleeveless vests to belted tunics and belted bush jackets.

The anti-establishment feeling came to the fore again in the weirdo styles picked up by the college crowd on its tour of the world last summer. There were tribal styles from Africa, the Middle East and the Orient. Gypsy type stuff from East Europe. And on top of it was the perennial cowboy and Indian look with lots of buckskin fringe.

The overall new idea in the spring showing was knits for everyone—the young and the more mature. There were double knitted business suits that looked like business suits and double knitted leisure wear that looked like leisure wear—informal and comfortable because of the stretch factor.

ALSO NEW for Spring was the widespread use of the non-structured suit introduced last year by a few designers. These suits have no shoulder padding, or a minimum amount, and are shown with such back interest as half belts, biswing backs and pleated backs, and in such light colors as tan, cream, pale blue and frosted yellow. The linen look was the most popular.

As for some other ideas: Sports shirts were usually printed in patchwork, swirling watercolor designs, bold Art Deco and florals. Dress shirts mover toward a three deminsional look in jacquard and cord weaves, usually in strong multicolor stripes. There also were prints and pastels.

Outerwear ran once more to canvas and duck, lined or unlined, and in such colors as blue, yellow and pink instead of the natural in vogue this fall. Neckties appeared to be a uniform 4½ inches in keeping with the width of new coat lapels and belts because a major fashion accessory is anything from dyed webbing to metal links and plastic discs.

ON BEING BLACK

Who You Know Makes You More Important

By SANDRA HAGGERTY

"Of course, you know my father," conceded the handsome young man over his cocktail glass.

"No." I shrugged my shoulders. "Do you know my father?"

"Well, no." A dimple creased the side of his brown face. "No, as a matter of fact, I don't.

"Sorry, I don't know your father, either. Should I?"

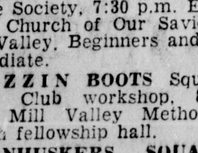
"WELL, IT'S just that he's the only black doctor in this area who specializes in XYZ. He's very well known."

"I see." This soothed my ego slightly. After all, I wasn't really interested in the young man's father.

But I recognized that popular game that so many people engage in — importance by association.

You've heard of guilt by association — well, this practice has got to be the converse.

This association turns, vicariously, I suppose, the nothings



or near-nothings into somethings of importance. The game is based upon whom one knows or, more correctly, whom one knows of.

IN THE black society, the important people with which to associate are the black firsts and the black onlys. And even though many blacks criticize the Establishment (Right on!) these firsts and onlys are blacks who have made it within the ranks of the Establishment.

This is an exclusive group because there are no large numbers of blacks doing any one thing.

Another criterion of importance in the game is education. You don't even have to have bread, although it helps considerably, if you are a degree candidate. Any degree will do — ranging from a high school diploma to a Ph.D. Those blacks in the process of "gettin' the head goods" are potential importants in the eyes of the associates.

The associates are easily recognizable at any social gathering by their dazzling store of names of those blacks who are currently making it. They monopolize the conversation with "Do you know . . . and Dr. ABC is one of my dearest friends . . ."

ONE THING to be said for the associates is that they make and maintain the importance of those people of whom they speak. They are, perhaps, the best possible public relations people — in disguise.

Still, in this day and age of do your own thing, the associates appear to be a sad, unfulfilled lot. But who knows? In the struggle for survival, many of us have become quite pragmatic in our approach to life. If you don't have an own thing, knowing of someone does work. For unfortunately there are still those people who are more impressed with whom you say you know.

NOW Speakers Make An Appeal To Men

the United States. Give your efforts to overcoming violence, she asks women. Don't be dropouts."

NOW'S APPRAISAL of the women's situation today shows 51 per cent of the population is female, yet in a minority status.

Twenty-nine million women work, yet ⅔ of these have dull, menial jobs.

Forty per cent of all working women are single, divorced, widowed, separated or deserted. They don't work for pin money.

Ten per cent of all American households are headed by women.

Full time women workers earn an average of 40 per cent less than men in similar jobs in every major industry.

Half of all working women earn less than $3,700 (poverty level is $3,300).

ONLY 1.4 per cent of working women earn over $10,000 (13 per cent for men).

Mrs. Glazunova challenges women to prepare themselves for professions in middle life and longer. Today the percentage of women in professions is very low: doctors, seven per cent; lawyers, four per cent; federal judges, one per cent; full professors, four per cent; scientists, eight per cent; engineers, one per cent; business executives, two per cent; top federal civil servants, four per cent and congressmen, three per cent (only one woman Senator).

Speaking of Marin's reputation as a "Cinderella Society," the NOW speaker complained, "affluent ladies are too far removed from the realities of life. They are not aware of their strength."

In the silence after the women's liberation talk only three Kiwanis members had questions.

"If women are the majority, live longer and control most of the wealth . . . why aren't you women doing something?" one asked.

"WE HAVE the numbers, but we are underdeveloped. Who manages the money for women? Men." was the answer.

"If women want complete liberation, won't they eliminate some desirable rights like freedom from draft, alimony and widow benefits?"

"Would you like to be in the position of being offered subsistance on a spoon which can be given or taken away on a whim?"

Death Is Caused By Self-Inflicted Shot

I-J Special Report

SANTA MONICA — Police investigators said here today that the death of Kevin Norvo was not accidental, as reported in Tuesday's Independent-Journal, but rather was self-inflicted by gunshot.

However, they said the 19-year-old College of Marin student did not leave any death note before the fatal shot Nov. 10 in the Santa Monica home of his parents, band leader and Mrs. Red Norvo. Another Marin County newspaper had reported he left such a note. The teenager's family told police he had been extremely despondent.

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies now being shown in Marin County. The council's findings are from the California and National Parent-Teacher Association magazines and the Parent's Magazine, unless otherwise noted. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael Library.

FAMILY

"It's a Mad, Mad, Mad World" — Five strangers learn of hidden wealth from a dying gangster. This triggers the greed within each and a hilarious carnival of chases ensues. Fantastic slapstick comedy with huge cast of characters.

"On a Clear Day You Can See Forever" — Lively, entertaining musical with Barbara Streisand playing several parts.

"Out-of-Towners" — Refreshingly funny spoof on big city life glimpsed through the hilarious misadventures of a small city businessman and his wife in New York for final job interview.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Borsalino" — French film with superimposed English follows the violent life of two bandits and killers who gain control of crime in Marseilles in 1930's by eliminating all competitors. Gory brutal gang fights. Lively pace but extravegant settings overshadow suspense.

"Chairman" — Complicated plot of international intrigue holds suspense high. Set in Taiwan, acting good, scientific gimmicks intriguing.

"Dirty Dingut Magee" — Satirical bawdy western about a badman who steals money from his old friend. His capture and escapes and the double-double crossings along the way add to the fun. Lavish sets, good cast. (Boxoffice Magazine)

"Downhill Racer" — Amazing photography of skiers running the courses in the Alps. Exciting and nerve wracking action plus story of life and loves of an America member of Olympic team.

"Italian Job" — Wildly satirical comedy about a yang of thieves engineering a $4 million robbery from a stalled armored truck during a gigantic traffic jam they created by rigging the computer that controls traffic.

"Jenny" — An unwed pregnant woman and a man reclassified by draft board decide on a marriage of convenience. She does not fit in with his artistic pot smoking friends, so the quarreling begins.

"Machine Gun McCain" — Ultra contemporary Italian made gangster movie set in the '30s. A criminal pits himself against the leaders of organized crime to singlehandedly rob a Vegas casino of $2 million. Translations sound stilted. Good characterizations. (Motion Picture Daily).

"Thoroughly Modern Millie" — Fads of 1920's take a ribbing in this musical spoof about an innocent country girl coming to the big city only to find herself a victim of abduction into white slavery, done in "Perils of Pauline" style.

"True Gritt" — A young girls father is killed and she bullies an old marshal to help her track the killer down. Humor and suspense mingle with violence. Excellent western.

BORDERLINE
(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Catch 22" — Unusually biting anti-war film that graphically depicts the immorality and unreason war breeds. Grotesque details, bizarre, morbid and gruesome sequences shown in a series of flashback and flashforwards that adds to the confusion.

"Cotton Comes to Harlem" — Two black policemen fight crime in Harlem. Violence, gutter language are unstrained plus sex and nudity. Film has strong, realistic ethnic flavor.

"Lovers and Other Strangers" — Amusing, well acted comedy about a couple who have been living together decide to get married. A series of vignettes about their relatives' marital affairs are inter-cut into the wedding preparations. Bedroom scenes abundant.

"Ned Kelley" — Excessively bloody and violent film follows the trail of crimes committed by an Australian family of outlaws in the 1870's. Good score but film long and overdone. Not suitable for Mick Jaggers acting talents.

ADULTS ONLY

"Beyond the Valley of the Dolls" — Sick story of three girls being destroyed by success in Hollywood. Explicit details of their perverted lives including an orgy where a man goes insane and hacks people to death. Waste of time.

"Cherry, Harry and Racquel" — Newest in sick pornographic film. Small band of narcotic smugglers in Arizona while away their time with sex and killings. A tasteless affront to viewers.

"Diary of a Mad Housewife" — A husband who is pompous, social climbing and vitriolically critical, two obnoxious children and a nervous dog drives a housewife into a love affair only to find he is as sadistic, egotistical a boor as her husband. Well acted but much nudity and foul language.

"Easy Rider" — Far out cross country trip of two hippie narcotic peddlers on their motorcycles, create a vision of America that is by turn beautiful and horrifying.

"Jot" — Chillingly honest, well acted melodrama about today's dangerous polarization of life styles and what happens when they clash. Nudity and explicit sex, profanity.

"M-A-S-H" — Hilarious, subtle anti-war comedy of three army surgeons who develop outlandish life-styles to survive the gore that passes before their eyes. Sex, nudity and profanity.

"Vampire Lovers" — Shock thriller replete with nudes, lesbian vampires for added measure. (Motion Picture Exhibitor)

"Vexen" — An amoral woman entertains herself with adultery, lesbianism and incest while her husband is away working as a pilot and hunting guide. Waste of time.

Cosmetics Conference Draws 2,000

Hotel accommodations in Marin County became crowded last night with the arrival of distributors and franchise holders of the products of Holiday Magic, Inc. from throughout the United States and from six foreign countries.

An estimated 2,000 persons — dealers, wives and other family members — were expected to attend Holiday's three-day "World Fair Affair and Open House," but less then half of them are being bedded down locally.

Mrs. Connie Fisher of the Terra Linda office of GTS Travel, who arranged the bookings, said between 450 and 500 persons are staying at Holiday Inn, Terra Linda, where the cosmetic company's conference activities are centered, taking up the inn's 225 rooms.

The rest are at Edgewater Inn, Corte Madera; Sportsman's Lodge, Novato, and at Holiday Inn and the Hilton Hotel in San Francisco. She said she had made reservations for representatives from Great Britain, Denmark, Italy, Mexico, Canada and Australia, in addition to those from this country.

The Holiday Magic program, which extends from today through Sunday morning, involves a special show booth and display center at Holiday Inn and visits to the plant of Holiday Magic and offices of four of its associate companies, the Larry Wilson Corp., Mind Dynamics, Inc., Spectrum Air, Inc. and Alexander Taylor, Inc.

The Wilson Corp. and Mind Dynamics teach courses in sales and success psychology and are headquartered at Holiday Magic's Canal Street offices in San Rafael. Spectrum Air handles airplane sales and rentals at the Marin County Airport. Alexander Taylor is a wholesale men's clothing firm at 1800 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael.

Entertainment and tours arranged for the visitors at various points of interest in Marin include speedboat rides from Loch Lomond Harbor and a visit to the William Penn Patrick yacht Patricia in Sausalito.

Closing activities Sunday morning feature addresses by Patrick, chairman of the board of Holiday Magic, and Ben Gay III, the company's president, and the showing of a color promotion film.

U.C. Professors Will Discuss

Does violence in Southeast Asia, such as the My Lai massacre, breed violence at home, and is the connection if any?

These questions will be discussed by two members of the University of California faculty Tuesday night at the College of Marin. The discussion, sponsored by Marin Professionals for Peace, will be held at 8 p.m. in Olney Hall on the college campus.

Speakers will be Dr. Bernard Diamond, psychoanalyst and professor of law and criminology, and Dr. Nathan Adler, psychologist and lecturer in the school of criminology.

Long Road Ahead For Folks Wanting Change

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Provincial attitudes prevailed yesterday as the Sonoma County Planning Commission delayed a decision on one name for the road from Petaluma to the Shoreline Highway at Bodega.

Commission Chairman Robert S. Lipman said businesses along the road had requested that it be changed to one name since the many name changes now are confusing.

The road name changes as it wanders from Petaluma through each hamlet to the coast. Its names include Bodega Avenue, Bodega Highway, Two Rock Road and Petaluma-Valley Ford Road.

According to Lipman, the Petaluma Chamber of Commerce had suggested Bodega Avenue, Valley Ford residents urged retaining the name Petaluma-Valley Ford Road and residents of Two Rock asked that their community's name be included in any new name.

The commission asked that the Petaluma Planning Commission hold a hearing on new name proposals and send a recommendation to the Jan. 7 meeting of the county planners when it will be considered again.

Welfare Payment Approved For Teacher's Vacation

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Alameda County attorney's office says it will go to court to oppose a state official's ruling that in some instances teachers must be paid welfare money during their two-month vacations.

That declaration came Thursday after Maurice Rosen, a hearing officer for the State Department of Welfare, ruled that an $11,000-a-year Oakland teacher was entitled to $172 a month last July and August in Aid to Families with Dependent Children funds.

Rosen's ruling was ratified in Sacramento by Robert Martin, the department's director, and the county attorney's office said that made it a "precedent setting part of the state's welfare regulations."

The woman elementary school teacher could not be identified by law. She is 33, separated from her husband and the mother of two children.

Although she was hired at an annual salary, she was paid in 10 equal installments from September through June.

In contending she met state regulations for welfare eligibility, she said she had less than $600 in personal property and that the house she owns could not be legally considered as offsetting.

Usually, she said, she budgeted her annual salary for 12 months, but this time she made a house down payment instead.

Because she has not been divorced, there is no court order for the absent father to help support the children or pay alimony.

The county asserted she was not eligible for welfare since her annual salary exceeds her needs under the AFC formula.

Rosen overruled that, pointing out that under state regulations, income "is to be counted in the month it is received regardless of the period over which it is accrued."

In saying the county attorney's office would go to court, a spokesman declared that if teachers took advantage of the ruling statewide it could cost state counties millions of dollars.

Martin, the state director, ratified the decision but asked for a review to see if an alternate decision is possible.

Johnston Found Guilty By Jury

A jury in Marin Superior Court Wednesday convicted Daniel John Johnston, 21, of the burglary of the Citadel Nightclub in San Rafael on Dec. 11, 1969.

Judge E. Warren McGuire agreed to hear a motion for a new trial on Dec. 11.

A codefendant, Robert Lee Sisler, 21, also of San Rafael, pleaded guilty earlier this year to the burglary charge and has already served a 90-day jail sentence.

Potentially Lethal Necklaces Sought

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Necklaces made in South Africa and sold in Maryland, were being sought today by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA), which warns the jewelry is made of potenitally deadly "jequirty" beans.

The beans, very small, shiny red or orange with black tips at each end, cause vomiting, convulsions, and death within 12 days if they are eaten, an FDA spokesman said.

CREATORS OF WILSON'S WORLD

Mill Valley author Edith T. Hurd reads from her newest book, "Wilson's World," while her husband, Clement, illustrates the talk with drawings. The Hurds presented the program yesterday to about 30 Mill Valley children and their parents at the Mill Valley Library. The book, which tells how Wilson paints a world, only to have it fill up with people and pollution, will be published by Harper and Row in the fall of 1971. The program was presented in celebration of National Book Week, which ends tomorrow.

Highway Accident Is Fatal

A 19-year-old Antioch woman, attempting to cross Highway 101 in Novato on foot yesterday, was struck by a truck and died hours later at Marin General Hospital.

The California Highway Patrol identified her as Debra Kay Quick.

Officers theorized Miss Quick had been let off where Highway 37 enters Highway 101, and was attempting to hitchhike when a man stopped in the center divider strip because he had dropped a cigarette into his lap.

Miss Quick, apparently thinking he had stopped to give her a ride, darted out into the northbound traffic, the patrol said, and ran into the side of a pickup truck driven by Forrest O. Young, 61, of Santa Rosa.

Officers said it was dark when the accident occurred at 5:20 p.m. and several other motorists narrowly missed hitting her.

Miss Quick was taken to Marin General Hospital by amublance and died at 1:50 a.m. today of massive head injuries.

She is survived by her mother, Lucille, of Antioch. Funeral arrangements were pending today at Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael.

She was the county's 37th traffic fatality this year, compared to 32 at this time last year.

School Report Goes Astray

Some 20,000 copies of a report to citizens by the San Rafael City Schools went out by mail last week, but an undetermined number reached addressees in Tamalpais High School District while some San Rafael residents did not receive the publication.

Supt. John F. Plank said today the mix-up is being checked out by his office.

Copies of "San Rafael School Report" — which cost $912 — were mailed to residents of Kentfield and Greenbrae, including the portion of Greenbrae which is in the City of Larkspur. None went to the San Quentin area, which is within the San Rafael High School District, a spot check disclosed some residents in San Rafael itself did not recieve copies.

Plank said the mailing was included in the contract for printing the eight-page tabloid-sized report, and was not done by the schools office. He said it was learned subsequently that the mailer used a list classified by post office zip code, and by error had the "94904" code area listed as "94901." The San Rafael Post Office distributed in Kentfield-Greenbrae with 94904 code, whereas 94901 is the home-delivery code in San Rafael itself south of Puerto Suello Hill.

The contract was for printing and distribution of 23,000 copies, but Plank said this included extras for distribution to school personnel and probably about 20,000 were mailed.

Two years ago, a special census showed 17,200 households in the San Rafael High School District. A breakdown of the number of households from this year's census has not yet been issued, but the school population has remained virtually constant the past two years so the increase apparently would not be great.

The printing and distribution contract was with the Pacific Sun, which shares a printing plant in Northgate Industrial Park with the Novato Advance, at a price of $511 plus $49.47 for address labels and $351.82 postage.

Crafts Shop Plans Are Turned Down

The Fairfax Planning Commission last night turned down a proposal for a crafts shop at 161 Bolinas Road.

Secretary Ernestine Healy said the vote was 5-0, Harold S. Lezzini abstaining, to turn down the request by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Perry to open a shop selling leather clothes and Indian jewelry and artifacts.

The couple had planned to use the front half for the shop and live in the back half, but the commission turned them down on the grounds that the proposed new zoning ordinance disignates the area for apartments, not stores, Mrs. Healy said.

The planning commission granted a conditional zoning permit to Richard Lash for an electronics development laboratory at 8 Bolinas Road.

It asked the city council if it should review a 1968 traffic circulation study in view of changed traffic patterns since that year.

Bishops Reject Any Communion Changes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Conference of Catholic Bishops, heeding protests from laymen disturbed by many changes in traditional church practices, has rejected a proposed modification of the communion rite.

The conference failed to approve the change in a 115-107 vote in a closed meeting Thursday. A two-thirds vote, or 148 votes, was required for passage.

Triumph Stolen

His 1961 Triumph, valued at $500, was taken from where he parked it at the northend of East Francisco Boulevard between 7:30 a.m. and 2 p.m yesterday, Douglas Clarak McGowan of 14 Madeleine Lane, San Rafael, reported to police.

3,700 Receive Shots To Combat Rubella

The first week of Marin County's campaign against rubella ended today with more than 3,700 students and preschool children immunized.

About 200 students and other pre-school children were immunized this morning at Greenbrae school, said County Health Officer Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht. Wolfe Grade and Adaline E. Kent were also scheduled for immunization today.

Yesterday was the largest single day so far in the campaign when 1,356 children were immunized at Coleman, Our Lady of Mount Carmel and Park Schools.

Dr. Albrecht stressed that youngsters need not be enrolled in the schools where the clinics are being held. She said that she hoped to immunize 80 per cent of the county's 47,000 children between ages 1 and 11 in the month-long campaign.

Due to the Thanksgiving holiday, clinics will be held only three days next week. The schedule is:

MONDAY — Granada School in Corte Madera at 9 a.m.; San Clemente School at 10:15 a.m.; Neil Cummins School at 11:30 a.m. and 1 p.m.

TUESDAY — Henry Hall School at 9 a.m.; St. Patrick's School at 10 a.m.; Larkspur-Corte Madera School at 1 p.m.; Ross School at 2 p.m.

WEDNESDAY — Glenwood School at 9 a.m.; San Pedro School at 10:30 a.m.; Santa Venetia School at 1 p.m.; 3-R School at 2 p.m.

No clinic is scheduled for Thursday or Friday, but they will resume on Monday, Nov. 30, and continue through Dec. 15.

Judge Wilson Overruled In Osuna Retrial

A higher court has ruled that Marin Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson must allow testimony about an earlier crime into the penalty phase trial of convicted murderer Marc C. Osuna.

Judge Wilson had ruled that testimony regarding a Sacramento burglary in which guns were stolen which were later used in the holdup and murder could not be introduced into this new trial.

NAMES AT ISSUE

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales said yesterday that the judge's ruling made on the basis that the names of the three prospective witnesses had not been given to the defense attorney before the trial started, had been overruled by the district court of appeals.

Osuna and Jack R. Gorman were convicted of the slaying of a San Rafael bartender during the 1965 Labor Day holdup of the Mission Inn Tavern.

The California Supreme Court upheld their convictions but ordered a new trial to determine if the two, held in San Quentin's death row since their earlier trial, will receive life sentences or the death penalty.

Osuna's retrial, which started almost two weeks ago, was to resume today with former bar owner Leo Albertoni scheduled to take the stand.

SHOOTING WITNESS

During the earlier trial Albertoni testified that bartender Mario Ferrari died after being shot when he tried to escape during the holdup.

The testimony about the Sacramento Burglary is to come later in the trial.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Ernest C. Zunino is prosecuting the case, and Osuna is being defended by Los Angeles attorney Ernest L. Graves, who was appointed for him.

Gorman is scheduled to be tried separately sometime next year.

Proposals For Nike Land Are Discussed

San Rafael City Mgr. James H. McCown told Black Canyon Homeowners Association members last night about proposals that the city buy undeveloped land near the Nike missile site above the canyon.

Association members took no formal stand, but generally favored city plans to use the area for recreation. One question raised was whether traffic would increase on Mountain View Avenue, according to Bettie B. Cooper, association vice president.

The association also heard Pacific Gas and Electric Co. officials on the cost of undergrounding utility lines to the homes, but made no decision.

The members unanimously voted to send a flier to every home in the area, stressing the need to observe speed limits, cautioning youngsters to walk on the sidewalks rather than in streets, and reminding of dog control laws.

The association decided formation of a proposed youth group was not possible under the homeowner group's bylaws.

Lands Agency Gives Permit For A Walkway On Creek

I-J Special Report

LOS ANGELES — The state Lands Commission yesterday granted a permit to a Corte Madera homeowner for a walkway and float on Corte Madera Creek, and settled an old dispute over the boundary lines of the 109-acre Shellmaker Inc. property on the east side of the Petaluma River at Black Point.

James J. Menke was granted a five-year permit for the walkway and float in Greenbrae.

The commission voted to ask Gov. Ronald Reagan to accept an agreement that the last natural high water mark —from days before the shoreline was diked — would be recognized as the boundary line of the Shellmaker property.

The Black Point Improvement Association and Southern Sonoma County residents successfully fought last year to prevent rezoning of Shellmaker's land for industrial use.

The lands commission also granted the state Division of Highways use of a quarter-acre of state tidelands for construction of a new bridge across Sonoma Creek near the City of Sonoma.

Pair Convicted In Buse Killing

EVERETT, Wash. (UPI)— The 27-day trial of Thomas E. Braun and Leonard Maine ended here Thursday with their conviction of first-degree murder, kidnaping and robbery.

The jury will meet Monday to decide whether Braun and Maine will be sentenced to life imprisonment or death.

The two Ritzville, Wash., men were convicted of the 1967 murder-kidnap of Mrs. Deanna Buse, 22, Monroe, Wash. Braun, 21, and Maine, 22, were extradited from California to stand trial here.

They were found guilty of kidnaping Mrs. Buse, taking her to a secluded area near Echo Lake and fatally shooting her. Braun was accused of the shooting and Maine was named as na accessory.

Nader Campaign For Public Law

NEW YORK (UPI)—Ralph Nader, criticizing lawyers and law students for lacking a "tradition of sacrifice," has urged them to donate $500 a year to establish a $500,000 pool for a public interests law firm.

The consumer crusader told a symposium at the New York City Bar Association Thursday the new "breeder" law firm was needed because "the crisis in society has never been greater, the capacity for planetary destruction has never been greater."

At the same time, Nader said the "capability, talent and affluence for dealing with problems have never been greater, either." Nader, a lawyer himself, urged the legal profession to "focus on the irresponsive power which, like an epidemic, is sweeping the country,"

Group Will Attempt To Save Trees

Spurred into action by the cutting of two clumps of bay trees, an ad hoc committee of Casa Marinwood residents last night decided to meet with county officials to save remaining trees.

"We understand that the Roundtree developers have indicated there will be no further cutting," said L. M. Fox of 70 Grande Paseo. However, Fox said, 40 or 45 residents of the Casa Marinwood development decided last night to talk with county planners, supervisors and attorneys, and the president of U.S. Development Corp. to make sure there is no more cutting.

The movement to protect the trees along an old creek bank began Saturday when trees were cut down because building sites in the Roundtree development had to be shifted into the tree area in two spots to permit access by emergency fire vehicles.

The Independent-Journal erroneously reported yesterday that the trees were cut to make room for removal of buildings.

The committee set no date for its next meeting, Fox said.

Chase Ends With Arrest

After a chase at speeds up to 90 miles an hour on Francisco Boulevard at 10:30 p.m. yesterday, a 20-year-old man was arrested on suspicion of reckless driving and possession of dangerous drugs and marijuana, San Rafael police reported.

Ronald Elliott Bortfield of no known address, was booked into Marin County Jail and held to appear this afternoon in Marin Municipal Court.

Police saw two motorcycles racing down Grand Avenue and turn southbound on Francisco Boulevard. The motorcycles passed two cars, one on the left and one on the right side of the cars. Police chased them at speeds up to 90 miles an hour and through the stop sign at Bellam Boulevard. One turned west and Bortfield turned east where he stopped at the market at Bellam and Lisbon Street.

Police found a vial of 45 red capsules and a cigarette of green vegetable matter thought to be marijuana in his jacket pocket.

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

This Type Of Hand Will Lead The Best Of Players Astray

The national bridge tournament scheduled to begin today in Houston will give several thousand bridge experts the chance to go wrong on the kind of hand shown today. Only a sleepy expert would misplay the hand at rubber bridge, but many wide-awake players would go down in a tournament.

Opening lead — ◇ J

DOESN'T MATTER

West leads the jack of diamonds, and South wins with the ace no matter which kind of bridge he is playing. In a tournament, South would want to try for an overtrick by way of a successful trump finesse. Declarer would therefore lead a spade to dummy's king and would return the nine of hearts for a finesse.

West takes the king of hearts, cashes a diamond trick and then leads a spade to dummy's ace. As a result, the defenders are in position to cash a spade trick when East gets in with the ace of clubs. They take a trick in each suit, and South is down one.

DIFFERENT STORY

There is a different story to tell at rubber bridge. South sees the danger of opening up the spades and sees also that he can afford to lose a trump trick.

After taking the ace of diamonds, South leads a low heart to dummy's nine. When this holds, declarer returns the queen of hearts from dummy. West takes the king of hearts (it does him no good to hold off again), cashes a diamond and then leads a spade.

MORE TRUMPS

Dummy wins with the king of spades and leads a trump to permit declarer to draw two more rounds of trumps. South then knocks out the ace of clubs and still has the ace of spades in dummy to serve as an entry and to stop the defenders from winning a spade trick.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠ — 7 6 3
♥ — A J 10 5 2
♦ — A 5
♣ — Q 6 4

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one heart or pass on this borderline hand.

The ten of hearts is the card that would influence many experts to open with one heart. If the hearts were A-J-6-5-2 or the like, very few would consider the hand worth an opening bid.

Californian Named To House Post

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Veteran Congressman Chet Holifield was elected by unanimous voice vote Wednesday as chairman of the House Government Operations Committee, succeeding Rep. William L. Dawson, D-Ill., who died Nov. 9.

The California Democrat, who was re-elected Nov. 3 to a 15th term in Congress, was the ranking Democrat behind Dawson on the committee. He will serve as chairman for the remainder of the 91st Congress that ends this year and is expected to be named to the post again at the start of the new 92nd Congress in January.

REAL ESTATE OPPORTUNITY

In the past year, our investors acquired in excess of $6,000,000 of land thru the ARGUS office. The continuing demand of our investors has created an opening for a land or acreage oriented sales-person. Applicants must be licensed and should be prepared to devote the majority of their efforts to listing rural properties in Marin, Sonoma, Napa, and Solano counties. We prefer a seasoned land man, but will consider substituting drive and ambition for that requirement. We offer a generous commission schedule, an atmosphere of stimulating real estate activities, and congenial co-workers.

Please call Jim Redding at 897-6127 to arrange a personal interview.

DEMOCRATS AND REPUBLICANS AGREE
THAT a home located on top of Joelle Heights on what could be 5 lots is a good buy at $35,000. Breath-taking view from this shaked roof "mini-mansion".

THAT you can still buy a 4 bedroom home for $21,000 in good ole Petaluma. Real sharp!

THAT here is your opportunity to get a "real buy" on this 5¾ acre ranch located on Bodega Ave. in town. There's a solid 3 bedroom home and lots of barn, too. Just reduced to settle estate. Was $32,500 — now $30,500.

Defense Says My Lai Story Anti-U.S. Lie

FT. HOOD, Tex. (UPI)—The attorney for S. Sgt. David Mitchell told a My Lai court-martial today the South Vietnam massacre was fabricated by those who want to "gut the military."

"I have read until I'm disgusted all the details about a wholesale massacre at My Lai, "said defense attorney Ossie Brown, a civilian from Baton Rouge, La.

"I contend this is an attempt by some segments of our country to gut the military and when you gut the military, you gut this country. Everytime I look around some liberal bird is making a speech or writing a book about it trying to destroy the Army," he told a seven-man court-martial panel.

Mitchell, 30, of St. Francisville, La., is charged with assault with intent to murder 30 South Vietnamese civilians in the small hamlet March 16, 1968.

Brown also told the jury in his summary statements, "God forbid that any jury would find me guilty and destroy my future based on the kind of evidence the government has presented."

Brown also said he was "aghast and appalled" that the prosecution in Mitchell's trial introduced only three witnesses.

"This is not evidence that I would want to be convicted on," he said. "This is his (Mitchell's) life. This is his love. To convict this man on the evidence presented isn't right. It can't be right."

Prosecutor Capt. Michael Swan contended Mitchell's version of the My Lai incident was faulty.

"It is the government's contention that the evidence taken as a whole shows something highly out of the ordinary took place at My Lai and that Sgt. Mitchell took part in it," he said. "It is inherently incredible that he could have been where he said he was and his testimony be true."

Kilauea Volcano Eruption Hits Road

HILO, Hawaii (UPI)—Fiery fingers of lava wiped out six miles of road in Hawaii Volcanoes National Park and cut across a parking lot in the latest eruption of sporadic Kilauea Volcano.

Park rangers feared that as many as 16 miles of the chain of craters road may be made impassable by the vigorous lava flow.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Obese Persons Less Likely To Starve, But More Suffer Stroke

Van Dellen

Obesity is a blessing in two extraordinary circumstances — starvation and exposure to the cold. Excess blubber wraps the tissues in a thermal blanket of high heat-producing metabolic activity. No wonder the fattie's skin temperature is 2 degrees Farenheit higher than his lean counterpart. In contrast, the beanpole must rely on the energy produced by recently eaten food.

Overweight individuals also have ample fat reserves to supply their needs during starvation. Studies have shown that chubbies are capable of withstanding abrupt withdrawal of food and are able to tolerate a low - caloric diet for long periods; almost all their weight loss is fatty tissue.

DR. WALTER M. Bortz, Philadelphia, believes that the obese person differs physically and contitutionally from his lean counterpart. These variations do not cause obesity but are the results of it.

Excessive poundage greatly increases the risk of having a heart attack or stroke. Over half who are obese suffer from hypertension and have high levels of cholesterol. Fifty per cent also are prediabetics and 20 per cent have gout. The majority are short of breath and hive pain in their weight bearing joints. Those weighing more than 300 pounds may have dropsy, but the condition is difficult to recognize because of the fatty tissue.

THEY GAIN weight from overeating but are not necessarily gluttons. An extra pat of butter a day with no increase in activities adds 1 pound per month. By the same token, these individuals must reduce their caloric intake to lose weight. The diet also must be geared to existing condtions such as gout, hypertension and an elevated cholesterol. The latter means no egg yolk, animal fats, pork, ham, bacon, fried foods, butter, cream or lard. Salt should be avoided when the person has hypertension or dropsy.

Replacement foods include spices, herbs, salt substitutes, vegetable oils and spreads. Green vegetables are lowest in calories, and the same can be said of skim milk, geltin, fruits and whole grain cereals.

WHITE PATCHES

MRS. S.L. writes: My 17-year-old son develops white spots on his face when the sun hits him. I've consulted several doctors but they say nothing helps lack of pigmentation. Can you offer any suggestions?

REPLY

In vitiligo, the white areas contain no pigment and these spots stand out after exposure to the sun because the normal surrounding skin tans. As a rule, they can be camouflaged with cosmetics. The psoralens, taken internally, are the latest remedies. Our leaflet on vitiligo can be obtained by sending stamped, self - addressed with request.

MARKED WEIGHT LOSS

V.R. writes: Aside from cancer, what would cause a serious loss of weight?

REPLY

An overactive thryoid gland, adrenal tumor, hidden infections, worms, malabsorption syndrome, and starvation.

DAILY RADIATION

P.M. writes: Does radiation from TV and fluorescent light encourage cataracts to form?

REPLY

To my knowledge this has never happened.

LAXATIVES

O. B. writes: Is castor oil considered a good cathartic?

REPLY

It is as good as always but we have newer laxatives that are equally effective and more gentle.

Testimony Of Bodies In Ditch At My Lai

FT. BENNING, Ga. (UPI)—A witness in the murder court-martial of 1st Lt. William L. Calley Jr. added a building block to the Army's case today by testifying he saw the bodies of Vietnamese civilians lying in a ditch in the village of My Lai.

Chief prosecutor Capt. Aubrey M. Daniel III, told the six-officer jury in his opening statement the Army would show that Calley ordered members of his infantry platoon to push people into an irrigation ditch, then "ordered them executed."

Calley, 27, is charged with the premeditated murder of 102 civilians while leading his platoon on a search-and-destroy mission of the Vietnamese hamlet that for years had been a Communist military stronghold. But it apparently had been abandoned by North Vietnamese soldiers by March 16, 1968, when the sweep was made.

David B. Hein, 23, of Janesville, Wis., a civilian, who appeared on the stand without a jacket but wearing a sleeveless sweater over wide-striped shirt, said he had been a gunner with the mortar platoon of Charley Company, which also had three infantry platoons—including Calley's.

Hein testified, on cross-examination, that he saw a "boy who appeared to have been hit with shrapnel."

The defense contends that the men, women, and children Calley is accused of murdering could have been killed with bullet-size pieces of shrapnel from American artillery or fire from helicopters.

Hein said he "just glanced at some bodies" lying in a ditch near a trail in the village. He explained he did not examine them because he was carrying a heavy piece of equipment and did not want to pause.

The boy who seemed to have been hit by shrapnel was "torn up real bad," he said.

"I do a lot of hunting and I've seen a lot of animals hit by rifles and they sure as heck don't look nothing like that," he said.

Hein and the witness after him, Fred W. Dustin, 23, of Canoga Park, Calif., testified they had seen bodies lying near a trail at the southern part of the village. That brought to eight the number of witnesses who said they had seen 15-20 bodies lying at that location.

The government has produced 11 witnesses out of a projected 67. None so far has connected the dead with Calley.

Dustin told of seeing an additional group of "about 10" and after passing them, hearing firing. He said he turned around and "they had been shot."

Sgt. Leo M. Maroney, 38, a veteran of 19 years in the Army testified Thursday that the mortar detachment he commanded during the My Lai operation never received a request for fire support that day.

Maroney said, however, the nine men he led "assisted in destroying the buildings and the crops" of the villagers. He also said he had seen 15 to 20 dead men, women and children along the side of a trail on the southern side of My Lai.

After Maroney told about the group of civilian bodies, the prosecutor, Capt. Aubrey M. Daniel III, asked him: "Did you see any live Vietnamese?"

"Yes," said Maroney, "two or three men — and two little girls that we and the artillery forward observer picked up. We kept them with us until we left the village.

"One was in shock. But she finally got all right and started talking. Of course, we couldn't understand her."

TELEVISION REVIEW

Anybody Noticed Reviewer's Bias?

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Arrows in the air:

Has anybody noticed that NBC-TV's "Kraft Music Hall" is doing this season what a lot of shows should do—putting on numerous special-type hours within the series format?

Can anyone figure out why it took ABC-TV so long to drop Tom Jones, whose ratings finally got so low the network simply had to take action? And isn't it interesting that the video audience never fell for all the high-pressure publicity about what a swoon-maker he is?

Isn't it a pity, by the way, that the same network gave up so fast on the variety series of Engelbert Humperdinck, who had low ratings but the kind of likeability, charm and talent that might have been developed into a long-run video success if nurtured?

Does anybody actually watch CBS-TV's "Green Acres"? Or does anyone actually know anyone who knows anyone who watches it?

Isn't it a pity that Howard Cosell's monologues on ABC-TV's Monday night football games are constantly interrupted by the action? But isn't it also undeniable now that lovable, charming Howard is one of the most colorful sportscasters to hit the scene in years?

Can anyone doubt that CBS-TVs' "Gunsmoke" is a great piece of weekly entertainment, and perhaps the best regular series in the history of television? And did you know that it finished No. 1 in the national ratings for the week ending Nov. 8?

Is there a bigger piece of junk on the air than "The Brady Bunch"? Well, maybe. It's sort of a four-way tossup between that series and "Lets' Make a Deal," "The Newlywed Game" and "Hogan's Heroes," which finds amusement in a Nazi-run prisoner-of-war camp.

Whatever happened to NBC-TV's "Julia" in the ratings? Well, what happened is that it is getting statistically roughed up by two hot, head-on competitors, ABC-TV's "Movie of the Week" and CBS-TV's "Hee Haw."

And isn't NBC-TV surprised beyond its wildest dreams at the resurgence of three veteran series—"Ironside," "The Men from Shiloh" (formerly "The Virginian") and the Walt Disney Hour? All have always done well in the ratings, but they are as hot as can be right now, what with the swing back to conservatism in the nation.

Did you know that the trade press reported that ABC-TV's "Marcus Welby, M.D.," the country's most popular series, was turned down by both CBS-TV and NBC-TV, and that ABC-TV wasn't too keen on it at first either?

Is it true that CBS-TV's Jim Nabors is aiming for the first annual George Jessel singing award?

Novato Review Saves Oak Tree

The Novato Plan Review Committee Wednesday called for shifting location of a parking lot to save a large oak tree at the planned Western Hosts Townhouse development, south of Redwood Boulevard, west of Highway 101.

The committee approved plans for a recreation center at the development, one condition being that the center parking lot be moved 13 feet to save the tree.

Committee members also approved site and architectural plans for the city's corporation yard on the south side of Davidson Street, adjacent to the Novato Sanitary District plant, with beige the color for the building.

Pair Pleads Guilty To Holdup Count

Two Santa Rosa men pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Superior Court to a charge of holding up a San Rafael pool hall owner and were sent to state prison, just six weeks after the robbery.

Admitting the Oct. 9 armed robbery were Gilbert Fullam, 25, and John Douglas Renda, 26.

In exchange for their pleas of guilty to armed robbery, the district attorney asked that two counts of assault with a deadly weapon be dismissed, which Judge E. Warren McGuire did.

The two men then waived a referral to the probation department for a pre-sentence report, and Judge McGuire sentenced them to state prison. The term for armed robbery is five years to life.

Fullam and Renda were arrest after a chase from San Rafael to the Petaluma-Point Reyes Road, where they abandoned their car.

They had held up George Lefevre, owner of George's Recreation Parlor, as he got out of his parked car. The bag containing $19,000 which they had taken from Lefevre was recovered by officers.

The pair had fired two shots at pursuers as they fled.

Big Game Fever Is Spreading In Bay Area

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Maybe it's the fact that Stanford is Rose Bowl-bound, but the 1970 Big Game Saturday at Berkeley is causing the kind of wild times in the Bay Area that many thought had disappeared in the long-ago days of the Vow, Wow, Thunder and Wonder Teams.

For instance, two University of California men raided the Stanford campus Thursday and ran into two security guards. And it was a lucky break for them.

Because the Stanford band has been guarding the campus, too, and already has been involved in fist fights with invading California men Monday and Wednesday.

Cal students David W. Peterson and William P. Guzek were released by the guards who found them trying to steal an athletic informational sign.

The constant raids on the Stanford campus aren't surprising. The UC rally committee has offered a prize for the largest and most important item stolen from Stanford.

The band also performed Friday night outside North Beach spots with topless dancers Lola Raquel and Zig Zag Sunny leading the yells. Theyr'e the girls who ambushed Stanford Heisman Trophy hopeful Jim Plunkett on the practice field earlier this season as he blushed and cameras popoed furiously.

Then there's the matter of tickets. The game is a total sell-out and the scalpers are even in business on this one.

In fact, Cal Athletic director Paul Brechler warned Friday that there was a possibility that student rooter tickets and reserve seat tickets were being counterfeited. He asked all those who attend to keep their ticket stubs.

Perhaps the most serious proof that grid fever has hit epidemic form was shown when 11,000 Rose Bowl tickets went on sale at 3 p.m. The line formed the night before and got longer and longer through the morning.

But what might be termed the anti-football forces are hard at work, too.

Sam Goldberg, ex-Kansas U athlete who speaks for the People's Athletic Committee said a summons has been issued to all Yippies to converge on Berkeley for a massive rally at 12 noon Saturday.

The committee, which represents groups such as the Jock-Lib, Women's Lib and Gay Lib, has promised a jog-in around the stadium to protest the "militarism, elitism, sexism and brutality" of football.

There was some confusion as to whether any attempt would be made to interfere with what was happening inside the packed stadium.

BLACKLISTED

Parrish Testifies In Probe Of NFL

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Bernie Parrish, a former Cleveland Browns defensive back who is now writing a book about pro football, told a federal grand jury Thursday he was blacklisted by the National Football League.

After ending his two and one-half hours in the closed hearing room of U.S. District Court here—his second appearance in as many days—Parrish told newsmen he was sure the jury would return indictments when it ends its investigation.

ANTITRUST

The jury, which has heard from several Browns officials and former players since Monday, is looking into possible violation of antitrust laws by the NFL. It was not expected to meet today.

Parrish said he was blackballed and gave the grand jury a list of other players he believes were treated likewise.

It is "inconceivable to me that the jury, when it completes its investigation, will not return indictments," he said.

"It will involve blacklisting of players, the waiver system and other practices," he added.

Browns owner Art Modell, who has not yet been called to testify, charged that Parrish was merely promoting his new book.

PROMOTION

"Mr. Parrish can say anything he wants—and he will—to promote his book which he says will be published," Modell said.

"I do not think it is proper to engage in arguments about facts which the grand jury is in the process of investigating," Modell added.

"Moreover, since the proceedings of the grand jury are not a matter of public record, it is impossible for me to respond in public to whatever former Browns' players may have testified to in secret proceedings."

Modell denied his team has violated any laws.

Parrish said he believes his activities as vice president of the NFL Players' Association caused him to be blacklisted. Another member of the Browns defensive backfield, Ross Fichtner, however, told the jury Wednesday he could offer no evidence of such practices.

BEACH

Walter Beach, yet another Cleveland defensive back, spent three hours in the jury room Thursday and said he expects to be called again.

Beach told newsmen little about his testimony, but indicated he had discussed possible blacklisting as well as racial discrimination and gambling.

The grand jury is expected to spend a month investigating pro football.

TAKING IT EASY — Heavyweight champion Joe Frazier strolled through downtown Detroit yesterday, the day after he defended his title. In one hand he carried a guitar, in the other he dangled the gloves he used to knock out challenger Bob Foster in the second round.

Frazier's Manager Talks Retirement

Says Clay Last Foe For Champ

DETROIT (UPI)—Joe Frazier's manager, Yank Durham, says the heavyweight champion's last fight will be against Cassius Clay "win, lose or draw."

Durham has insisted all along that Frazier will fight only until he builds up a retirement cushion, and a bout with Clay might provide a $2. million payday, the final stuffing for the cushion.

REGARDLESS

"After Clay, Joe will retire win, lose or draw," said Durham. The manager stressed that losing and drawing weren't the outcome he expected for the bout that is tentatively scheduled for February.

"I don't know about that," drawled Frazier. "I'd like to fight another year or so. I don't know what that talk about losing to Clay is either. There's no notion in my mind that I might lose."

"It don't make no difference whether Joe wants to quit or not," Durham explained. "If I don't let him fight, he won't fight. It's in the contract."

Before a showdown is possible between Clay and Frazier, two more obstacles must be overcome. Clay must beat Oscar Bonavena on Dec. 7 and then avoid going to jail to serve a five-year sentence for draft evasion that is being appealed in the Supreme Court.

NO REST

Frazier and Bob Foster have both left town as champions, but neither one will have much time to rest. Frazier defended his world heavyweight title for the first time Wednesday night by knocking out Bob Foster, the light heavyweight champion at 49 seconds of the second round.

"I'm going to keep training every day to keep my weight down," the 26-year-old Frazier

SEALS DUMPED

Trip Is Turning Into Disaster

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The current seven-game road trip is turning out to be a disaster for the California Golden Seals.

With two games remaining on the eastern swing, the Seals, who started the trip with a club record four-game winning streak, have a 1-4 mark. The latest defeat came Thursday night, 6-2, at the hands of the Philadelphia Flyers.

Ironically, the only team California has been able to beat on the trip is the defending Stanley Cup champion Boston Bruins.

And the loss also hurt the Seals in the National Hockey League's Western Division standings. They muffed a chance to clear out of the cellar and into a sixth place tie with the Pittsburgh Penguins. California is 5-11-2 and Pittsburgh 4-7-6.

For the Flyers, the victory, sparked by Jim Johnson's hat-trick performance, moved them up a notch into third place in the Western Division, six points behind the Chicago Black Hawks.

Johnson had a great shot at going over the hat-trick mark as he rapped in his three goals in the first two periods, but then Bobby Clarke, Serge Bernier and Bill Lesuk picked up the Flyers' scoring pace.

For California, Bill Hicke and Gerry Ehman lit the red light.

Score by periods:

California	0	1	1	—2
Philadelphia	2	2	2	—6

First period—1, Philadelphia Johnson 2 (Ashby, Lesuk) 9:23; 2, Philadelphia Johnson 3 (Ashbee, Bernier) 19:59. Penalties—Lesuk 14:57.

FORD ENDS ITS RACING PROGRAM

DETROIT (UPI) — Ford Motor Co. announced today it was ending its multi-million-dollar racing program, effective immediately — less than one week after Chrysler Corp. drastically cut its racing program for next year.

Earlier American Motors abandoned all racing except for its two-car Trans-Am entry for next season, and General Motors has not competed openly in racing for more than a decade.

The Ford announcement, which surprised the racing sport and the industry, was made by Matthew S. McLaughlin, vice president of sales.

Richey Vs. Rosewall In Key Match At Embassy Tennis

WEMBLEY, England (UPI) —Texan Cliff Richey, the sole American survivor in the $60,000 Embassy Indoor tennis championship, meets Australian Ken Rosewall today for a place in the final and in a match which could make a difference of $8,000.

Richey now has 54 International Lawn Tennis Federation (ILTF) Grand Prix points against Rosewall's 49, so victory for either man is vital with regard to next week's final circuit event at Stockholm where $25,000 awaits the winner and $17,000 the second man from the $150,000, 20 tournament Grand Prix.

IMPORTANT

With this tournament carrying $1,200 for fourth place, $1,800 for third, $4,800 for second and $7,200 for the winner, winning also is important.

Arthur Ashe, Gum Spring, Va., a first-round loser here, has 49 Prix points and is the only other man with a chance of threatening Richey and Rosewall now that Australian Rod Laver has decided to skip Stockholm because of a sore ankle.

Laver meets South African Cliff Drysdale in the other Embassy semi-final.

The 23-year-old Richey, an independent, has earned $65,000 from 40 weeks of tournament play in his best season to date.

"I've trained with this Grand Prix in mind and now I'm enjoying indoor play," he said after beating British lefty Roger Taylor 8-6, 8-9, 6-2 in Thursday's quarter-finals.

The 36-year-old Rosewall is not thinking about defeat. The U.S. Open champion said "all these stories in the press about me being too old are rubbish. I've won a few, you know," he said.

WHIPS PANCHO

The match should help draw a near capacity crowd at the Empire Pool. Rosewall showed he is in top form by turning back Pancho Gonzalez of Los Angeles 6-2, 6-3 in his quarter-final.

Laver showed no ill effects from his ankle injury as he swept aside Ilie Nastase of Romania 6-1, 6-2 with his full repertoire of brilliant stroke-making and should be favorite to defeat Drysdale who beat Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., 9-8, 6-8, 6-3.

The women's semi-final pairings are Billie Jean King, Long Beach, Calif., against Francoise Durr of France and Ann Jones against Virginia Wade in an all British match. The girls are playing for a top prize of $3,120.

Northwestern Coach For All-Star Game

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI)—Northwestern University football coach Alex Agase was named today as an assistant coach for the North team in the American Bowl All-Star Game Jan. 10.

The head coach for the North is Nebraska's Bob Devaney.

Bob Cousy Blacks Out During Royals' Win

NEW YORK (UPI) —Bob Cousy, coach of the Cincinnati Royals, blacked out briefly during the last two minutes of Thursday night's victory over the New York Knicks because of hyper-tension, the club's trainer said today.

"He hasn't felt well for the last two weeks and has a history of hypertension dating back to his coaching days at Boston College," said "Doc" Joe Keefe. "He was unconscious for 20 or 25 seconds. We have been playing poorly this season and he has borne the brunt of the Cincinnati fans' displeasure."

Cousy, who slumped to his knees with 1:51 to go in the Royals' 106-98 victory, was examined by Dr. Andrew Patterson, a Madison Square Garden physician, after the game and pronounced all right. Cousy left the Garden under his own power.

"This has nothing to do with a heart condition and is not serious," said Keefe. "It is a matter of the blood supply leaving the brain due to hypertension. Bob had been taking tests during the last few years but hasn't had any recently."

The Royals' victory over the Knicks was only their sixth of the National Basketball Association season compared to 12 losses.

Les Bingaman Dies At 44

MIAMI (UPI)—Les Bingaman, a special assistant to Miami Dolphins Coach Don Shula, died in his sleep here early today of an apparent heart attack. He was 44.

Bingaman, who has been with the Dolphins since the club was formed in 1966, died almost a year after collapsing on the sidelines of the Orange Bowl during Miami's 27-24 win over the Denver Broncos last Dec. 7.

Bingaman was the Dolphins' defensive line coach until this season, when he was named a special assistant to Shula and player personnel director Jot Thomas.

One of the first of pro football's big, quick defenders, Bingaman was a three-time all-pro with the Detroit Lions in the late 40's and early 50's.

During his playing days as a middle guard, "Bing" tipped the scales at nearly 300 pounds. He was ordered on a severe diet after collapsk

Wimbledon Officials To Talk With Hunt

WEMBLEY, England (UPI) — Wimbledon, which led the fight to bring about open tennis, has again decided on a "go it alone" policy and plans to negotiate independently with the American controlled professional troupe, sources said Thursday night.

The sources, which declined to be named, said the Wimbledon management committee decided to send its chairman, Herman David, to Dallas, next week for negotiaations with multi-millionaire Lamar Hunt.

Hunt controls World Championship Tennis Inc., the group that has 90 per cent of the world's top players under contract.

The WCT is currently in dispute with the International Lawn Tennis Federation over its demands for guarantees to appear in ILTF events next season. WCT plans its own, rical, series of competitions which would leave the majority of ILTF events bereft of star names.

The sources said Wimbledon means to ensure that the stars will perform at the world's premier championship, even thought the ILTF committee is adamantly against tournaments having independent negotiations with the pros.

Rose Bowl 'Decider' Tomorrow

CHICAGO (UPI) — Michigan plays at Ohio State with the Big Ten championship and possibly a Rose Bowl berth at stake and No. 2 ranked Notre Dame entertains No. 7 rated Louisiana State in perhaps the toughest test of the year for the Irish in highlight games on the Saturday college football slate.

The contest at Columbus pairs unbeaten teams in the Big Ten season finale for the first time in 65 years, Michigan 9-0 and Ohio State 8-0, and involves a position high in the ratings, perhaps even the No. 1 spot. Ohio State, a five point favorite who was rated No. 1 most of the season, now holds the No. 4 position and Michigan is No. 5.

Ohio State could clinch the Rose Bowl berth by defeating Michigan, but should the Wolverines trip the Buckeyes for a second straight year, then the Buckeyes and Wildcats would wind up tied for second place.

FISH AND GAME

Pheasant Prospects On Par With 1969

By AL GIDDINGS

Some last minute pheasant news. The season opens tomorrow with prospects rated about the same as last year. An estimated 220,000 hunters last year bagged 740,000 birds. The season will be a month long through Sunday, Dec. 20, in all areas except Imperial and eastern Riverside counties where it remains open through Jan. 3.

The bag limit in the northern area is two males per day Nov. 21 and 22 and four per day for the balance of the season, but the bag limit for the season is 10 birds.

There will be no pheasant tags this year, but a pheasant stamp is required for all hunters. Shooting hours are from 8 a.m. until sunset.

PHEASANTS TAKEN by hunters in California this season will be safe to eat, Gov. Reagan's Task Force on Mercury in the Environment reported this week. Testing of birds will be continued all during the pheasant season according to Dr. Ephraim Kahn, Task Force chairman.

With almost no pheasants in Marin County, you can still get a hunt in here, in case you can't make it up to the Sacramento Valley area. Jim Johnson out at the Pierce Point Pheasant Club near Inverness in West Marin called to say that he will have daily hunts for the unattached hunter at $8 per bird. He will also rent you a dog for the day if desired. It's not a bad deal. A trip with gas, oil, food, lodging, lines to buck, and trespassing problems will still cost you at least $20. See Jim, get two birds for $16 guaranteed and no problems. You can be home by noon.

YOU MIGHT wonder what the passage of Proposition 20 in the recent election might mean to you as a Fish and Gamer. Included in the $60 million in bonds is $6 million for fish and wildlife programs. About $3.5 million is earmarked for fish hatchery buildings generally for catchable trout. The balance of the money will be used mostly for increased access to hunting and fishing areas. Let's hope they use this money wisely.

Duck hunting in the refuges has really been slow. Most of the hunters working the areas have come home skined. Howard Leach of Department of Fish and Game's Sacramento office said he hardly heard a shot at Grey Lodge last Sunday. Reports from Grizzly Island are about the same. There's no shortage of birds, just that they have found the unhunted areas of the refuge, and they will stay until fog, rains and rough weather sets in.

SPEAKING of ducks, I recently received a note from Mr. and Mrs. George Tyhurst of Northbridge who are concerned about the ducks in the Civic Center Lagoon. These people feel that the birds, especially the 100 ducks that live around and in the lagoon, are not getting enough to eat. And that some of those welfare checks be used to feed and propagate the wildlife around the Civic Center! Maybe the Board of Supervisors can come up with an answer. And I wonder what the cafeteria down there does with its leftover bread. Ducks like bread.

Marin County's deer kill as reported this week was 422 bucks as compared to 645 last year. The tag setup this year, plus the shorter season is probably the cause. Warden Russ Ild and I took a quick deer count last Saturday. We counted 160 deer in Cheleno Valley and Salmon Creek in about two hours. We also saw quite a few good bucks.

LASSEN COUNTY had an increased kill from 1428 to 2110, and Modoc from 105 in 1969 to 1423 in 1970. In fact many of the northern counties showed increased kills. Did people save their tags and go north?

FRAZIER

explained. "If the fight does come up against Clay I'll be ready."

A bout with Clay would provide the biggest money attraction in sports history, but Frazier insists, "I don't care if I ever fight Clay. It's not a personal matter of pride or nothing to fight him, but just another payday.

FOR MONEY

"If I fight two other guys, I might make as much as I would fighting him. I've got this job for the money, but if the Clay fight never comes off. I won't mope around. I'll just pick up and fight somebody else."

Although it took three minutes to fully revive Foster after the bout, the 31-year-old resident of Silver Spring, Md., said he will defend his title in 90 days.

"The World Boxing Association told me I had to defend in 90 days against Jimmy Dupree," he said. "I just wish someone will tell me who's going to put on the fight. Dupree's a good fighter, but nobody ever heard of him. To think, I was so close, just a finger snap away from winning the heavyweight title with a right hand in the first round. Even Frazier told me that punch hurt him."

NO MEMORY

However, Foster doesn't remember the second round at all. After the fight was over, he asked one of his handlers, Bill Gore, "Was I counted out on my feet?"

"Son," Gore replied, "you were flatter than a jellyfish."

"I just can't remember the count," Foster said. "I can't remember it at all."

Coach Wired (Bleep) For Sound

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Bill Van Breda Kolff knows just how Bob Cousy feels: relieved.

Van Breda Kolff was wired for sound Thursday night because a Detroit television station is doing a special on him, so he had to refrain from using his usual colorful language as the Detroit Pistons snapped a six-game losing streak with a 112-110 victory over the Phoenix Suns.

BLACKED OUT

Cousy blacked out for a period of about 20 or 25 seconds in the last two minutes of his Cincinnati Royals' 106-98 National Basketball Association victory over the New York Knicks.

Seattle nipped Los Angeles, 111-110, on Garfield Heard's basket with a minute to play in the only other NBA action of the night.

Cousy "hasn't felt well for the last two weeks and has a history of hypertension dating back to his coaching days at Boston College," Royals' trainer Joe "Doc" Keefe said. "This has nothing to do with a heart condition and is not serious.

DIFFERENT

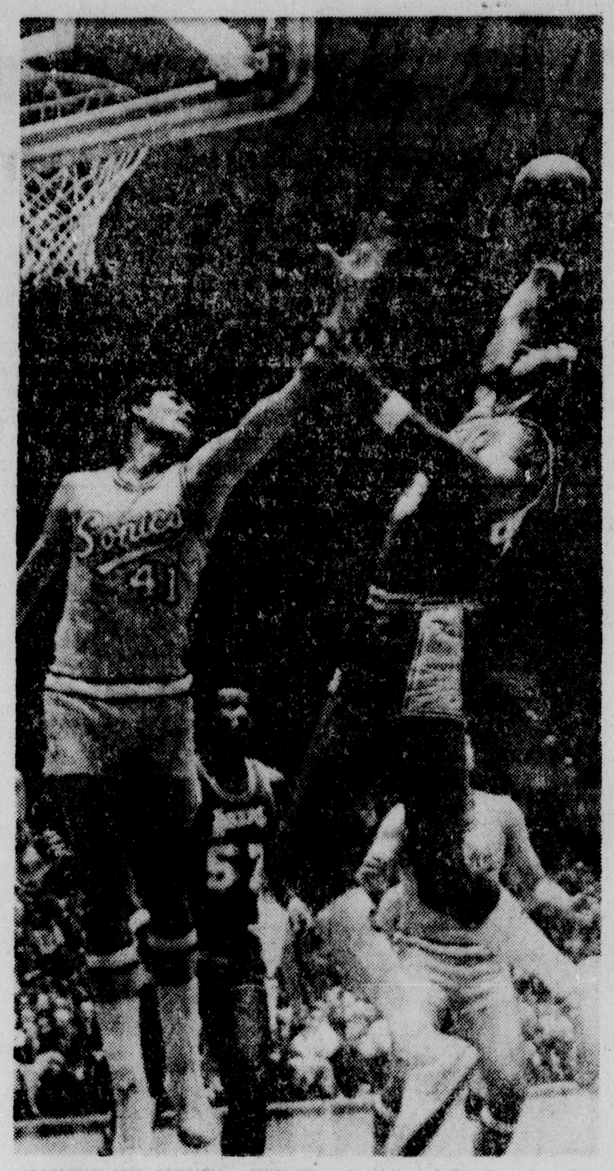
"They're going to have to bleep out most of this," Van Breda Kolff said of the tape made of his reactions during the Pistons' victory.

"I thought something was different about him this game," noted one observer who sat close to Detroit's bench during the game. "He wasn't like he usually is."

Detroit still needed a driving back-handed layup by Steve Mix with only four seconds left to seal the triumph. Mix, Bob Lanier and Terry Dischinger each finished with 17 points while Dave Bing had 19. Dick Van Arsdale had the game's high of 23 points and Clem Haskins, whose shot just before the Buzzer missed, added 21.

Nate Archibald sank a one-hander with 1:40 left to break a 98-98 tie and converted a pair of free throws nine seconds later to seal Cincinnati's victory over New York. Archibald and Tom Van Arsdale each had 22 points for the Royals but Walt Frazier of the Knicks led all scorers with 28.

The Knicks, already without league MVP Willis Reed (bad knee) and Cazzie Russell, (broken wrist) suffered another blow when Dave DeBusschere was forced out of the game after only seven minutes with a badly sprained left ankle. DeBusschere will be examined today to determine the extent of the injury.



MAKING HIS MOVE — Wilt Chamberlain of the Los Angeles Lakers went high over Seattle's Pete Cross to score last night in Seattle. Chamberlain had 32 points, but the Sonics won, 111-110. (UPI Telephoto)

Defensive Specialist Named New San Jose State Coach

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) — San Jose State, a team that can always score points, apparently wants a defense, too.

San Jose State president John Bunzel Thursday announced that DeWayne Dewey King would take over as head coach.

King, 42, had been serving as interim coach since Sept. 29 when head coach Joe McMullen resigned for health reasons.

King is considered a defensive specialisa, a reputation he gained while coaching at the University of Pennsylvania and Rutgers.

Baseball

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Los Angeles Dodgers' newest slugging star, Richie Allen says he has set some sort of personal record for coming to terms with a baseball club and an estimated $100,000 may have had something to do with his early signing.

"This is the earliest I've ever signed," said Allen. "It's also the best contract I've ever been offered and I couldn't be happier."

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John J. Reynolds, attorney for former baseball umpires Al Salerno and Bill Valentine, will meet with general council of the National Labor Relations Board today to discuss the government ruling throwing out his clients' case.

Reynolds said Thursday night that he had not had time to study the government trial examiner's findings, which rejected the Salerno and Valentine charge that they had been fired by the American League because of union organizing activities.

Golf

ATLANTA (UPI) — Ed Griffith will resign as tournament director of the Ladies Professional Golfers Association on Dec. 1. Griffith cited other business offers and a desire to give the LPGA plenty of time to find a successor.

JIM MURRAY

Drinks Are On Me, Says Happy 'Ace'

My late, great friend, the author, Gene Fowler, always wanted to write the definitive book on golf, entitled "How to Make a Hole-in-One." He thought that would put the whole lunatic game in its proper demented perspective — like a book on "How to Grow Tall," or "How to Have Blue Eyes."

But now, I'm in a position to make the book a biography. I, alas!, made a hole-in-one the other day. I am now addressed as "Ace" around the clubhouse.

SOME GUYS waste a hole-in-one. I didn't. I used mine to turn in a nifty 102 for the 18. Without it, I might have had a lousy round.

Most holes-in-one look as if they were diagrammed by Rube Goldberg. I mean, you say: "Ball (a) is struck by club (b) and hits three (c) which sets robin (d) to chirping and resultant sound waves (e) direct flight of ball (f) onto rock (g) which skips it onto pond (h) where it hits fish (i) and squirts onto green (j) where it strikes watering can (k) tipping it over and resulting flood (l) washes it into hole (m)."

MY HOLE-IN-ONE was none of these. It was a carefully thought-out, impeccably-executed classic demonstration of engineering the hole. At address, I pictured myself standing with that pane of glass hung around my neck like those Ben Hogan illustrations. I envisioned my body turn as if I were in a barrel, just like Billy Casper. I started my swing with the pure spasm takeway I have perfected. This was followed by the famous Murray Hip Lock, a technique which is as recognizable to seasoned golfers as the Vardon overlapping grip. My grip, incidentally, was the usual Tension Clutch which has been likened to the grip a guy might have on a prison bedpost when they're trying to drag him to the electric chair.

My downswing, which is known as "Murray's Blur" and which frequently creates a sonic boom, was as usual, initiated with the Shoulder Dip and that well-known component, the Traveling Elbow. They say you have to get the hips out of the way on the downswing, but there's much nonsense promulgated by the teaching pros. I just get the club out of the way.

YOU START the downswing with the now-famous Murray Sway in which you come into the ball like a girl in a grass skirt doing the Hukilau.

It is important that your eyes bulge and your neck cords stick out at impact, and you must shout, "Oh, my God, I came off it!" two-tenths of a second BEFORE impact. This establishes you as a man who knows WHAT he should be doing, only all his muscles have jumped the club. George Plimpton likened it to a Japanese admiral on the bridge shouting instructions down to a drunken crew in the engine room.

The follow-through for a hole-in-one should never be more than two inches. You know, Hogan made only ONE hole-in-one in his entire career, and I can tell him what his trouble is right from here. NEVER let the club drift past horizontal after impact. In fact, a backswing which wouldn't hurt someone who was kissing you in the back of the neck is advised.

MY HITTING action is modeled after captured horse thieves. It's known around the club as "the hanging hip." Both feet are off the ground and twitching violently. The tongue is protruding and the throat rattles. Someone in the crowd usually remarks after I have topped the ball six feet to the front of the tee, "Okay, go cut him down."

I made my hole-in-one at my home course, Riviera. You can always tell a member of Riviera. He looks as if he has just escaped Devil's Island. I once asked Tommy Bolt the best way to play Riviera. "With a crown of thorns," he advised.

I played with Stan Wood, the demon golf coach of USC; Jim O'Hearn, the demon realtor from Malibu, and Dr. Manch Gadwa.

I MADE THE ace on No. 16. I used a Titleist No. 1 ball and a Spalding No. 5 iron. The card lists the hole as 138 yards. The card lies. That's as the crow flies. I have often taken a route to the hole which turned it into 2,000 yards and all carry. It has more sand around it than Cairo.

I came to 16 with 87 shots, and left it with 88. My momentum carried me through the last two holes in 7-7.

At great moments in history, some people fail to grasp the significance, particularly today. If Alexander Graham Bell invented his telephone today he would get a recording. "The number you have reached is not in working order. Please be sure you have the right number."

SO, WHEN I hit my hole-in-one, you know what Jim O'Hearn said? "Nice punt shot," is what he said. Stan was yawning. "That has a chance to be on," he said.

The odds against a guy hitting a hole-in-one are 6,000 to 1. Lloyds of London used to put up $50,000 against a pro hitting one, until they found out it would be cheaper insuring leaking boats in ice fields.

My hole-in-one cost me $77.92 for drinks (Dean Martin had already gone home), a headache, and I also put a cut in the ball. Also, I am not speaking to all the people who said, "How many sand traps did it run through?" Or "No. 16? What did you use—a driver?"

Never mind, I now know exactly how to hit a hole-in-one. I am waiting for a call from Ed Sullivan and Mark McCormack and President Nixon and I intend to make it into a movie with Doris Day, and market it in book form along with my other instructional works, "The Topped Shot and Other Communicable Diseases," and "The Eight-Piece Swing."

Player's Death Ends Grid Game

JEFFERSON CITY, Tenn. (UPI)—Sixteen-year-old Steve Gladson was injured in the first quarter of the annual Tomato Bowl high school football game Thursday night and died en route to a hospital.

His teammates on the Rogersville squad were told of the death at halftime and refused to continue the game.

"They just couldn't play any more," said Rogersville High Principal Norman Tunnell. "They wouldn't."

Rogersville was leading Knoxville Catholic 14-6 at the time. Officials declared the game "no contest."

Gladson, a defensive end, died of apparent head injuries.

It was the second tragedy to hit the Rogersville football team in the past year. Last season, David Gladson, a cousin to Steve and highly-touted prep player, was killed in an automobile wreck.

Twenty-four-year-old Chuck Freitas defeated two-time defending champion Ken Harquist, 2 and 1 last Sunday for the club championship at San Geronimo Golf Course. In the first flight finals, Larry Gapinski downed Mike O'Donnel, 6 and 5.

A HOLE-IN-ONE contest will be held tomorrow at Indian Valley Golf Course, from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m., the proceeds from which will go to benefit the recreation department of the Marin Juvenile Court Auxiliary.

Cost of the contest is 50 cents per shot, with merchandisep rizes going to the winners.

AROUND 100 players are expected to compete Sunday in the second annual Rohnert Park Invitational tournament. Club pro Bob Porter reported 62 had signed up as of last Monday.

THREE MARINITES walked off with top prizes last week in the first California Jewelers' golf championship at Lake Tahoe. Milt Woods of Terra Linda, a member of the Mill Valley Golf Club, took low gross honors, while Larry Callan of San Rafael had the low net score. Bill Carewe of Ross was second low gross.

Big Game Weekend On West Coast

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

It's "Big Game" week in the West where victory over the backyard neighbor is almost as good as going to the Rose Bowl.

There can be only one Rose Bowl representative and Stanford locked up things for 1970 two weeks ago. That leaves the Indians, upset losers to the Air Force last week, merely playing out the string Saturday against California.

While the Indians, favored by 10 points, are battling the Golden Bears before a full house of 77,000 at Berkeley, Oregon and Oregon State renew the Far West's second oldest rivalry at Eugene. Washington takes on Washington State at Spokane and Southern California plays UCLA in Los Angeles.

FAVORITES

The oddsmakers pick Oregon closest to unbeaten Stanford in the Paciifc 8 Conference with a 4-2 record, by five points over Oregon State, Washington by 15 over WSU and USC by six over UCLA.

Generally, adjusting a line on such traditional rivalries as these is risky business for an oddsmakers. More often than not the underdogs have won, so you bets your money and makes your choice.

Stanford is 8-2 overall after winning six of six conference games to take the Pac 8 title for the first time since 1951. Ordinarily the struggle with Cal is the "Big Game" of the year for the Indians, but it really isn't this year.

"There is nothing bigger than the Rose Bowl," coach John Ralston said. "That doesn't mean we are looking past Cal to New Year's Day. Not by a long shot. Our rivalry with Cal is in a class all by itself."

TOUGH JOB

California (5-5) would like nothing better than to upset Stanford, but to do it the Golden Bears have to contain Jim Plunkett.

"You never can hope to really stop Plunkett," said Cal coach Ray Willsey. "The best you can hope for is to keep him from hurting you to a point from which you can't come back."

Cal's problems with Plunkett, college football's all-time passing and total offense champion, figure to be even tougher with the prospect that two regular defensive backs may not be able to play.

The Oregon-Oregon State rivalry dates back to 1894 and encompasses 73 games. The Stanford-California rivalry is two years older but covers 72 games, although a number of the early day games actually were rugby.

The Webfoots had a chance to make it a real banner year in 1970 but they failed to beat such easy rivals as Illinois and Army. Instead of going into the season finale at 8-1 they are 6-2-1. Still, though, victory over the Beavers, (5-5), whom they have beaten only once in the last 11 years, would vindicate the Ducks and make their followers forget the fact they didn't make it all the way to the league title and Pasadena.

FOUTS

Dan Fouts is the big man on the Eugene campus, and well he might be. The soph quarterback burst onto the scene from nowhere to prove the Oregon leader and his passing ability makes the Ducks favorites almost every time they take the field.

Washington could cap its comeback year with victory over poor Washington State. The Huskies, 1-9 a year ago, are in position to make it a 6-4 season as they take on the Cougars, 1-9, for the 63rd time in their rivalry.

In four of the last five years the season closer featuring USC and UCLA has decided the Pac-8 title. The Bruins won the game and the title five years ago, but USC took the game three of four times and the league championship ever since. Their renewal Saturday is the 40th.
